ONE STEP MORE.

What though before me it is dark, Too dark for one to see? I ask but light for one step more 'Tis quite enough for me.

Each little, humble step I take. The gloom clears from the next; So, though 'tis very dark beyond, I never am perplexed.

And if, sometimes, the mist hang close-So close I fear to stray, Patient I walt a little while And soon it clears away. I would not see my further path

For mercy veils it so; My present steps might harder be, Did I the future know. It may be that my path is rough Thorny and hard and steep;

And, knowing this, my strength to Through fear and terror deep. It may be that it winds along A smooth and flowery way: But, seeing this, I might despise The journey of to-day.

Perhaps my journey is very short, My lourney nearly done; And I might tremble at the thought Of ending it so soon.

Of road that I must wend, Cainting, I'd think, "My feeble powers Will fall me ere the end." And so I do not wish to see My journey, or its length; Assured that, through my father's love,

Each step will bring its strength.

Thus, step by step, I onward go, Not looking for before: Trusting that always I shall have Light for just "one step more."
