

WEDNESDAY, March 14, 1883.

McPherson, of New Jersey, was the only Democrat in the Senate that voted for the tariff bill.

Over a hundred and twenty-nine Republicans, and only twenty Democrats voted for the tariff bill.

Hon. James Gillilan, Treasurer of the United States, has resigned that position, to take effect April first.

On Thursday last week, the venerable General Cameron celebrated his 84th birthday, by receiving the calls and congratulations of his many friends.

Judges from the number of charters applied for at Harrisburg, there is going to be an unusual amount of railroad building done in Pennsylvania during the coming summer.

There is not a flattering prospect for the reformers at Harrisburg, reforming the length of the session. Ten dollars a day outweighs reform professions, even in the pockets of professional reformers.

Owing to the scarcity and the high price of wheat, the great flour mills at Minneapolis and throughout Minnesota, are producing only one-third of their capacity, and a number of them will shut down this week.

The bill abolishing the office of Sealer of Weights and Measures in this State, last week passed both branches of the Legislature, and was immediately signed by the Governor. The office therefore no longer exists.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction in New Jersey, has issued an order forbidding corporal punishment in schools. They have very good boys, or are going to have very bad schools in this State.

Henry Seybert, of Philadelphia, whose body was cremated in the Le Moyne furnace, at Washington, Pa., last week, left his entire estate valued at $1,250,000, to various charitable institutions of the Quaker city.

Ex-Gov. Hoyt has determined to move from Philadelphia and devote himself to the practice of the law, which is a wise thing for the ex-Governor to do, as he committed political harri-kari, when he deserted to the Independent camp last fall.

The story being circulated of an attempt to assassinate Mr. Blaine, is discredited by that gentleman. It is evident that with the close of Congress, news at Washington is scarce commodity, and hence the enterprising reporter is compelled to draw on his imagination.

During the last political campaign, the public ear was filled with Democratic cries against the heavy taxation imposed on the people and the industries of the country, and with unceasing demands for relief from these "Republican taxes." Yet, when the tariff and tax bill, which abolishes $75,000,000 of these taxes was on its passage, but twenty Democrats in the House, and one in the Senate, recorded themselves in favor of the measure.

Sam Randall, the great tariff straddler of this State, who did everything in his power to obstruct the framing of the new tariff bill, and then voted for it on its final passage, is receiving many left handed compliments. Waterston, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, bids him farewell for voting for "that thieving tariff," and the protectionists do nothing for him for not making a bold stand for the bill. The ardent doggerel writer finds that he has not much improved his chances for Speaker of the next House.

The meaning, or rather the interpretation of the words "due and payable" is a question worth about $1,000,000 to the U. S. Treasury. According to the Internal Revenue laws, bank taxes were payable semi-annually in June and December. The new tariff and tax law repeals these taxes from the date on which they become "due and payable." The bill became a law on the 3d day of March, and, of course, went into immediate effect. The taxes of January, February and March, until the third, had accrued and were due, but would not have been payable until June 30th, and the question is, can the taxes of January, February and the three days of March, be collected, or does the new law remit them to the banks because they were not at the time of its passage "due and payable"? The amount involved is nearly $1,000,000.

During the last campaign, Senate Librarian, Delaney, who was supposed to have some influence among his Irish fellow citizens, was savagely abused as a "public thief" by the Philadelphia Times, whose editor was then diligently laboring in the role of a reformer, for the benefit of the Democratic party. It was charged that Delaney corruptly used the public funds entrusted to him for purchasing supplies for the capital, and that the State was swindled by a ring, of which he was a member. The Reform Press also lent its columns to the denunciation of the corrupt methods of the Librarian, and later of the Republican Senator who would not agree to repudiate him at the demand of the newspapers. Delaney asked for an investigation, a committee was appointed, and the State furnished it with counsel. So far, no damaging revelations have been made. McClure, of the Times, was subpoenaed to testify, and admitted that he knew nothing of his own knowledge, but promised to furnish a list of witnesses, and Smith, of the Press, made the same humiliating confession. McClure has since refused to furnish a list of the promised witnesses, because, as he alleges, his attorney advises against it, for fear it will benefit Delaney in a suit he threatens to bring for libel, and thus the investigating committee is balked in its attempt to arrive at the truth.

To an unprejudiced mind, it looks like a most monstrous outrage that a public official should be openly branded as a "public thief," and his accuser permitted to shield himself from public exposure of the falseness of his charge, by alleging that he has the evidence in his possession but does not choose, for personal reasons, to furnish them. It puts the accused in the position of being compelled to bring an expensive action to vindicate his character, because this editor does not please to furnish the evidence, which he admits he does not have of his own knowledge, before a committee created to investigate the matter. There is a radical wrong here which needs reformation.

The stagnation of business, forced by the tariff agitation, is now gradually giving way to a more cheerful feeling, and manufacturers are taking steps to adjust their trade to the requirements of the new tariff and internal tax laws. A few foolish Democratic politicians—Carleise, Morrison, Tucker and others—have announced their purpose to open up the whole subject of tariff revision again next winter, and thus keep the business interest of the country in a state of uncertainty until after the next Presidential election, but it is thought that better counsels will prevail, as the wiser men of that party well know that, if this course is persisted in, it will require a swarm of affidavits after the election to prove that such an organization as the Democratic party ever existed.

CLEANINGS.

Immigration into the United States attracts great attention, because the people arrive in numbers, but whoever thinks to count the population which shifts from one State to another? The census of 1880 shows between six and seven millions of foreign born citizens. But it also reveals the fact that nearly seven millions of native born Americans are living in other States from those in which they were born.

Hold Attempt at Train Robbing.

Mulberry, March 8.—An attempt to rob a train was made near this place last night, and two lives were lost, one that of an unresisting conductor and the other that of a brakeman. As the passenger train of the Little Rock and Fort Smith road was nearing Mulberry it was brought to a stand still to take in some wood, and four men entered the rear car. No special attention was paid to the newcomers until the conductor, Jno. Caine, approached one of them to collect the fare. Two of the strangers were men of middle age, and their confederates were two boys in appearance, the oldest not being over seventeen.

When the conductor made a demand for the fare the elder of the two youths drew his pistol, and pointing it at the conductor's head, ordered him to stop the train, which had pulled out from the spot where the wood pile stood. With trembling hands the conductor obeyed the highwayman, and reached toward the bell rope. The robber held his pistol leveled at the conductor's head, and in the nervousness created by his inexperience, pressed the trigger and sent a ball through the skull of the conductor, who fell to the floor, unconscious and dying. Confusion and panic ensued, the robbers discharging their weapons, and endeavoring to frighten passengers by their screams and yell.

An effort was made to reach the engineer, brakeman Milton Lester, who was attracted by the shooting to the spot where the conductor fell and he died soon afterwards. The robbers heard the shot and fled, and that a robbery was being committed, and after having partially responded to the conductor's notice, who, in his fall, had pulled the bell rope and ordered the train to stop, he threw open the throttle valve and started for the station at a rapid pace.

One of the robbers tried to reach the locomotive by climbing upon it from the rear, but the engineer opened fire upon the man and prevented his approach. Seeing that they were being carried rapidly into town, and that further efforts to accomplish their purpose would lead them into captivity, the robbers jumped from the cars and disappeared.

When Mulberry was reached posse were organized to start in pursuit of the robbers and murderers, and the assistant superintendent of the road at Van Buren offered a reward of $5,000 for the apprehension of any or all of the offenders, and the County of Crawford, in which the crime was perpetrated, added $1,000 more.

McKENZIE, March 9.—A frightful explosion of dynamite occurred this morning at a stone quarry in Dead Man's Hollow, near this place. The workmen were preparing to blast, and found it necessary to place the dynamite. A cartridge was placed in the open air, and the man waited near by for its blow. Suddenly the dynamite exploded with a fearful roar, scattering the firebricks and loose quarry debris, and throwing the entire party with terrible violence some distance.

which weighs six pounds. The Mayor's real name is Robert H. Huza, and he hails from Boston, Mass. It was while exhibiting at Hartford, Conn., that he met the young lady who won his affections. Miss Hooper is twenty-five years of age, three feet high and weighs forty-five pounds. Her brother and sister, who were present, opposed the union, but the lady asserted her determination to wed Mr. Littlefinger, and did so. The bride was attired in white satin, and the groom wore a full dress suit, white tie and gloves. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Hugo O. Pentecost, of the Park Avenue Baptist Church.

Senator Cameron's Health.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Senator Cameron's health is much more seriously impaired than is generally supposed, and his condition is regarded by many as really critical, but not at all hopeless. He has been very much prostrated most of the winter by the return of fistula in an aggravated form, and the medical use of opiate is necessary to enable him to obtain sleep under the constant and severe pain has shattered his nervous system and generally prostrated him mentally and physically. He should have had a surgical operation performed some time ago, but he would not consent to it, and he has done so, and he is unwilling to be absolutely deprived of the power to appear in the Senate when the tariff will be considered. His delay in submitting to the surgical operation daily increased the violence of his malady, and he was seldom able to participate in its deliberations. His fretful controversy with Van Wyck was the result of his extreme nervous irritability, and it is not generally known that he fainted away into entire insensibility soon before the adjournment of Congress.

Since the adjournment of Congress Senator Cameron has not been well, and he stands the intended surgical operation, and some apprehensions are felt that he may not, with his present exhausting disease, be strong enough to submit to the scalpel. The operation will be a very severe and delicate one, and in his present weakened condition, it is feared he would not survive it. He is in the hands of the most experienced medical experts and it is generally hoped that he can be rallied enough to submit to the operation without risk to his life. It is believed that if he can be rallied enough to undergo the operation without fatal shock to his system, he will speedily regain his strength and health. He is not suffering from any organic disease. On the contrary, his malady is purely local, greatly aggravated by neglect and the necessary use of opiates, and if he can be made to come safely out of the hands of the surgeons, there is no apparent reason why he should not fully regain his usual health and vigor.

Low Escapes the Gallows.

UNIONTOWN, March 8.—John Bayard Low, who killed Policeman McCray Robb, of Connelistown, at a circus there on the 25th of last May and who was convicted of murder in the first degree at the last September court, had his second trial this week and was found guilty of the crime. The attorney for the defendant, in his argument for a new trial, stated one of the most important points that there was a great deal of important evidence that they could obtain that would benefit the prisoner which they did not know of before. It was thought that this evidence would save his life, and so proved.

High Water at Arkansas City.

LITTLE ROCK, March 8.—The water continued to rise at Arkansas City, and the lower portion of the city are now in a state of communication except boats. There is four feet of water in the Parker House and the back-water covers the Little Rock, Mississippi River and Texas Railroad for eleven miles, though communication is still maintained in the city and town, and near the elevator. There is considerable suffering among the poorer classes. No provisions have been made to relieve the destitute.

Attempted to Assassinate Blaine.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A report is current that a short time before the adjournment of Congress an attempt was made by some person unknown to assassinate Ex-Secretary Blaine by shooting into a carriage in which he was seated, while returning from the city to his residence at the Capitol. Mr. Blaine treats the matter lightly and says that the hole through the windows of the landau in which he rode was probably made by a devil thrown by some boy with a pebble sling. The report, however, are said to take a more serious view of the occurrence.

The Crops of Great Britain.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The statistical agent of the Department of Agriculture in London, reports continued rains and floods, great injury to the crops, and the probability of the worst failure for years. The area is reduced, and re-sowing will be necessary. There is also much alarm at the spread of the foot-and-mouth disease among cattle. Local fairs throughout Great Britain have been closed, and orders in Council prohibit the movement of farm animals from Scotland to Ireland until March 31.

Thieving Dynamite.

McKENZIE, March 9.—A frightful explosion of dynamite occurred this morning at a stone quarry in Dead Man's Hollow, near this place. The workmen were preparing to blast, and found it necessary to place the dynamite. A cartridge was placed in the open air, and the man waited near by for its blow. Suddenly the dynamite exploded with a fearful roar, scattering the firebricks and loose quarry debris, and throwing the entire party with terrible violence some distance.

Daniel Henniger was killed instantly, his legs and arms being dismembered and hurled high and farther, and his body badly mangled. George Henniger was shot and injured, principally on the face and head. Kate Gilley, a negro laborer, received three wounds, two of which were fatal. Daniel McCarty escaped with the "less injury," but he was very severely burned about the body and face, though not so badly as to prevent his being taken to the house of Dr. Henniger near by, the scene of the disastrous accident.

The Mad Mississippi.

HELENA, Ark., March 7.—The gale last night and day has lashed the river into fury, and the struggle to save levees has been desperate. A message from the Long Lake division, four miles south, says that with but one hundred men, the levee has not held another hour. A squad of fifty has just gone down, and more will quickly follow. The situation is extremely critical. The levee protecting Helena is still intact. Active work upon it is going forward, but it is in a precarious condition in many places. The only hope is in the wind calming.

The breaking of the levee near Frear's Point yesterday will be very disastrous to a large number of planters and other people in that section. A good deal of land never under water before, will be overflowed. Frear's Point, Delta and all towns for twenty miles back from the river will be greatly damaged, and planters will lose much live stock, corn and other supplies. Accounts from Tennessee say that great damage has been done to the crops, and many houses have been lost, and many houses, fences and a good deal of corn and cotton have been swept away. Some of the towns are completely isolated, but no actual suffering from the water is reported.

YONKERS, March 7.—News from all points in this section are unfavorable. The back water almost everywhere surrounds the Delta levee, Louisiana, and work will have to be suspended. The Ellis levee has given way. This will cause serious worry on the condition of the son, Senator J. D. Cameron. He received a telegram on Saturday from Washington stating that Senator Cameron had undergone an operation for fistula on Friday, and had stood it very well. It was learned yesterday that the son was expected to die as rapidly as can be improved.

A Very Queer Funeral.

PITTSBURGH, March 6.—A special dispatch from Gowanda, N. Y., tonight says: The burial of G. Stebbins, for twenty years editor of the Caledonia, N. Y., Patriot, caused a sensation in western New York and will go down as one of the most curious associated with the death of a man. What might be pronounced an Ingersollite. For years he has been dying of consumption and for months he brooded over his approaching dissolution. He was impressed by the refusal of Charles Thorne, the actor, to have any religious rites performed over his remains, and prior to his death exacted from his family the promise that no minister of whatever denomination should be allowed to hold a religious service. He was a member of Lodge No. 553, Knights of Honor, and asked that the ceremony be held at the lodge. He desired the Knights in following his remains to the grave to sing "Marching Through Georgia," repeating the song when the earth fell on his coffin. On leaving the cemetery they were to sing "Good-bye, love, good-bye."

GENERAL SIMON CAMERON.

He is Seriously Injured by a Fall in His Room.

HARRISBURG, March 12.—Several enterprising capitalists in the State published the assertion that General Simon Cameron had been shot by a bullet from a cannon battery in the city of Harrisburg, and that he was lying in a hospital, and that he was in a precarious condition. The assertion was a pure invention, and the General is in a precarious condition. He is seriously injured by a fall in his room. He is lying in a hospital, and he is in a precarious condition. He is seriously injured by a fall in his room. He is lying in a hospital, and he is in a precarious condition.

Over Sixty Immigrants Drowned by the HULL of the Steamer.

LONDON, March 9.—The steamer Navarre foundered during the gale of Monday, while on her way from Liverpool to Leith. There were on board 66 persons, and at the time of the disaster, 60 of whom were immigrants, and only sixteen of them are known to be saved. On Tuesday, when about 200 miles from Christiana, the Navarre was struck by a heavy sea. The cargo shifted, and the vessel, which was heavily laden, was tipped on her side. The ship went down, a fishing boat being in sight and ten men launched a boat and reached it in safety. Unfortunately, they then allowed their small boat to go adrift. The smack called round the sinking vessel, but having no boat was unable to render her assistance. The emigrants in the meantime were clinging to the rigging, the sea washing over them. In a short time another smack arrived on the scene. Fifteen of the Navarre men endeavored to reach the other boat, but they were drowned, and all its occupants were drowned. A steamer arrived at the spot only in time to rescue six persons, who were struggling in the water, as the Navarre was foundering. Altogether, six of the crew and ten passengers were saved. Most of the Navarre's passengers had intended embarking for America immediately on their arrival at Leith.

A Road Agent Arrested.

VAN BUREN, Ark., March 9.—One of the four men who attempted to rob a Westbound train on the Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad, near here, on Wednesday night, has been captured. He was wounded in the face and arm, and being unable to walk he was carried to a farm-house, where he was traced by the officers. He is now in jail here. At first lynching was threatened, but the town was quiet last night. Conductor Cain, of his wound yesterday morning, brakeman Lester, it is said cannot recover.

Fatally Poisoned.

He was bitten by a rat at Atlantic City last summer, and blood poisoning ensued, which eventually caused his death.

Mutilation of a Man by Masked Men.

PITTSBURGH, March 9.—A special from Lancaster, Ohio, says reports from Clearport, a small country town, says that William Cummins was dragged out of bed on Wednesday night by twelve masked men, blindfolded and then carried to a secluded ravine, where he was horribly mutilated and left to die. The deed was caused by revenge. Cummins is charged with having ruined several young girls, and compelled his wife and children to live in a house with one of his fast women.

Pittsburg Wages.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 5.—Ironmasters interviewed on the tariff question are unanimous in their declaration that under the new law a reduction of wages of all classes of workers will be necessary. If a reduction is persisted in it will probably result in a general strike, as a large number of the employees seen to day assert that any attempt to reduce wages will be stubbornly resisted.

Heavy Snow Storm in the West.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 9.—The worst snow and wind storm of the season is reported along the line of Northern Pacific. Freight business West of Fargo is entirely suspended. All passenger trains are moved with difficulty. Grafton, Dakota, suffered most, business being entirely suspended during the day.

Tracy and his wife and two children had come from Logan county on a visit to Gillette. The men went into the woods late yesterday afternoon and then got into a trifling dispute which ended in the murder. The scene of the crime was twelve miles south of here. Tracy was promptly arrested.

Children Drowned.

ST. LOUIS, March 11.—A dispatch from Helena says the first loss of human life by the flood in that region occurred to-day by the upsetting of a house twenty miles south of Helena, in which were six adults and four children. The latter were drowned. The former were rescued by a party of men who took them up to the roof after they had clung to it for three days. The St. Francis Swamp contains hundreds of houses, miles and cattle standing up to their throats in water, their owners being unable to rescue them. Many expressers are floundering about, and many are being drowned.

Shot Dead.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 9.—John Fox, of Bellville, widely known on account of his arrest for the attempted murder of Dr. Irving of Mansfield, about fourteen months ago, was shot and instantly killed last night on the public road, within half a mile from his home. Fox and his brother Daniel went to Mansfield yesterday with a load of grain, and were returning home at night. The shots were fired from a revolver in the hands of an unknown party, and some persons, who were in the neighborhood, at the first shot David leaped from the wagon, and ran, without looking to see who was the assailant. Aided by several friends he entered the child in the grave in which her sister was buried twenty years previously. The hearing of this had to do with the priest, and the priest was ordered to pay the dues. The priest was ordered to pay the dues.

Men who out and haul lumber.

The men who out and haul lumber are fearfully exposed in severe weather, and although hard and used, are sometimes laid aside from duty. Mr. Randall, of Augusta, Me., who is especially exposed in the lumbering business, has had one of his men who was attacked with a severe fever, that they thought he would die. They administered Parac Davis' Pain Killer, both internally and externally. In an hour the sufferer was relieved, and the next day he was at work as usual.
