[For the HERALD.] SANDS OF EGYPT.

Last night as I waked in the moonligh But empty my aching arms reached I drew back my silken curtains To let in the splendor of night,

And it fell on my hot, throbbing bosons.
That glowed and pulsed in its light;
I breathed the soft breath of midnight.
I bathed in the moon's silver flood,
Till I panted with heat and the fever I tossed on my hot couch of purple, Till I wished that it were a grave;

Then went to the crystalline for There my hot body to lave. And the air was oppressive with fragrance
Of flowers that hung folded at noos.
I listlessly gazed on the garden,
Where palm-trees bowed to the wave;
For my heart ached under the burden, Of jealousy strong as the grave ; Aye, strong as the grave, and more cruel;

And has he forgotten me there ? Ho! Charmian, call me a messenger I will send once more to my brave, My grand, gray-haired old Roman; Safe carry this message, O stave. Since the dreary day when my soldier Girded his armor and swore, And marched at the call of young Casar, I have never forgotten my word. Not made was my promise for breaking. Though Antony said, with a smile,

Ah! where is a king like my Roman, With his royal, god-like form; With arms strong as steel from Dan And his voice as grand as the storm Whose shoulders are broad, snowy moun
Whose lips like the pomogranate bad;
Dark eyes, like the deep pools in forests,
But stirred with his hot, jealous blood Never another was like him. No warrior so brave or so true ! Can any one blame me, or wonder

The bours are so weary; it seem The only delight in life's premise Appears to me in my dreams. One night I lay in deep slumber, Oppressed by the evening's still heat, And I dreamed I saw you lying Stretched at a woman's feet That up to her pale, high forehe While your breath was broken with sig You raised the hem of her garment,

And pressed it long to your lips ; You kissed as the hopey-bee sips. Then filled with jealous fury, I sprang at her slender neck And held my fury in check ; And I struggled, and screemed, and pe

And wept, for my heart was sore I would give my kingdom to see you You could come again and call me Your old, sweet serpent of Nile. For my grim and grizzled hero, With his crisp and curling hair, Widowed forever leaves me, If he forgetsme there

I will have a lover for every Black spot on its petals of gold; The leaves shall all be falch To hew dissenters down; And then I will call my soldie And I'll give him Egypt's crown . Lily, what is my fortune? Will my Antony come home To his burning sands of Egypt. Or tarry there in Rome ? See! the spotted lily quivers And the lions now lie crouching. That once stalked roaming, brave ; Have languished till they burn And it seems all Egypt's waiting What! Here a Roman soldier!

Good news bring you from Rome And say he is coming home Who days long since has wearle When you left him there to Rome ?

And say he was coming home Here, let me whisper sortly, Lest you shall think I rave: Did he tell me, my Antony
Has wedded the pale Octave?
What shall Ido, O Charmian? Where hide my shame and grief Give me to drink mandragara, Till oblivion brings relief. O, Iras, the glory of Egypt To the earth is troiled and torn: No more the head of kingdoms! Her queen is held for seorn,

Office above Casebeer & Frease's store, Semerset, Pa. In the last fifteen years I have greatly reduced the prices of artificial teeth in this place. The constant increasing demand for teeth has indused me to so enlarge my facilities that 'can make good sets of teeth at lower prices than you can get them in any other place in this country.—I am now making a good set of teeth for 86, and if there should be any person among my thousands of customers in this or the adjoining counties that I have made teeth or that is not giving good satisfaction, they can call on me at any time and get a new set free of charge.
