

EX-SENATOR THURMAN declares that he has quit public life for good, and determinedly refuses to accept the Democratic nomination for Governor of Ohio.

GOVERNOR HOYT has vetoed the bill granting the Salisbury road an extension of its charter privileges, on the ground that it conflicts with the State Constitution.

THE Greenbackers of Ohio held a State Convention at Columbus last week, adopted a lengthy platform and nominated a candidate for Governor, and a full State ticket.

THE Greenbackers of this State held their Convention at Pottsville, on Wednesday last, and nominated B. W. Jackson, of Mercer county, as their candidate for State Treasurer.

HON. J. A. BENTLEY having, by request of the President, resigned his position as Commissioner of Pensions, W. W. Dudley, U. S. Marshal of Indiana, has been appointed to fill the vacancy.

THE movement to make Hon. William D. Kelley, of this State, Speaker of the next House of Representatives is said to be assuming formidable proportions. The West, however, insists that the position belongs to it.

THE New York Tribune says: "The time seems ripe for a new party." The Tribune thought the same in 1872, and we supposed the miserable failure it then made would have taught it better sense for all time to come.

THE large amount of mutilated silver coin in circulation shows that rogues have turned their attention to the business of thus robbing the currency. All business men should refuse to receive this punched and clipped coin.

THE New York Legislature will continue in the end of U. S. Senators. A vote in joint session is taken daily with but slightly varying results, and these are caused principally by the pairing and absence of the members.

It is announced that Charles S. Wolfe will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. What claim this pestilent little demagogue and sham reformer, can urge upon a party he has tried to destroy, we cannot imagine.

On Wednesday last proceedings were commenced by Hon. Chas. S. Wolfe, against the State Treasurer, for the recovery of the $500 withheld from the pay of members. Judge Pearson, at Harrisburg, allowed a writ of Mandamus to issue. The question is to be argued before him on Thursday.

VICE PRESIDENTS KING and Keyser, of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, have both resigned, and it is said Mr. Robert Garrett, son of President John W. Garrett, will be made First Vice President. This movement is said to look to his eventually being made President, as successor of his father.

GOVERNOR HOYT has signed the bill passed by the recent Legislature requiring the registration of all practitioners of medicine and surgery, in the Prothonotary's office of the county in which they reside, and also the act requiring School Directors to allow teachers wages while attending County Institutes.

THIS is the sort of man the half-breeds at Albany are voting for: Chauncey Depey, on whom they are trying to unite, was a Liberal in 1872, and later the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, running on the ticket with Kernan, who is now the Democratic nominee for Senator. Ah, yes! these half-breeds are well-named.—Inter-Ocean.

A CHICAGO paper publishes an interview with General Grant, in which he takes sides with Conkling and Platt, and strongly deprecates the course of the President. This publication has brought a storm of denunciation upon the General, from the so-called independent press of the country. The able editors of these journals apparently forget that although Grant may be in error in this affair, yet that like any other citizen he is entitled to the expression of his opinions, and also to fair treatment. General Grant is too near the hearts of the people to be injured by abuse of this kind.

THE landlords of this State have reason to be grateful to the Legislature for a bill passed, and since made a law by the signature of the Governor, intended to restrain minors in the use of intoxicating liquors. The new law puts a penalty on such persons for drinking at a bar, heretofore the penalty applied only to the seller, while the buyer, a minor, incurred none.

It is common for young men, who are in the habit of drinking at bars, to insist that they are of age, and for selling them liquor landlords are made liable to fines, imprisonment, and the loss of their licenses. The new law makes it a misdemeanor for a minor to ask for liquor and drink at any bar, punishable by penalties which he must bear instead of the man who sells the liquor. This is a just law, and makes the penalties for selling to and the drinking of liquors, at a bar, by minors, set both ways.

AND now there's a hitch over the election of a United States Senator in New Hampshire. Upon the question whether the successor of Mr. Rollins, whose term will expire in March, 1883, should be elected now, the two Houses differ, the Senate thinking he should, and the House declaring otherwise. One explanation of the difference of opinion is that Mr. Rollins considers that a majority of the Republicans in the present Legislature are his friends, thus insuring his re-election, while other candidates and aspirants, among them "Bill" Chandler, (who was recently rejected by the U. S. Senate for the place of Solicitor General) consider that their chances would be better in a new Legislature. The Supreme Court Judges, upon the question being addressed them, handed down the opinion that the election should take place at the present session. But the lower House of the Legislature refuses to go into an election at present, while the Senate has commenced balloting.

GOVERNOR HOYT has vetoed the Judicial Apportionment bill, the principal reason assigned being that the Constitution expressly fixes the number of inhabitants in a judicial district at not less than 40,000, and that three of the districts formed by the new bill contain a less number. An unpleasant and perhaps a troublesome question is opened up by the Governor's action in the matter. The Constitution requires the Legislature to create any county having forty thousand population a separate district, hence the large increase of districts, and the absolute necessity of making a few isolated counties with less than 40,000 inhabitants separate districts, or attaching them to counties entitled to be separate districts. In the latter case the judges complain that they are required to preside in more counties, and hold a greater number of Courts than the Constitution contemplates, and the Supreme Court having decided that the voters within the county containing the requisite amount of population are entitled to elect the Judge, therefore, the voters of the smaller county attached to the larger one, are absolutely disfranchised, having no voice in the selection of their Judge. The people of the smaller counties will not quietly assent to have their right to the ballot curtailed, and if the Governor and the Supreme Court each insist on the enforcement of their views there is likely to be a shindy.

MISS M. M. GILLET, a native of Wisconsin, and now a resident of Washington and a student of law, was appointed by the President a Notary Public for the District of Columbia. This is the first instance where a woman has received such an appointment from a President.

THE School Journal declares that bribery played a prominent part in the recent election of School Superintendents in various parts of Pennsylvania. The average price of a Director's vote is set down at $50. It is charitable to hope the School Journal has been imposed upon.

WILLIAM HEERSON, Abraham Lincoln's old law partner, and a few years ago one of the most logical and argumentative lawyers of the State, and at one time worth considerable property, is a pauper at Springfield, Illinois. He is pointed out by his old friends and associates as a common drunkard.

THE immense immigration to this country is not only draining the old world of its bone and muscle, but is also bringing to our shores a large number of their skilled artisans. A thousand stocking weavers are now completing their preparations to emigrate from Chemnitz, Germany, many of them having already obtained situations in this country.

GENERAL RAHM informs Collectors of Internal Revenue that the appropriation for payments of gauges and storekeepers for the current year is so nearly exhausted that the balance is not sufficient to pay all the officers in full for the month of June. It is estimated that there will be funds enough to pay each officer up to and including June 23.

THE fate of Nebuchadnezzar has befallen an insane Italian named Virgilis Strozzi, near Eureka, Nevada. He escaped from the hospital, took to the hills, and since then has refused all offers of food and has lived on grass and roots. Those who have watched his movements declare that his mouth is colored green from grass stains and that he seems to be waxing fat on his curious diet.

A GREENSTONE five feet in diameter and fifteen inches across the face exploded in the spring factory of Singer, Minick & Co's Steel Works, Pittsburgh, on Tuesday afternoon. One piece, weighing about 250 pounds, struck the grinder, Peter McCabe, on the arm, crushing it in a terrible manner. Another man was seriously injured by one of the flying fragments, and a boy was slightly hurt. The cause has not been ascertained, as the pieces show no flaw in the fracture.

AN exciting hunt took place in Indiana county a few days ago, in which a large force of sympathizers men, women and children took part. A little three-year-old child of a farmer wandered from the house, but was not missed for several hours, and when search was made for him he was not to be found. The alarm was given, and the neighbors, armed with torches and lanterns, began a thorough search through the storm and darkness. Miles were travelled in every direction, and all were about ready to give up in the belief that the little one had fallen into one of the many streams in the vicinity, when a man near the end of the line heard a faint cry, and on going in the direction of the sound, found the little one lying on the wet ground half dead from fear and cold. The joyful news was soon carried along the line, and the kind-hearted searchers carried the lost babe to the arms of the distracted mother in triumph.

When Conkling and Platt resigned and thus threw the Senate into Democratic control, a howl of indignation was sent up by that branch of the Republican party that honestly fully calls itself Administration. The New York Legislature is Republican and the Senate is not in session. So no harm has been done. Yesterday the New Hampshire House refused, under the guidance of Wm. E. Chandler, to go into an election for U. S. Senator, although the Senate had declared that the Senator should be elected at this session. But Chandler and his friends say that the next Legislature, which does not meet until June, 1883, is the proper one to elect, and by uniting with the Democrats have carried the point. Now if the Legislature of New York succeeds in electing two Republicans, there will be a Republican vacancy from New Hampshire from March to June, 1883, thus leaving the Democrats in control of the Senate. Chandler's legislators is against him. This is a word from the Administration on the subject of party treason.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

EVER so much bosh finds its way into print about "the machine," "bosses," "new parties," a re-adjustment of party lines, "civil service," and so forth, and so on. What is meant by "the machine"? Nothing more nor less than that wheel within a wheel without which no political organization can get along, any more than a steam engine can work to advantage without what is called a governor.

THE rank and file continually grow about them; but what would become of the party—any party—without their services? How could party discipline be kept up, and campaigns be organized, and funds be collected and expended, and votes cast for elections, which are the safe guard of our liberties as well as the safety-valve of our administrative system but for these public-spirited men? They may not be wholly disinterested; but who of us is utterly selfish and never looks to his own advantage, in what he does for the community? The revised and anatomized "jesses" are simply leaders, and the morality of their methods pretty fairly reflects, respectively, and produces the average morality of the masses who follow them. Leadership springs out of the human nature itself. The world never can get rid of it until we become transfigured into brevet angels, which will hardly happen, however, until after the Millennium.

WE have got to put up with lead men a while longer, whether in politics, religion, science, or in the other departments of our life and thought. In Herbert Spencer's recent suggestive and sagacious papers upon "The Development of Political Institutions" this idea is set forth very clearly and urged with great energy.

PEOPLE talk about forming new parties and re-adjusting party lines just as if such an undertaking were the easiest thing in the world and only needed the calling of a convention or a mass meeting to accomplish it. Such enthusiasts as this seem not to have yet learned the lesson which American history for the last hundred years has tried to teach them, that parties, like poets, are not made but born. They are brought about not by construction but by genesis. Like Topsy, they grow.

THE dream of a "civil-service" based wholly upon personal fitness without regard to party affiliations is a pleasant one, but it is only a dream for all that. Party service is likely, with insignificant exceptions to remain the rule of civil service for a time to come. The most we can with reason immediately hope for as to the distribution of governmental offices is that the man in power, whichever it may be, will at length come to the practice of putting suitable persons who belong to it in at least the minor offices, leaving the larger and more important posts, however, to be held as hitherto by men whose only claim to preferment is their party affiliation. It would be a most excellent achievement, of course, if we could have such an arrangement of the tenure of civil office as should make the incumbents of all postmasterhips, clerkships in the departments and similar places secure. In their situations, as persons in the military and naval service, are, during competency and good behavior. This is by all means to be desired. But there is a great deal of can't be laid on this subject which is insane and silly, and which, by reason of its insanity and silliness, does more harm than good by diverting the public mind from the whole thing.—Philadelphia Record.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

INDIAN PUPILS. CARLEISLE, June 15.—The first annual examination of the pupils of the Indian Training School at this place took place to-day. A letter was received from President Garfield saying that it would be impossible for him to be present on account of business. He will visit the school in the fall. Captain Pratt, who is in charge of the school, made an appropriate speech, after which there was vocal music by the scholars. Declarations and recitations then followed, and were quite creditable for the little ones. The program was conducted by the Indian children. About six hundred people were present from the surrounding country.

Cyclone and Hail Storm in the West.

SMUNDAY, the 12th instant, was a terrible day in North-west Missouri. The atmospheric pressure was very great between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and during that short hour no less than three "twisters" dealt death and destruction in many parts. The first that came was from King City, and it was the most terrible that started near Savannah, in Andrew county. Its course was northwest through Flag Springs and King City. Many houses were destroyed and not less than twelve lives lost in Andrew county. At Flag Springs and King City the destruction was fearful. The houses were blown away, and the people being probably fifty men, women and children. The public school building in King City, a large brick structure, was razed to the ground. Hundreds of horses, cattle, logs and sheep were killed, one man losing 80 cattle, another 60 sheep and another 7 horses.

From information received it appears that the cloud formed in a field near the Laisley Chapel, about eight miles northwest of Savannah, and moved south of east. It struck down trees and fences, and struck the large brick house of Wm. Kellough, situated about six miles north of the town, which it blew to pieces. Mr. Kellough and his family were absent from home at the time and thus escaped injury. Two horses belonging to Mr. Kellough, which were in a field near the house, were found in the neighborhood of the house, and supposed to be carried there by the cyclone. The next building in its way was the residence of Mr. J. Holl, situated near Fall Bridge. It struck the corner of the house, moving it from its foundation, and damaging it very much. John Park's house, further on, was blown away, and Mrs. Parke was seriously injured. Mr. Helms' house was carried away, and a Baptist church nearly torn to pieces. The residence of Mrs. Laughlin further on was blown to pieces, and the furniture, clothing and other things in the house being carried away. Feather beds were torn to pieces, and the feathers strewn all through the timber. Stoves and all kinds of household goods from the house were carried through the air, and their owners were not able to get away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as that of E. A. Phillips, near Fish Ford. From there the storm passed on to Flag Springs and King City. The cyclone was about a quarter of a mile wide, and was very violent. Fully two-thirds of the houses between King City and Flag Springs were destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and dashed to pieces. Mr. Powell's fine orchard was blown away, and the trees being torn from the ground and twisted into a thousand fragments. Miss Tweed found the work of her gold watch a quarter of a mile from her house. Everything was carried away, the furniture all destroyed, and her trunk was lifted into the air and blown away. The house of Mr. Linn Roberts was destroyed, as well as the families being away from home, either at church or visiting, otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

THE TORNADO IN KANSAS. A correspondent, describing the scene near Olivet, says: "A horse was lifted out of a stable and carried over a high hill and dashed upon the ground in a cornfield a mile away. Cattle were lifted from the ground, carried into the air and