OHIO REDEEMED!

Iowa All Right!

Nebraska in Rank!

GLORY ENOUGH FOR ONE DAY!

The Democrat's Surrender is Despair!

WHERE IS THAT TIDAL WAVE, AND THE DEMOCRATIC ROOSTERS?

NOW FOR

PENNSYLVANIA!

Figures are useless, and details a vexation and vanity, when you want to bolster. We will read along the official results of last Tuesday's election as soon as received. Enough for the present is the certainty that we have elected Hays in Ohio by five thousand majority, and have secured both branches of the Legislature; but we have carried Nebraska solely by ten thousand.

What has been done in these three States we can do in Pennsylvania, and more. The Democracy of this State volunteered as wet nurse to the Ohio rag baby, and now that the little illegitimate thing is dead, they have nothing but their shame left. Hold them to the record made at Erie, Republicans! They deliberately abandoned their honor and adopted a base born bastard begotten in the stews of Ohio, and are no longer entitled to the countenance of virtuous or honest men. Charge on them their dishonesty, their stupidity, their crime in abandoning a safe and honest currency for a sham, a fraud, a financial swindle. Don't let them dodge the issue of their own making as they are trying to do, and we will sweep the State with Hartranft and Rawle and an honest currency, by fifty thousand of a majority.

That tidal wave turns out to have been a mere ripple on the surface of the political ocean. Iowa, Nebraska, and Ohio, all carried on Tuesday last, by decisive Republican majorities show how rapidly the waters are receding. After the second day of next week, all that will be left of it is the "Parliament of Democracy" and a few "democrats" from the mop.

OHIO. IOWA. MAINE. NEBRASKA. NEW MEXICO. NORTH CAROLINA. RHODE ISLAND. NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The following touching obituary is from the New York World:

DIED.—At Cincinnati, October 12, of Hayes fever, Rag Baby, only surviving child of Wash McLean, aged 3.65 years. Friends in Pennsylvania will please accept this intimation.

It was a very happy baby, and his death was a great loss to his friends. He had a very kind and loving mother, and a very kind and loving father.

NEBRASKA has fallen into ranks with a Republican majority of about ten thousand. Much hard work was done there as in Ohio, and with a similar result. The vote was large, the contest spirited, and there as everywhere, when they work for it, the Republicans win.

ATTORNEY GENERAL Samuel E. Dimick died at Harrisburg on Monday night the 11th, of pneumonia after an illness of but a few hours. His sudden death was a surprise throughout the State, and he is universally regretted and lamented. He was a gentleman of the most exalted character, and of large legal abilities. He proved a safe and careful legal adviser to Governor Hartranft by whom his loss will be severely felt, as well as by the entire people of the Commonwealth who had learned to respect and rely upon his judgment.

WHAT has become of Curtis and Calvin and Lowry and Landon who so valiantly marched into Ohio to help our Old Bill Allan's rag baby? We saw Calvin in Pittsburgh on last Tuesday night, hunting a small knot hole to creep through, about the time the lightning was flashing Hays' majority over the country. Won't some statistic figure out for us how many votes McClure's man Andy made among the Buckeyes for inflation?

THANK the good Lord, Sham Carey was buried out of sight forever on Tuesday last. We owe the Democracy one, for giving the Republicans of Ohio a chance to do that job. Now let the Republicans of Pennsylvania lay the apostate Andy Curtin in the same dishonored grave and the world will be purer and better, that two such shams will be heard of no more forever.

The Democratic papers just now, are "better nor a creek." Such whistling to keep their courage up, such a variety of tunes and tones to that whistle, such desperate efforts of some of the worst fooled fellows to pucker, preparatory to the whistle, such discordant melancholy melodies as they do whistle, no fellow ever heard before. It won't do gentlemen. This scare is too real to be whistled away. Hartranft is going to be elected by a rousing majority, and you know it, and so do the "boys." No, no, your courage is at too low an ebb to be whistled up. Its fun for you to know, but then, as its rather a melancholy thing for you to do, under the circumstances, its no use your know, we won't insist upon it, as a mark of courage or of stomach for the coming fight.

We care not to number our columns with puzzling rows of figures relative to the Ohio election, suffice it to say we have carried the State by five thousand majority, after the fiercest fight and the best contested struggle ever made in a State campaign. The Republicans of Ohio made a gallant fight, and won a decisive victory, in the face of odds that looked fearful at the outset. With the Democrats in control of the State, which they had outrageously gerrymandered, with the current of last year's Democratic victories ranging breast high against them, with the panic and the financial troubles of the country charged upon them as the responsible party in national power, with a seductive but rascally proposition to the people to vote themselves more greenbacks, the intelligent Republicans of the Buckeye State steadily stood their ground, and by a gallantly triumphant carried the State, electing not only their Governor and Lieutenant Governor, but also securing decisive majorities in both branches of the Legislature.

This victory in Ohio against such tremendous odds is an assurance of success in Pennsylvania, but we must follow the example of our brethren in that State and deserve our triumph by winning it. The Democrats of Pennsylvania deliberately stultified themselves, and risked their all to sustain their inflation friends in Ohio, and they have lost. Their imbecile folly has disgusted thousands of their party friends and driven them from the support of their State ticket. Honest business men in favor of honest money, everywhere reject the dishonest proposition to inflate our present safe and good currency, and thus destroy its value and eventually repudiate it. Victory is within our grasp, but we want it full, decisive and overwhelming. We can give Hartranft and Rawle fifty thousand of a majority, if we will. Let us assist the country by the assignment of our success. Ohio has given us the incentive, and leads the column. Rally to the polls then, and we will not only assist the Republicans of the Union, but we will settle the Presidential fight of next year.

containes fairly good, though not bright. There have been some heavy movements of dry goods of a forced nature, and something is going in other goods, but it is far from satisfactory. One of the largest tea houses in the city, the month of September was the worst month they had since they had been in trade, and that October promised nothing better. The fact is a horrible lack of confidence that restricts buyers to just what they can get out with, and the market is in a state of stagnation. THE SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF CHILD ABUSE TO CHILDREN. finds its friends in the terribly needed work. At the last meeting the society's attorney reported a list of convictions enough to sicken the heart of any who reads them; mostly of the cases I mentioned in my last issue. A man, arrested for leaving a little niece eight years old with hoopstudded with nails, gets ten days in the city prison. The child was taken out of his hands and placed in a protective. A father for beating his nine years old over the head with a shovel, gets three months' imprisonment. A woman for cruelly beating a child which she carried to run with, has six months. The Italian organ grinders had their trade of taking children round to beg, sadly interfered with, and the parents who let out children for this purpose are fined $50. The most painful case is that of a German boy of seventeen, of whom I wrote last week, whose mother dying suddenly without a will, left him in a state of possession of a half-acre small property, to gain which, one of the lowest of low women used her art over the boy, keeping him under her influence, hopelessly, and with which she was reduced to imbecility. The society has taken him from the harpy's hands, and had a responsible guardian appointed over him. The boy is recovering, and it is hoped will become fit to have charge of his property when of age.

THE FASHIONS. The most elegant wares of dress have abandoned tulle, and hoops entirely, and scant dresses made graceful by drapery drawn about them in close, wrinkled folds, relieve both the eye and the purse. This mode, the most ambitious and which before being the manufacturers of crinoline, will probably have to confine themselves to making the old fashioned hair cloth skirts, the only thing ladies will tolerate to support their dresses, close fitting, and which really gives tone to the fashion in general. The flaring halo, and scoop shaped hats, which, with their masses of flowers and feather trimmings, gave such an absurd shape to the head are quickly discarded for the modest, and becoming styles which are the last from Paris.

Also plaids will be too common for presentability among people of taste by November, and rather wide stripes in dark shades, are now chosen for really stylish suits. Plain velvet skirts take the place of silk ones these over-dresses, and the cost is little more than that of a fully trimmed silk, while the wear is much more satisfactory.

Full skirts of material are seen again, with cloak of plain beaver covered with striped braiding.

POLITICS. The political net is boiling more quietly here. All my hopes of a row among the Democracy have vanished in the air. Morrissey who breathed vengeance on Tammany has been quietly subdued for the good of the party. All of which means that his bluster was for the purpose of extorting terms and nothing else. Consequently, the poor plundered city is to be still quiet.

The new law from Ohio, indicating the defeat of inflation Allen inspires the business men of New York with a little courage. If Ohio kills Allen and Pennsylvania puts the knife to Pershing's throat, a long stride will be made toward the circle of science, without which there is no use of talking of solid ground in governmental matters before they will venture their money into enterprises necessary to brick and busy the streets of the city.

PIRACY. He believed himself to be a really great man, and nothing could be too gross for him to believe of himself, consequently he was surrounded with a mob of parasites who traded flattery for money. These fellows absolutely got the little man to actually believe that he could be President, and he spent a great deal of money to bring himself before the people. And with all his vanity and insanity, he was in many respects a shrewd business man. He was the boldest advertiser that ever lived, and so far as his legitimate business was concerned, it was well and shrewdly done. He had the trick of startling the public into buying his medicines, and he was the closest and shrewdest man in the business in dealing with newspapers. He never threw away any money in his business. Could he have managed outside as well as inside, he would have been worth $5,000,000 to-day. It was nothing uncommon for him to contract $100,000 to $200,000 for advertising at a single stroke. He made great fortunes and slipped through his fingers, and he was compelled to live on the continent on the charity of a brother. His magnificent stores in New York and Philadelphia, his horses, his carriage, everything went under the hammer, leaving nothing but what would be necessary to get him all left him of course, and when he returned a few months ago he was as crazy as a loon. His wife was compelled to send him to an asylum where he will probably die. Valz, Heilmold, the man who was ever was to the world that endured him, was to point a moral. There wasn't enough of him to adorn a tale.

ARRANGEMENTS had been made in the square opposite City Hall for the mass meeting, and a great crowd was in attendance long before the opening. A brass band furnished excellent music and the best of feeling prevailed.

THE MEETING. The meeting was called to order by Col. Thos. M. Bayne, Chairman of the committee on meetings and speakers, on whose motion Gen. Daniel Hoag was unanimously chosen chairman. Col. Bayne then introduced Hon. W. H. Kooztz, of Somerset, who was warmly received and spoke as follows: ADDRESS OF MR. KOOZTZ. Gen. Kooztz said he was glad of the opportunity to address the citizens of this county. He remembered how they, with the citizens of his own county, Somerset, stood together in combatting the enemies of the Union, and the unpardonable crime of slavery power; how together they cast their ballots for free speech, free territory and free men. When the struggle for the life of the nation came Allegheny and Somerset stood together and gave their votes for the free Government.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM. The Democracy of Ohio adopted a platform practically in favor of inflation—a of an increased volume of greenbacks. In the month of September in convention assembled at Erie, adopted almost precisely the same platform as their Ohio brethren. In this they were encouraged by the Ohio Democracy, and warmly congratulated thereon. They were telegraphed to the action of the Pennsylvania Democracy was a tower of strength in the Buckeye State, and he promised a majority of 50,000. Now in view of the result of the election of Tuesday last with Falstaff "How the world is given to lying." [Laughter.] He rejoiced in the action of the Pennsylvania Democracy and announced that it would carry Allegheny by 50,000 majority. But, unfortunately, their wisdom and intelligence have through the ballot box come out and put their seal of condemnation upon it.

THE CONTEST IN THIS STATE. We have before us an important struggle—that in Ohio has been nobly fought and won—but it is for the Republicans of Pennsylvania in No. 10 to achieve a more glorious victory and put their seal of condemnation upon the efforts of the Democracy. Because of success in Ohio we should not relax our efforts. It ought to induce every earnest Republican to retrace his steps so that he may reach the goal of his ambition. The contest involves not only questions of local and State interests but national issues. The national issue has been forced upon us by the Democracy of Ohio at this time, although it does not pertain to the election in hand. The speaker then reviewed the causes which brought forth the greenback by Republican legislation. It was a war measure and the necessities of war caused the issue of the Republican party to be the life of the nation and greenbacks were an essential aid in the struggle. At the breaking out of the war there were some 1,600 State and territorial banks organized under State and territorial laws. With the inauguration of the war they were suspended and with the call to arms there was a call for money but none of the latter to be had. It became an absolute necessity for Congress to pass a law by which one hundred and fifty millions dollars of what are called greenbacks were issued, although it did not pertain to the election in hand. As the war continued it was found necessary to increase the issue to four hundred millions of dollars and a law was placed upon the statute books that the issue should not exceed that amount. It was an absolute necessity, the last of the greenbacks was essentially a war measure as was the drafting of men, the emancipation of the slave, the arming of the slave and the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, and to-day one of the questions raised is what is to be done with the greenbacks.

Now the question is, to which party can the Government most safely be entrusted? The war brought upon us a debt of 2,700 millions, and the Republican party has by wise legislation reduced it to 2,300 millions, and the Democrats have increased it to 2,700 millions. The taxes have been reduced, and now nearly the whole of the internal revenue is produced from whisky and tobacco. If the Republican party is allowed to continue the taxation will be still further reduced, and the Government will be at least four per cent, thus saving interest and by all other available means.

THE RESUMPTION ACT. A howl is made about the Resumption Act which provides for specie payments in January, 1876. The law was enacted to reach the views of all parties in Congress. Some of the Democrats favored immediate resumption, but it was deemed best to fix a day somewhat distant. Now there is no danger from this. It is found in a few years that it is unwise that the law should remain upon the statute book can be repealed. Certainly with past experience this may be safely entrusted with the Republican party. They will set for the good of the people and the business interests of the country.

THE OUTRAGE IN MICHIGAN. The Detroit Tribune has information leading to the belief that the man who was injured by having a lead thrown upon her face while he was at her home in Bay City, Michigan, on Friday morning last, suffered the harm of the hands of her husband, George Forrest; its telegram says, "Mrs. Forrest is still alive, but in a dangerous condition, and her recovery is a matter of doubt. Detectives have been actively engaged in working up the case, and developed so much that the husband of the injured woman has been arrested and lodged in jail. He has been identified by a drug clerk as the man who had been seen in the neighborhood of the room as he rose to call help and threw another bottle of acid on his wife. The story is extremely improbable, but the manly maintaining it. He confessed that he and his wife had had trouble, but not recently."

REPUBLICAN JUBILEE. Grand Torchlight Procession in Allegheny. Splendid Demonstration in Honor of the Victory in Ohio—Grand Outpouring of the People. Speech of Hon. W. H. Kooztz.

A grand Republican jubilee in honor of the victory in the Buckeye State was held last evening in Allegheny city. The weather was delightful and never was there a greater crowd of people gathered on the streets of our sister city. The torchlight procession was the finest yet had this campaign, and the various clubs seemed to vie with each other in the turnout of numbers, the marching and the display generally. The torches were carried in long banners, and the procession was headed by the Chief Marshal, Walton Woolsey, Esq., and his aids while the officers and men of the clubs did their utmost for the success of the affair. All the clubs of Pittsburgh, Somerset, and Allegheny, and Mount Washington, as well as Allegheny participated, while the large and creditable turnout of colored voters was noticeable. The procession formed and paraded over the streets as heretofore announced, and the march was a grand and successful one. Everywhere along the route it was greeted with cheers by the crowds upon the sidewalks.

ARRANGEMENTS had been made in the square opposite City Hall for the mass meeting, and a great crowd was in attendance long before the opening. A brass band furnished excellent music and the best of feeling prevailed. The meeting was called to order by Col. Thos. M. Bayne, Chairman of the committee on meetings and speakers, on whose motion Gen. Daniel Hoag was unanimously chosen chairman. Col. Bayne then introduced Hon. W. H. Large Sale of Blooded Steers. Louisville, Ky., October 16.—A correspondent, referring to the sales of pure bloods in the Blue Grass region, states that never before in the history of short-horn cattle has there been so large a crowd and so interesting a sale as the grand one at Vinewood, North, South, East and West were represented in full force, while Great Britain was not wanting in spirited bidders, as the result attests. Forty-four native cows and heifers brought $58,210, and twenty imported ones $51,225, a total for cows of $109,435. Four native bulls sold for $12,500; and five imported for $14,015. The total for seventy-three animals was $24,450. With the exception of the New York Mills sale, this is considered the greatest ever made on our continent, and places Mr. Groot at once in the topmost rank of short-horn breeders, whether English or American.

THE REPUBLICANS OF ERIE HAVE GRAND JUBILEE. Erie, Pa., October 17.—A grand meeting with a torchlight procession under the auspices of the Hartranft and Rawle Club of Erie, was held here on Saturday evening, to celebrate the victory of our friends in Ohio. Five hundred men were in line carrying torches, banners and transparencies. Hon. Alfred King presided, and speeches were made by Gen. D. M. McCreaty, Hon. Carlton B. Curtis, Colonel T. A. Gibbs, of Tennessee, and Hon. Henry Butterfield. Great enthusiasm prevailed.

He returned to his saloon to-day, when he was attacked by a crowd of colored people, who broke into his saloon and destroyed the furniture. During the melee Moore was shot and mortally wounded Frank Warts, one of the attacking party. In a prize-fight in this city to-day, Leonard, two young roughs, Leonard received injuries which will probably prove fatal.

A Crazy Man After the President. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17, 1875. A colored man made his appearance at the White House on Saturday and insisted upon seeing the President, who he said, was his father and he wanted him to avenge his wrongs. The man was arrested, and on being searched a loaded revolver was found in his pocket. He was evidently insane. In the last few months at least a half dozen insane persons have been apprehended prowling round the White House.
