The official vote of California shows that the Hancock electoral ticket, except one, pulled through by majorities ranging from 87 to 143. Beyond all question the State was carried by Barnum's forgery.

The fraudulent count and ballot-box stuffing of the Louisiana Democracy will be contested by the Republican candidates in three, and possibly four, of the Congressional districts of that State. The result will doubtless be the exposure of more outrageous frauds, with, of course, additional chapters of Louisiana lying.

One of the most gratifying results of the great Republican victory in the late campaign, is the indisputable possession of a clear and decisive majority in the House of Representatives at Washington, over the combined forces of Democrats and Greenbackers. This will enable the party to take its stand boldly in favor of a sound national currency, and to refuse to bargain or dicker with inflation of any kind.

It can be said of a majority of the Democrats that they are resigned at least. This is no merit of theirs, to be sure, as no other alternative is left them. As the Dutchman said when asked whether his wife, who had just died, was resigned: "Resigned?" said he. "Mein Gott, she had to be!"

The Bedford Inquirer and Somerset Herald advocate the selection of Hon. John Cassa by the Legislature of this State for U. S. Senator. In this selection Pennsylvania would be represented by one of the most energetic and brainiest men in the United States, and by one of the most faithful Republicans.—Johnston Tribune.

It is hardly a matter for question that the Morey forgery was the means of carrying California for Hancock. It doubtless effected five times as many votes in that State as form the trifling Democratic majority. President Hayes is quoted as saying that it cost the Republicans 1,000 votes in Nevada, 2,000 in Oregon and 5,000 in California.

Is a recount of the vote of the Third Assembly district of New Jersey made before Judge Seudder, of the Supreme Court, a majority of seven votes was given in favor of Grover H. Luftuorv, the Republican candidate. The Board of County Canvassers had given the certificate of election to Charles Amen, the Democratic candidate, on an alleged majority of one.

WHEN we hear an American citizen prating about "the corruption of politics," and boasting that he "don't mix," and "has quit voting," we begin to pity the mother that bore him, and wonder why he don't move straight across the Atlantic. The men who are too good to vote, too busy to vote, or who allow any reasonable thing to prevent their performance of this duty, are unworthy citizens of a free land.—Inter-Ocean.

Is the suit brought by the Western Union Telegraph Company to recover its lines seized by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company of the Pittsburg division, a decision was rendered in the United States Court at Pittsburgh last week. Judge McKenna and Atchison concurring, absolutely restoring the wires to the Western Union Company. A preliminary injunction was ordered directing a complete restoration of the Western Union connections and privileges, and enjoining the defendants from any interference whatever with the right under the contract of 1864.

"REORGANIZE, reorganize," is the cry of the Democratic leaders. And yet, from the looks of the thing, you might as well try to reorganize and resuscitate a salted mackerel by throwing him into pure water. If it were not for the fact that the devil has been loose and alive and vigorous all these centuries back, we should say the Democratic party was gone this time, sure. The probabilities are Morey than likely he will rise on his hind legs and bring, smiling to the scratch, the same old party, Mules-Steel Bails Barnum & Co., four years from now. Until his Satanic Majesty has a padlock upon his lips, and chains upon his legs, you may expect to hear of the Democratic party.—Inter-Ocean.

It is announced, says the Press, that the Republican Congressional candidates who were defeated at the present election in the South will make contests in fourteen districts. As the Republicans will be in a majority in the next House, and there is an assurance of an impartial hearing, this course is the proper one. The open cheating which was practiced in a dozen or more Southern districts at the recent election was so outrageous that it has annoyed even the party in the North and called out protests at home. It is time the practice was put to a stop, and if every one of the fraudulently returned Representatives is turned out of the House a long step will have been taken toward checking it.

From the annual report of the Directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad presented to the stockholders on the 15th inst., we learn that the earnings of the Pittsburgh Division (Connellsville railroad) were larger last year than any other part of the road except the main stem. The earnings for the year being two million, two hundred and thirty-eight thousand, four hundred and eighty-one dollars and sixty-eight cents, ($2,238,481.68), leaving a clear profit over expenses of one million, eleven thousand eight hundred and seven dollars ($1,011,807.71), which is shown by the following statement:

The earnings for the year ended September 30, 1893, were $2,238,481.68. The working expenses for the same period were $1,226,673.97. Being a net earnings of $1,011,807.71. Showing net earnings of $1,011,807.71.

The earnings were $640,468.05 more than those of the previous year, and the expenses increased $360,823.01, showing net increase over the previous year $279,645.04. The decrease in the ratio of working expenses has been 62-100ths of 1 per cent, as compared with the preceding year. Net earnings, $1,011,807.71.

The shrieks of the Democrat betray how sorely it was hit, and after the first smart of its wounds are over, and its equanimity has been restored it will doubtless be heartily ashamed of the reckless and silly way, it last week, made mouths at every body. We thought its uncle was too old a campaigner to win so gravously under the scalation of the voters. Had there been craps on the door we could have trod more softly in the presence of this affliction. Now, that the first mad exultation of victory is passed, we tender our condolence. We flatter it, however, not to lay the flustering unction to its soul that it can cultivate discord in our ranks. The Republicans of this county, as of the Nation, were never more firmly united in their determination to stand together for the good of the party and of the country.

Now is the winter of our discontent. Made glorious summer by this sun of York, And all the clouds that lowered upon our house In the deep bosom of the ocean buried.

THE Philadelphia Press furnishes its quota of gossip relative to President Garfield's cabinet. It says its informant is a man of high personal character, of strong political standing, one who is nearer to the parties concerned than perhaps any other, and who also knows as much of the President elect, and his views as any man in the country.

He says: "In the first place," New York will have a cabinet officer thoroughly acceptable to Mr. Hayes, and the President of the Empire State. He will probably be Congressman Levi P. Morton. He will have one of the higher portfolios, doubtless either the State or Treasury. There will also be a Cabinet officer from New England, entirely acceptable to Mr. Hayes, as well as a Senator in politics. Pennsylvania will have representation in the Cabinet, but it will not be Don Cameron, for the sufficient reason that he does not want it. His father is out of active politics, and both Don Cameron and his friends believe it his duty to remain in the Senate, where he can have an eye on Pennsylvania's interests.

"Secretary Sherman will not remain in the Cabinet, but will succeed Thurman in the Senate. Governor Foster for the Interior, or the Post Office, although he is being urged and may conclude to remain Governor and wait to step into Mr. Pendleton's shoes in the Senate. There will be no fight between Foster and Sherman, because Garfield will not permit it. Garfield will not permit it. Garfield is politically, and he is anxious to do whatever Garfield may suggest by way of fortifying his Administration, and Garfield knows that, for the good of all concerned, Sherman should go back to the Senate, and, for many of the reasons that make this a desirable position, Foster is urged to remain where he is. If Foster does not go into the Cabinet General Ben Harrison, of Indiana, will unless he prefers the Senatorship from that State, and can get it. General Logan, can I think, be Secretary of War, or Grant, but his friends may prefer to remain in the Senate. If Logan is out of the question then General Hitchcock, of Nebraska, formerly United States Senator, will be well thought of by the new President.

There will be a stronger movement than has heretofore been made for the Pacific coast. Senator Booth of California will be pushed. Senator John P. Jones of Nevada would be a strong candidate were it not that the Legislature of Nevada is Democratic and would return a Democratic to his place if he were to leave the Senate.

"General Garfield has a strong feeling for one Southern man in his cabinet, but if one is named he will be a recognized Republican. There will be no old-line Whig business or reconstructed brotherhood in the cabinet. Besides being a Republican, he will be a man of character, mental force and position. Horace Maynard will be urged for the place he now has. Judge Settle of North Carolina is also spoken of. It is regarded as important that the South should have representation in the cabinet, in view of the evident tendency of that section to drift away from its idols."

"Will Marshall Jewell go into the Cabinet?"

"He may. He was General Garfield's choice for the Chairmanship of the National committee and was supported by the great majority of the electors. It is more than probable that he will get a foreign mission, which is believed he prefers."

"Will Dorsey be taken care of?"

"Most assuredly, if he desires to be, for he has been one of the mainstays of the campaign. His ability and ability have gone very far to achieve victory. I do not think he will go into the Cabinet however. He has made a great deal of money in mines, and I believe would prefer to go abroad in a diplomatic position and enjoy it."

The Naked Truth.

A Washington special to an exchange says:

The solid South has commenced to fawn around the President-elect. Its leaders promise support to his administration, and the new President on the Northern Democratic leaders. This dodge has not even the merit of originality. Through Hampton and Nichols it was tried nearly four years ago, and with what success the country is fully advised.

Their took all the promises they could get, and on election day voted the Democratic ticket and practiced the worst species of devility on the negro when he attempted to vote other than the Democratic ticket.

Their disgust for their Northern allies has been so great that the inability of the latter to deliver those coveted 44 electoral votes. The South is now anxious to ally itself with something that will give it power.

When it breaks up and shows all citizens equal rights at the ballot box and elsewhere, it will be time enough for all Republican President to listen to its pleadings. Until then, let it take a back seat and keep quiet. It must forget "what Lee and Jackson would have done" had they lived on November 2.

The above statement is an egg of solid gold, and it is well worth repeating. An attempt to repeat it in the mouth of the Hayes administration or the party of the President elect would bring out an earthquake of disapprobation that would shake the Republican party to its foundations.

That an attempt to play the game four years ago over again is being made, is apparent to any one who does not deliberately shut his eyes. That Garfield will put his foot upon it we earnestly hope, and are almost persuaded to believe, but the result alone can give certainty. The excellent sense of the Hayes administration, it last week, made mouths at every body. We thought its uncle was too old a campaigner to win so gravously under the scalation of the voters. Had there been craps on the door we could have trod more softly in the presence of this affliction. Now, that the first mad exultation of victory is passed,

About Thirty of the Lunatics from the Burning Building Missing.

ST. PAUL, MINN., Nov. 17.—The enumeration of the patients at the burned St. Peter's Asylum, which took place this morning, showed that thirty are missing. Of these only six are known to be dead, and their bodies have been recovered. The only one identified with certainty is that of J. F. Abrams, who was another, not burned. Among other reports of the missing are those of Dr. S. R. Prudden of Lake City; Columbus Newman, of Shakopee; J. S. Finner, Hans Sorenson and John Brennan, but there is nothing certain about their fate. The missing victims not killed are supposed to be wandering about the city. The number of deaths may be increased by freezing. All the records of patients in the male department were destroyed, "necessitating the personal identifications of 500 patients."

ST. PAUL, MINN., Nov. 17.—A bulletin to the Press from St. Peter's Asylum says: "The number of lives lost by burning and freezing at the insane asylum is variously estimated at from twenty to fifty. The loss on the building is $400,000. The asylum occupied 10 years in building, and was completed at $1,000,000. The cause of the fire is unknown. It originated in the basement of the north wing, which was destroyed."

A special dispatch dated at 4 a. m. says: "The scenes at the burning of the poor inmates in the hospital were a terrible sight to behold. So appalling a sight has rarely been witnessed. The patients in the annex wing were males. Many of them refused to leave the building at all. They ran up and down the halls screaming and crying, and the fire was so intense that they were forced out of the building by the flames of the north wing, which was destroyed."

ST. PETER, MINN., Nov. 17.—The Journal says that this afternoon while the committee of the American Board of Foreign Missions was in the office of the board a stranger entered. He soon brought the conversation to bear upon the election, expressing his joy that Mr. Garfield was to be the next President of the United States for four years, and wished to manifest his thanks by presenting $200 to the American Board. With this he counted out the money, and gave it to one of the committee. He refused to reveal his identity, but finally said that it could be credited to an old friend of Cyrus Hamilton. "Now think of it," he added, "why not suggest in your columns that the business men of the country should make a free-will offering to your funds expressive of their gratitude? I will be one of fifty to make the gift $50,000." With this, he quietly withdrew, leaving the recipients of his gift in a quandary as to his name and residence.

TRAPPED IN A TUNNEL.

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 18.—A serious accident occurred at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the mile tunnel at Galitzin, near this place. About eight men were at work on the track, one quarter of a mile from the west end of the tunnel. The noise of the train of extra engine No. 228 prevented the trackmen from hearing the ballast train, which was on the north track, to which they stepped to let the eastern train go. The ballast train engine struck four of them, instantly killing John Gill and cutting him up beyond recognition. Albert Donahue and Joseph Campbell, a young man, were killed. The other two were badly injured. The ballast train engine struck four of them, instantly killing John Gill and cutting him up beyond recognition. Albert Donahue and Joseph Campbell, a young man, were killed. The other two were badly injured.

A MURDERER'S CAPTURE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—A communication has been received by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue from Collector Sinclair, at Galveston, Texas, giving a detailed account of the arrest in Brazoria County of Hutsell Amerine, who murdered Deputy Collector Cooper, of Tennessee, in September, 1878. Amerine was placed in jail at Knoxville, but escaped before being tried. A reward of $500 was offered for his arrest, which was secured by George Taylor, of Hillsboro, which elicited the above facts.

CHILD FOUND DEAD.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Nov. 18.—When H. C. Keeler, baggage master of the C. & N. W. R. R. of this city, opened a large basket which had been found on a coach on the incoming train from Chicago, he was surprised to find a child there. The dead body of a male infant, five or six days old. The infant had been frozen to death or died from neglect. On the dress was pinned the following: "Mr. King, Guardian of the Poor, Round Grove, Illinois, and also the name 'Stephen Vincent.'"

TEXAS OUTRAGE.

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 18.—As Dr. Caldwell, a prominent country physician, was returning home from his place last night, he was shot off his horse and instantly killed by an assassin secreted in the bush at the roadside. The fiend was seen and recognized by one or two men as he sat, gun in hand, awaiting his victim. His name is Ford, and he had come trouble with Dr. in regard to a horse sale. The sheriff and a posse are in pursuit, with little hope of the capture of the man, who, after the shooting, fled to the woods.

THIRTY-NINE DEGREES BELOW ZERO.

DENVER, Col., November 17.—The weather throughout the State last night, to-day, and to-night has been extremely cold. Heavy snow fell yesterday and the sleighing is good, but is interfered with the epozotic. At 8 this morning the mercury in this city was 14 degrees below, remaining below all day and was nine degrees below to-night. In the northern part of the State the mercury ranged from 25 to 39 degrees below, according to location; Breckenridge, 30; Leadville, 25 below. To-night promises to be a repetition of last night.

ROBBERS IN TEXAS.

HARRISBURG, Pa., November 15.—Daniel Troutman, aged nearly 70 years, a farmer, who has long been a resident in the northern portion of this county, was murdered at his house, near the boundary line of Dauphin and Northumberland counties, near Harrisburg, on Monday night. The old man was known to have had in his house about $1,100, for the purpose of securing which two men entered a room occupied by Troutman and wife. The aged couple were asleep, but made ineffectual proposals, which she disregarded, when he dealt her a blow on the head with a stone felling her to the ground. Medical examination has revealed the fact that the villain then succeeded in his designs.

MISS BITTENBENDER must have probably recovered consciousness, as the side of the highway for about 200 yards showed evidence of a terrible struggle, and there is a track of blood from the point where the girl is supposed to have been first struck to the spot where her dead body was found. The girl, first, judging from the wounds on the head of his victim, must have struck her her a dozen times. A large club, stained with blood and bearing patches of the girl's hair, was found beside the lifeless body. Several large stones in the vicinity were marked with blood, although they, too, had been used as weapons.

IT IS thought the culprit will be caught in a few days, as the guilty party, from the evidence now on hand, is believed to be known. He is said to be a young man hitherto considered of very good character and high social standing. The arrest will be a great social shock. Miss Bittenbender was 18 years of age, of fine form and stylish appearance. Her parents are comparatively wealthy, and no stone will be left unturned to bring the criminal to justice.

ANTIQUES OF INSANE MEN.

ST. PETER, MINN., November 18.—An official list of the missing and dead among the inmates of the Insane Asylum is furnished by the officers of the hospital. Eleven mentioned as probably burned were delirious and sick patients, incapable of making any effort to save themselves.

DESTRUCTION BY FIRE.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17.—About 3 o'clock this morning flames were discovered issuing from the Enterprise gun works of James Brown & Co. An alarm was sounded and the fire department responded to it quickly, but before the flames could be checked, the entire building was gutted. A large amount of cartridges were stored on the third floor, which became ignited and kept up the wind, rendering it very dangerous for firemen to approach the building. Finding it useless to attempt to save the structure, which, in less than forty-five minutes from the time the flames were discovered, was in ruins, attention was directed to the valuable building adjacent, which were with difficulty saved from destruction, not, however, without being considerably damaged from water. The origin of the fire is unknown.

THE LOSS will probably reach $55,000, distributed as follows: On the Enterprise building, $20,000; on the stock of Brown & Sons, $10,000; that of Walter Hagen, silver plate, $1,000; H. McCallum's carpet store, damaged by water, $5,000 to $10,000. The insurance is given as follows: Brown & Sons, $10,000; Walter Hagen, $3,000; McCallum, $4,000; Brown & Sons, $10,000; that of Walter Hagen, silver plate, $1,000; H. McCallum's carpet store, damaged by water, $5,000 to $10,000.

A WESTMORELAND MAN ROBBED.

MR. Frederick Seeman, a well-known citizen of Fairport township, Westmoreland county, was attacked and robbed while walking along the line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, near West Newton, on Tuesday evening. It appears that he had been transacting some business in this city and started home on the evening train. He had about $40 on his person at the time of the assault, and not finding them, he concluded to walk instead of waiting for another train. He had not proceeded far when he was alarmed by a shot from a revolver, and on looking around he saw a man approaching him in an excited manner. He started to run, when the man fired a second shot, which struck him in the leg bringing him to the ground. His assailant then beat him with a club and shot him once more in the arm, after which he rifled his pockets and left him lying by the roadside. Dr. Robinson of West Newton, who rode by soon after discovered his terrible condition and assisted him to the Roland Hotel, where he received the best attention. His injuries though severe are not serious and there is no doubt of his ultimate recovery. He had about $40 on his person at the time of the assault, which the highwayman obtained.

John Willis, night engineer, while attempting to save his clothing, was overtaken by the flames and burned to a crisp. One hundred and fifty men are thrown out of employment.
