

The Somerset Herald, Somerset, Pa.

The Somerset Herald.

ESTABLISHED, 1827.

SOMERSET, PA., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1881.

WHOLE NO. 1569.

VOL. XXX. NO. 9.

A NEW OPENING.

In the building known as the NAUGLE HOUSE, BY ALBERT RECKE, BAKERY and CONFECTIONERY.

A LOW FIGURE.

I will open out with a full line of the above goods, May 15th.

CENTRAL MOTEL.

MAIN STREET, SOMERSET, PENN'A.

January 10th, 1881.

This house is furnished in first-class, modern style, with the modern conveniences of Hot and Cold Water, Baths, large Heating Stoves, Parlor and Chambers, and all special tables attached.

F. S. KLEINDIENST.

R. C. LANDIS, His constantly on hand at his distillery.

PURE RYE WHISKY.

For sale by the barrel or gallon, suited for MEDICAL AND MECHANICAL PURPOSES.

MILLAN & CO.

No 112 Franklin Street, Johnstown, Pa.

PLUMBERS.

STEAM AND GAS FITTERS, No 112 Franklin Street, Johnstown, Pa.

NEW BANK.

Somerset County Bank, CHARLES J. HARRISON, Cashier and Manager.

S. T. LITTLE & SONS.

Watches, Chains, Solid Silverware, Diamonds, American Clocks, French Clocks, Silver Plated Ware, Jewellery, etc.

PAINTERS.

DAVIS BROTHERS, HOUSE, SIGN AND FRESCO PAINTERS.

WINE.

PURE FERMENTED WINE, FOR SALE.

SUGAR GROVE FARM.

CHERRY, BLACKBERRY, CURRANT, ELDERBERRY, WILD-CHERRY AND OTHER WINE.

MERCHANT TAILOR.

LATEST STYLES AND LOWEST PRICES. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

SOMERSET PA.

THE DEVIL.

Man don't believe in devil now, as their fathers used to do. They've closed the door of the broadest creed to let his majesty through.

CONFESSION IN A STORM.

Wide open blue eyes, fringed with jetty lashes—a little, slender nose—a mouth fit for Queen Titania—white hair, on which clustered rings of gold, in a very fascinating disorder—a cheek, exquisitely fair, with tint upon it of the sea shell—two little, helpless hands—two little, splayed feet.

Get Their Clothes Mended.

Mark Twain, in his book called "Tramps Abroad" tells how a party of wanderers went to a village and they did when they went back to the hotel.

Best Pasture Grasses.

The best pasture grasses have creeping or wholly fibrous roots, the creeping root running horizontally under the ground and pushing up stems every few inches from this creeping part of the root or rhizome.

The Devilish Tramps.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 19.—Last evening two Lancaster boys met a party of tramps along the Conestoga Creek who invited them to drink beer. The boys did so, but becoming offended at their hosts, came to town, secured a crowd, and returning to the creek attacked the tramps.

Color Arrangement.

The Floral Monthly says that a few simple rules in the arrangement of flowers will materially enhance the effect produced. Among these are: 1. Avoid placing rose-colored next to another.

Be wise and Happy.

If you will stop all your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cures, that do harm always and are only nature's simple remedies for all your ailments, you will be wise and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.—Press.

A crow's—A rooster.

Shopping in Constantinople.

We made our way, writes a tourist to the Cincinnati Gazette, to the shop of Osman Bey, where we purchased some gauze and embroideries. In the entrance, seated cross-legged on a rug, is an old man in old-fashioned costume smoking his pipe—a typical Turkish figure.

No Sting in Death.

Dr. Thos. D. Spencer contributes a paper to the Popular Science Monthly for July, of which the following is an extract: At birth the babe undergoes an ordeal, that were he conscious would be more trying than most painful death; yet he feels it not.

Modern Courtship.

"And you really love me dearly?" he asked, as he held his arm around her waist like a system. "And you'll always love me so?" "Always, Frederick; ever so."

Leadville Types.

Of all American cities Leadville might be expected to contain a number of what a novelist called types. A list of candidates for city officers has just been published with biographical sketches, showing that the typical American as he seems to foreigners may certainly be found in Leadville.

Care of Horses.

Horses are hard workers and need the best of care during the hot days of summer. Frequent brushing, rubbing and currying will be necessary to remove the sweat stains and make the coat smooth. An occasional washing, especially of the legs, is also important. Flies will cause great inconvenience, and if not guarded against will worry the animals greatly. A cotton sheet is a protection and costs little. Horses should have water frequently, but in small quantities, and should not be allowed to get thirsty so long as to overeat themselves when they finally come to drink. The food should be substantial—something more than grass is demanded by a working horse. The stables, and all the surroundings of the horse, should be kept clean; a failure here may develop bad gases that may breed disease.

The Lazy Man.

He spoils work; disappoints your expectations; exclaims your patience; cuts up your substance; abuses your confidence, and hangs a dead weight on all your plans; and the very best thing an honest man can do with a lazy man is to get rid of him. Solomon says: "Bury a fool with a pestle, in a mortar with wheat, yet will he not say, I have done it. He do not mention what kind of a fool he meant; but as he speaks of a fool by pre-eminence, we take it for granted that he meant a lazy man; and we are more inclined to the opinion, from another expression of his experience, namely: "As vinegar to the teeth, and smoke to the eyes, so is the sluggard to them that send him."

Abandoned.

We receive by one of our Massachusetts exchanges that Dr. Lorenzo Waite, of Westfield, an eminent physician of Berkshire County, strongly indorses St. Jacobs Oil. With it he cured a case of Sciatica that resisted all other remedies, and that in fact had been abandoned as incurable.—Albany, (N. Y. Daily Press and Knickerbocker.)

Florida Oranges.

The "wild oranges" found in Florida are of two kinds—the sour and the bitter sweet, the former predominating, and from what we ascertain from reading, both are properly classed as the Biscayne and Seville orange. The wild state of the orange is not certainly known, but it is its native country more certain, although there is much reason to believe that all the kinds have spread over the world from the warmer central and eastern part of Asia. It has been alleged that it was introduced from the Indians on the Gulf of Mexico, but the probabilities are that it has become naturalized. Therefore, it is not definitely known whether the wild orange is indigenous to the soil and climate of this State, or whether they were introduced from the hundred years ago by the Europeans.

Some pretty expensive suits are seen on the streets, but not as high as those to be found in the courts.

Gate posts should be set firmly. A great deal may hinge upon them as your girls grow up.

Shopping in Constantinople.

We made our way, writes a tourist to the Cincinnati Gazette, to the shop of Osman Bey, where we purchased some gauze and embroideries. In the entrance, seated cross-legged on a rug, is an old man in old-fashioned costume smoking his pipe—a typical Turkish figure.

No Sting in Death.

Dr. Thos. D. Spencer contributes a paper to the Popular Science Monthly for July, of which the following is an extract: At birth the babe undergoes an ordeal, that were he conscious would be more trying than most painful death; yet he feels it not.

Modern Courtship.

"And you really love me dearly?" he asked, as he held his arm around her waist like a system. "And you'll always love me so?" "Always, Frederick; ever so."

Leadville Types.

Of all American cities Leadville might be expected to contain a number of what a novelist called types. A list of candidates for city officers has just been published with biographical sketches, showing that the typical American as he seems to foreigners may certainly be found in Leadville.

Care of Horses.

Horses are hard workers and need the best of care during the hot days of summer. Frequent brushing, rubbing and currying will be necessary to remove the sweat stains and make the coat smooth. An occasional washing, especially of the legs, is also important. Flies will cause great inconvenience, and if not guarded against will worry the animals greatly. A cotton sheet is a protection and costs little. Horses should have water frequently, but in small quantities, and should not be allowed to get thirsty so long as to overeat themselves when they finally come to drink. The food should be substantial—something more than grass is demanded by a working horse. The stables, and all the surroundings of the horse, should be kept clean; a failure here may develop bad gases that may breed disease.

The Lazy Man.

He spoils work; disappoints your expectations; exclaims your patience; cuts up your substance; abuses your confidence, and hangs a dead weight on all your plans; and the very best thing an honest man can do with a lazy man is to get rid of him. Solomon says: "Bury a fool with a pestle, in a mortar with wheat, yet will he not say, I have done it. He do not mention what kind of a fool he meant; but as he speaks of a fool by pre-eminence, we take it for granted that he meant a lazy man; and we are more inclined to the opinion, from another expression of his experience, namely: "As vinegar to the teeth, and smoke to the eyes, so is the sluggard to them that send him."

Abandoned.

We receive by one of our Massachusetts exchanges that Dr. Lorenzo Waite, of Westfield, an eminent physician of Berkshire County, strongly indorses St. Jacobs Oil. With it he cured a case of Sciatica that resisted all other remedies, and that in fact had been abandoned as incurable.—Albany, (N. Y. Daily Press and Knickerbocker.)

Florida Oranges.

The "wild oranges" found in Florida are of two kinds—the sour and the bitter sweet, the former predominating, and from what we ascertain from reading, both are properly classed as the Biscayne and Seville orange. The wild state of the orange is not certainly known, but it is its native country more certain, although there is much reason to believe that all the kinds have spread over the world from the warmer central and eastern part of Asia. It has been alleged that it was introduced from the Indians on the Gulf of Mexico, but the probabilities are that it has become naturalized. Therefore, it is not definitely known whether the wild orange is indigenous to the soil and climate of this State, or whether they were introduced from the hundred years ago by the Europeans.

Some pretty expensive suits are seen on the streets, but not as high as those to be found in the courts.

Gate posts should be set firmly. A great deal may hinge upon them as your girls grow up.

Shopping in Constantinople.

We made our way, writes a tourist to the Cincinnati Gazette, to the shop of Osman Bey, where we purchased some gauze and embroideries. In the entrance, seated cross-legged on a rug, is an old man in old-fashioned costume smoking his pipe—a typical Turkish figure.

No Sting in Death.

Dr. Thos. D. Spencer contributes a paper to the Popular Science Monthly for July, of which the following is an extract: At birth the babe undergoes an ordeal, that were he conscious would be more trying than most painful death; yet he feels it not.

Modern Courtship.

"And you really love me dearly?" he asked, as he held his arm around her waist like a system. "And you'll always love me so?" "Always, Frederick; ever so."

Leadville Types.

Of all American cities Leadville might be expected to contain a number of what a novelist called types. A list of candidates for city officers has just been published with biographical sketches, showing that the typical American as he seems to foreigners may certainly be found in Leadville.

Care of Horses.

Horses are hard workers and need the best of care during the hot days of summer. Frequent brushing, rubbing and currying will be necessary to remove the sweat stains and make the coat smooth. An occasional washing, especially of the legs, is also important. Flies will cause great inconvenience, and if not guarded against will worry the animals greatly. A cotton sheet is a protection and costs little. Horses should have water frequently, but in small quantities, and should not be allowed to get thirsty so long as to overeat themselves when they finally come to drink. The food should be substantial—something more than grass is demanded by a working horse. The stables, and all the surroundings of the horse, should be kept clean; a failure here may develop bad gases that may breed disease.

The Lazy Man.

He spoils work; disappoints your expectations; exclaims your patience; cuts up your substance; abuses your confidence, and hangs a dead weight on all your plans; and the very best thing an honest man can do with a lazy man is to get rid of him. Solomon says: "Bury a fool with a pestle, in a mortar with wheat, yet will he not say, I have done it. He do not mention what kind of a fool he meant; but as he speaks of a fool by pre-eminence, we take it for granted that he meant a lazy man; and we are more inclined to the opinion, from another expression of his experience, namely: "As vinegar to the teeth, and smoke to the eyes, so is the sluggard to them that send him."

Abandoned.

We receive by one of our Massachusetts exchanges that Dr. Lorenzo Waite, of Westfield, an eminent physician of Berkshire County, strongly indorses St. Jacobs Oil. With it he cured a case of Sciatica that resisted all other remedies, and that in fact had been abandoned as incurable.—Albany, (N. Y. Daily Press and Knickerbocker.)

Florida Oranges.

The "wild oranges" found in Florida are of two kinds—the sour and the bitter sweet, the former predominating, and from what we ascertain from reading, both are properly classed as the Biscayne and Seville orange. The wild state of the orange is not certainly known, but it is its native country more certain, although there is much reason to believe that all the kinds have spread over the world from the warmer central and eastern part of Asia. It has been alleged that it was introduced from the Indians on the Gulf of Mexico, but the probabilities are that it has become naturalized. Therefore, it is not definitely known whether the wild orange is indigenous to the soil and climate of this State, or whether they were introduced from the hundred years ago by the Europeans.

Some pretty expensive suits are seen on the streets, but not as high as those to be found in the courts.

Gate posts should be set firmly. A great deal may hinge upon them as your girls grow up.

Shopping in Constantinople.

We made our way, writes a tourist to the Cincinnati Gazette, to the shop of Osman Bey, where we purchased some gauze and embroideries. In the entrance, seated cross-legged on a rug, is an old man in old-fashioned costume smoking his pipe—a typical Turkish figure.

No Sting in Death.

Dr. Thos. D. Spencer contributes a paper to the Popular Science Monthly for July, of which the following is an extract: At birth the babe undergoes an ordeal, that were he conscious would be more trying than most painful death; yet he feels it not.

Modern Courtship.

"And you really love me dearly?" he asked, as he held his arm around her waist like a system. "And you'll always love me so?" "Always, Frederick; ever so."

Leadville Types.

Of all American cities Leadville might be expected to contain a number of what a novelist called types. A list of candidates for city officers has just been published with biographical sketches, showing that the typical American as he seems to foreigners may certainly be found in Leadville.

Care of Horses.

Horses are hard workers and need the best of care during the hot days of summer. Frequent brushing, rubbing and currying will be necessary to remove the sweat stains and make the coat smooth. An occasional washing, especially of the legs, is also important. Flies will cause great inconvenience, and if not guarded against will worry the animals greatly. A cotton sheet is a protection and costs little. Horses should have water frequently, but in small quantities, and should not be allowed to get thirsty so long as to overeat themselves when they finally come to drink. The food should be substantial—something more than grass is demanded by a working horse. The stables, and all the surroundings of the horse, should be kept clean; a failure here may develop bad gases that may breed disease.

The Lazy Man.

He spoils work; disappoints your expectations; exclaims your patience; cuts up your substance; abuses your confidence, and hangs a dead weight on all your plans; and the very best thing an honest man can do with a lazy man is to get rid of him. Solomon says: "Bury a fool with a pestle, in a mortar with wheat, yet will he not say, I have done it. He do not mention what kind of a fool he meant; but as he speaks of a fool by pre-eminence, we take it for granted that he meant a lazy man; and we are more inclined to the opinion, from another expression of his experience, namely: "As vinegar to the teeth, and smoke to the eyes, so is the sluggard to them that send him."

Abandoned.

We receive by one of our Massachusetts exchanges that Dr. Lorenzo Waite, of Westfield, an eminent physician of Berkshire County, strongly indorses St. Jacobs Oil. With it he cured a case of Sciatica that resisted all other remedies, and that in fact had been abandoned as incurable.—Albany, (N. Y. Daily Press and Knickerbocker.)

Florida Oranges.

The "wild oranges" found in Florida are of two kinds—the sour and the bitter sweet, the former predominating, and from what we ascertain from reading, both are properly classed as the Biscayne and Seville orange. The wild state of the orange is not certainly known, but it is its native country more certain, although there is much reason to believe that all the kinds have spread over the world from the warmer central and eastern part of Asia. It has been alleged that it was introduced from the Indians on the Gulf of Mexico, but the probabilities are that it has become naturalized. Therefore, it is not definitely known whether the wild orange is indigenous to the soil and climate of this State, or whether they were introduced from the hundred years ago by the Europeans.

Some pretty expensive suits are seen on the streets, but not as high as those to be found in the courts.

Gate posts should be set firmly. A great deal may hinge upon them as your girls grow up.

Shopping in Constantinople.

We made our way, writes a tourist to the Cincinnati Gazette, to the shop of Osman Bey, where we purchased some gauze and embroideries. In the entrance, seated cross-legged on a rug, is an old man in old-fashioned costume smoking his pipe—a typical Turkish figure.

No Sting in Death.

Dr. Thos. D. Spencer contributes a paper to the Popular Science Monthly for July, of which the following is an extract: At birth the babe undergoes an ordeal, that were he conscious would be more trying than most painful death; yet he feels it not.

Modern Courtship.

"And you really love me dearly?" he asked, as he held his arm around her waist like a system. "And you'll always love me so?" "Always, Frederick; ever so."

Leadville Types.

Of all American cities Leadville might be expected to contain a number of what a novelist called types. A list of candidates for city officers has just been published with biographical sketches, showing that the typical American as he seems to foreigners may certainly be found in Leadville.

Care of Horses.

Horses are hard workers and need the best of care during the hot days of summer. Frequent brushing, rubbing and currying will be necessary to remove the sweat stains and make the coat smooth. An occasional washing, especially of the legs, is also important. Flies will cause great inconvenience, and if not guarded against will worry the animals greatly. A cotton sheet is a protection and costs little. Horses should have water frequently, but in small quantities, and should not be allowed to get thirsty so long as to overeat themselves when they finally come to drink. The food should be substantial—something more than grass is demanded by a working horse. The stables, and all the surroundings of the horse, should be kept clean; a failure here may develop bad gases that may breed disease.

The Lazy Man.

He spoils work; disappoints your expectations; exclaims your patience; cuts up your substance; abuses your confidence, and hangs a dead weight on all your plans; and the very best thing an honest man can do with a lazy man is to get rid of him. Solomon says: "Bury a fool with a pestle, in a mortar with wheat, yet will he not say, I have done it. He do not mention what kind of a fool he meant; but as he speaks of a fool by pre-eminence, we take it for granted that he meant a lazy man; and we are more inclined to the opinion, from another expression of his experience, namely: "As vinegar to the teeth, and smoke to the eyes, so is the sluggard to them that send him."

Abandoned.

We receive by one of our Massachusetts exchanges that Dr. Lorenzo Waite, of Westfield, an eminent physician of Berkshire County, strongly indorses St. Jacobs Oil. With it he cured a case of Sciatica that resisted all other remedies, and that in fact had been abandoned as incurable.—Albany, (N. Y. Daily Press and Knickerbocker.)

Florida Oranges.

The "wild oranges" found in Florida are of two kinds—the sour and the bitter sweet, the former predominating, and from what we ascertain from reading, both are properly classed as the Biscayne and Seville orange. The wild state of the orange is not certainly known, but it is its native country more certain, although there is much reason to believe that all the kinds have spread over the world from the warmer central and eastern part of Asia. It has been alleged that it was introduced from the Indians on the Gulf of Mexico, but the probabilities are that it has become naturalized. Therefore, it is not definitely known whether the wild orange is indigenous to the soil and climate of this State, or whether they were introduced from the hundred years ago by the Europeans.

Some pretty expensive suits are seen on the streets, but not as high as those to be found in the courts.

Gate posts should be set firmly. A great deal may hinge upon them as your girls grow up.