BY RICHARD REALF.

One by one earth's wrongs are smitten

One by one are carved and written

Truth's great triumphs over all.

Moons and stars upon the night.

All the links of hell's hot gyves,

Gently, strongly clasp our lives;

One by one earth's bitter weanings

Leave us nearer to the skies,

One by one life's bigher meanings Break like saulight on our eyes.

O, the weary months of sorrow!

O, the yearning for the merrow,

O, the long and solemn years !

That should give joy for tears

O, the wasting of the fame-

O, one unresting heart's great angulah

And the love that could not languish

And the spirit singed with flame

Let it wass: the blessed throbblner

Of the purple heart of morn

Drew his pulses from the sobbing

And the light of truer eyes-

Of the seeds of sacrifica

Midnight-setting in her scorn ;

There are but the upward bursting

Therefore-though the iron shackle

Clasp and clouch the writing spheres;
