Many and marvelous are the tells this story, which was a some what similar experience to that of bundreds of others. Said ba: I bave been in the army, but I don't want any more militia firing. I was sitting on the billside just above them, supposing, of course, that I was out of all danger. I saw them coming down with flags firing and their officers at their boad. I thought from the looks of things there'd be a fight, but didn't think they'd fire into WHOLE NO. 1360. haven the rewel. Same boys on
