

New York, Oct. 16, 1876.

THE agency is not a light one. Before this letter reaches you, Ohio and Indiana will have elected their State tickets and their members of Congress and indicated their choice for the Presidency.

INGERSOLL'S WAR DREAM.

A TERRIBLE CURSE OF GENIUS. ELOGIUM.

When Col. Ingersoll faced his old comrades, the boys in blue, at the Indianapolis Convention, the inspiration of the occasion caused him to follow eloquent, touching and pathetic passage. We have never read anything of the kind equal to it.

He was recalling the scenes of the war, and said: The past rises before me like a dream. Again we are in the great struggle for national life.
