

A NAME.

By LAURA GARLAND CARL.

I glance along, in careless style.
The daily paper's news page—
Though little there my thoughts engage—
Half lost in reverie the while.

A DOUBLE CRIME.

The wholesale produce and commission store of Mr. Purvis, Delaware avenue, Philadelphia, was robbed on the night of October 17, 1895.
The safe had been opened apparently by false keys, and upward of $900 in greenbacks were abstracted.

him, and judging by his frequent exclamations that he had been greatly astonished at what the detective told him.
Re-entering the office, they found Yerkes still unconscious, and at the suggestion of Varcoe he was conveyed to the hospital.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Now that Thanksgiving festivities are over, politicians have turned their attention seriously to business, and much substantial work will be accomplished by the various candidates for the Speakership before Congress convenes on the 5th of December.

How shall we kill weeds and how rid the soil of the species? A very simple matter indeed, if we could see the same common sense shown in other things.
Will a field of corn or wheat, or a hill of squashes or melons produce good seed if it comes to the ground just as the flowers are forming?
Every seed that plant or weed we know of surely dies if it comes to the surface just before it blooms.

THE MAN WITH THE FLAIL.

I carried the beholder back to thirty years ago, when the threshing machine was heard only at intervals, and the honest farmer spread his golden stalks on the clean barn floor and flailed away with such tempered blows that not a kernel was broken.

When Stonewall Jackson was frightened.
I recollect asking "Stonewall," who was my cousin, if he had ever been frightened in war.
He said yes, once he was considerably under the sense of fear.
It was in the city of Mexico.

DESTRUCTIVE DYNAMIC.

Sweet smelling little nuts turned down at the corner, delicate pencils on the margins of books, verses of inferior rhyme and unpoetically expressed, lingering to meet on the corner, sly glances during recitation.

THE FATE OF A THIEF.

ATLANTA, Ga., November 23.—In having robbed a store, attempted to escape.
The posse who were chasing him ordered him to stop; he refused to do so and attempted to draw his pistol.
The posse fired at him, killing him instantly.

ANOTHER STEAMER WRECKED.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The iron ship Calceum while being towed to the Clyde from Dundee was wrecked and seventeen persons were drowned.

A STRONG CONQUEROR.

According to an Illinois exchange, our days of rheumatism are well numbered.
St. Jacobs Oil enters a rheumatic territory, and conquers every subject.
That's right. We believe in it.—Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

Everybody knows that a layer of newspapers over a bed affords as much warmth at night as the ordinary counterpane.
Various attempts have been made of late years to turn this to account, but owing to the cracking nature of the paper and impossibility of securing perfect ventilation beneath the paper coverings, the idea has been abandoned again and again.

A BIG LAND TRANSACTION.

At Crown Point, Indiana, on Thursday, Mrs. Caroline Forsyth and her husband, Jacob Forsyth, signed a warrant deed on eight thousand acre tract of land owned by them at Sheffield, Lake county, Indiana, and bordering on the Illinois line, about fourteen miles from Chicago.
