Servants in India

Indian housekeeping is at once very simple and paradoxically complex. The fact that all servants are on board wages, from the moonshee, who takes a tenporary engagement as secretary or tutor, down to the humblest punkah, wallah, or grass cutter, renders it comparatively easy for a master to know his expenses. But then there is something bewildering in the subdivision of labor. in having to harbor tailors and cobblers, washermen and watchmen, and florists and sweepers. It is perplexing to find that every servant so well WHOLE NO. 1268 knows his or her place that a palki searce would scorn to fetch a pitcher of water; that hereditary poultry keepers attend the bens, herditary grooms attend the horses, and not a meal can be cooked or a carpet spread except by the agency of somebody whose caste points him out as the appropriate person to perform the
