THE REPUBLICAN PARTY OF PENNSYLVANIA

The Republican party of Pennsylvania is rich in able, upright, patriotic men, and therefore when assembled in State convention there is never a dearth of most available and popular candidates from whom to make a selection.

The choice of the Convention that assembled at Harrisburg on Wednesday of last week, happily for the State and the party, fell upon gentlemen eminent in character and ability, worthy in every particular, and of tried and approved capacity.

We take the following brief biography of them from the Philadelphia Bulletin:

Colonel Henry M. Hoyt, of Luzerne County, the nominee for Governor is in the prime of a vigorous life, not yet fifty years old; he has served the State in times of peace and the country in times of war with like fidelity.

Descended from the earliest settlers of the historic valley of Wyoming, Colonel Hoyt is a thorough Pennsylvanian by every instinct and by all his training.

As a Republican, Colonel Hoyt represents the men who enlisted in the cause of liberty at the outset of the present organization of American politics.

Every body was bestirred betimes this morning bright and early, and the work of canvassing, of shouting, and of wire pulling went on quite briskly.

THE CONVENTION.

Hoyt Nominated for Governor, Stone for the Second Place, Sterrett for Judge and Dunkel for Secretary.

The Proceedings Animated, but Harmonious, and the Result Agreeable to All Hands.

Address of the Republican Congressional Committee.

To the Voters of the United States. The Democratic House of Representatives has today, by a party vote, adopted a resolution which, under the pretense of an investigation, is to lay the foundation of the revolutionary expulsion of President Hayes from his office.

These men have no control in the Democratic party, and even follow Alex. H. Stephens as a unit against caucus dictation to the extent of showing some semblance of fair play.
