TEACHERS' EXAMINATIONS.

Superintendent J. C. Weller, assisted by his brother, Charles, held the first examination of his term, in the Union School Building. Forty-nine applicants presented themselves. The examination was thorough but at the same time practical. It was held in the morning and the church bells were tolled, business is entirely suspended for the day and most of the business houses are draped in mourning. Sad and solemn faces are seen on all sides and a universal feeling of gloom and sorrow, as if an evil fate had befallen the community, prevails everywhere.

BALTIMORE ORIOLE.

Interesting details of the programme prepared by the Monumental City for the Mardi Gras and Carnival in October.

The success of Baltimore's big celebration last year exhilarated her citizens, and in mastering all its manifold details so perfectly, gained an experience which this year will be turned to the best possible account.

The Oriole celebration this October will be an immense thing. Fun and merriment will be everywhere, having been subjected and required at the disposal of those having the affair in charge. In most respects the order of things will be entirely different from last year, and in the way of gorgeous and novel features there will be no comparison between the two celebrations.

For the year the desire has been intense to witness a grand Mardi Gras parade without being forced to go on a journey of thousands of miles. The fame of New Orleans, Memphis and Mobile as the centres of Mardi Gras and Carnival festivities has spread throughout the entire country, and when it is promised that Baltimore shall equal if not surpass the greatest efforts of any of the cities named it means much.

Contracts have already been let for the mystic pageant, the subject illustrated in an extensive series of tableaux to remain a local secret until the night of the parade.

Mr. De Loon, the gentleman who has designed and perfected the mystic features, has had ample experience, having been at the head of similar undertakings in New Orleans and Mobile. Baltimore pays him $10,000 for this service, and he will represent by no means the whole of the pageant.

As much, if not more, will be expended in other series of tableaux, some of them designed and prepared by different societies of the city, and others gotten up under the immediate direction of the general committee.

An entirely new and high platform parade will be the use of platform cars upon which the tableaux will be constructed and which will run over the street car tracks.

It is estimated that the parade will reach a length of three miles, and under electric and brilliant lights, the mountainous masses of the soil will be witnessed and once in a lifetime. The Mardi Gras will, however, be one of the great events of the three days festival. On Monday, the 10th, the new water works are to be formally opened with a beautiful display of fountains and all that the teachers and pupils have already done to the benefit of the city.

As everything combustible is now as dry as a tinder box, great care should be observed to prevent mountain fires breaking out. They are already ravaging the mountains and are likely to spread to other parts of the State, and much property will be destroyed. Were they once started on the mountains in this vicinity much young timber would be ruined and other property endangered. There is a law against starting fires of this kind and any one who is charged with the offence should be arrested and punished. Let everybody be on the alert while the drought continues.
