

EDWARD SCULL, Editor and Proprietor.

WEDNESDAY, October 17, 1883.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR STATE TREASURER: WILLIAM LIVEST, Allegheny Co.

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL: JEROME N. NILES, Tioga County.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY: F. W. BIESSECKER, Somerset Ber.

FOR FOUR HOUSE DIRECTOR: REUBEN WOY, Somerset Ber.

FOR COUNTY SHERIFF: WILLIAM BAKER, Milford Twp.

DURING the month of September, the National debt was reduced $14,707,229, which is another argument in favor of "Turning the rascals out."

The man who stays at home and refuses to vote at the coming election, should move at once to some place for such spiritless drones.

EVERY Republican voter in Somerset county should determine for now until election time the success of the whole ticket. Pennsylvania must lead the column next year.

Let the voters bear in mind that our Democratic Governor and his party are responsible for the present outrageous extra session of the Legislature, which takes over $300,000 every day from the pockets of the taxpayers.

If the Republicans of this State will vote early—vote straight and without a scratch—at the coming election, the majority will be large enough to satisfy the entire country that Pennsylvania means business in 1884.

MANY of the editors and politicians of the State that last year assisted to scuttle the Republican side are now busily engaged in trying to plug up the holes and repair the damage they caused. They now see the effect of the suicidal policy they pursued.

The loss of Ohio should act as a trumpet call to all true Republicans in Pennsylvania. We can win, and we mean to do it. On a full vote, Pennsylvania is Republican by at least twenty thousand. Get out the vote, and victory is assured!

BEFORE the election in Ohio, the Democrats insisted that the issues there were purely local, and the result would have no political significance. Now, it is claimed, that the result makes sure the election of a Democratic President next year.

PATTISON'S extra session of the Legislature has cost, up to this date, $411,818.00. It still continues in session at the cost of $300 for each and every day, waiting for the public verdict. Let it hear from you, "boys," on the 6th day of November next.

The election in Iowa last week resulted in a clean Republican victory. Notwithstanding the combined efforts of the Democrats, Greenbackers and Liquor Dealers, the Republicans elected their Governor and State ticket by a majority of 30,000, and secured large majorities in both branches of the Legislature.

This stand taken by the Democrats in Ohio and Iowa, in favor of free trade, makes it evident that the policy of that party in the coming Congress will be to force the entire abolition of the internal revenue taxes on spirits, beer and wine, in order to make free whisky a leading issue against the Republican party in the Presidential canvass of next year.

AMERICAN credit is to-day better than that of any other Nation on the face of the globe, and the Secretary of the Treasury is preparing to issue bonds at two per cent. Does any body believe that the Democrats, who could not borrow a few thousand dollars at 6 percent, when they were last in power, would do any better if they were again placed in control?

SINCE the first of January last, our Democratic Legislature has been in continuous session, eating up the substance of the people, and giving us nothing in return for this profligate waste of money. Judgment will be entered in the case on the 6th day of November. Every Republican voter is on the jury, and the man that shirks his duty is not a good citizen.

CHARISMED by the result in Ohio, Chairman Hensel has already announced that the Democrats intend during the next three weeks, to make a most vigorous campaign in this State, and that all their big guns will be put on the stump. This is fair notice to Republicans that there is no child's play ahead of them, and should inspire every member of our party with a determination to go to the polls and do his full duty.

THE MORALE OF THE ELECTION.

THE RETURN of the elections in Iowa and Ohio are very slow in coming in, but according to estimates based upon results already known, it is clear that the Republicans have carried one State, and the Democrats the other. A saloon will not be built upon every hill top in Iowa, but in Ohio whisky will be free. In the former, the banner Republican State of the Union, there is a majority for the entire ticket much larger than was expected by the sanguine, and in Ohio the work of fanatics, whose zeal was better than their judgment, has accomplished just what they were endeavoring to prevent, and has disappointed those who believe that "half a loaf is better than no bread." The enforcement of the Scott law taxing saloons, since it was acquiesced in by honest men of both parties, but the temperance people insisted upon making prohibition an issue, and threw the Legislature and the government of the State into the control of the saloon keepers.

It is alleged that the wool growers of Ohio voted the Democratic ticket because they were offended at the slight reduction of duty on wool made by the last Congress, whereupon the Philadelphia Record, a free trade journal, bluntly remarks, "They can surely have no expectation that a Democratic majority in Congress will ever raise the duty. We have often heard of the man who bit off his nose to spite his face."

It is reported that Mr. Blaine has been offered $100,000 for his new book, "From Lincoln to Garfield," but has finally agreed to take $75,000 cash and fifteen cents royalty on each copy sold. The work is to be issued in two volumes, and will doubtless be a most valuable contribution to historical literature. Mr. Blaine is blessed with a remarkable memory, is an easy and graceful writer, and took a leading part in the politics of the country during the eventful period embraced in the scope of his coming volumes. No man is better fitted to write "From Lincoln to Garfield" than James G. Blaine.

The returns from Ohio come in remarkably slow, both parties having apparently lost interest in them, so soon as the general result was ascertained. It is settled, however, that Hoadly, Democratic candidate for Governor, will have a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000; and the Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot, and the prohibitory amendment is defeated by from 20,000 to 50,000 majority. The Democratic majority last year was over 19,000, and its decrease this year is attributed to the largely increased vote. With the distracting temperance issue eliminated from the canvass, the State is counted upon by our friends, as certain for the Republican candidates next year.

The Republicans of Ohio come in remarkably slow, both parties having apparently lost interest in them, so soon as the general result was ascertained. It is settled, however, that Hoadly, Democratic candidate for Governor, will have a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000; and the Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot, and the prohibitory amendment is defeated by from 20,000 to 50,000 majority. The Democratic majority last year was over 19,000, and its decrease this year is attributed to the largely increased vote. With the distracting temperance issue eliminated from the canvass, the State is counted upon by our friends, as certain for the Republican candidates next year.

On a very heavy vote, perhaps the heaviest ever polled, Ohio has gone Democratic by a majority of probably ten thousand, electing a Democratic Governor and a Democratic Legislature, that in due time will choose a Democratic United States Senator.

That the people of Ohio have changed their opinions in regard to the tariff, or upon any of the distinctive issues that have hitherto given victory to the Republican party, cannot be truthfully alleged. No sensible man doubts that the majority is as true as ever, to the principles of which President Garfield was the representative when elected, and none believe that in one iota, has public detestation of Democratic methods been abated. The struggle was not a square stand up fight between the two parties, but turned strictly upon local issues thrust into the canvass by the Prohibitionists.

The Scott law, which was an honest endeavor to restrict largely, and tax roundly the traffic in liquor, in accordance with the wishes of the people, and an amendment to the Constitution totally prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating beverages, were both before the voters.

THE temperance people insisted on making total prohibition the test, and thus by driving away a large and respectable vote, not yet prepared to go to extreme lengths on the temperance question, and as it is alleged, by trading votes for the Democratic candidate, in return for votes for the Amendment, have thrown the State into the hands of the Democrats, and subsequent legislation into the control of the liquor interests, who supplied the funds to carry on the campaign against them.

The result in Ohio, therefore, signifies little else than a crushing defeat of the over zealous temperance element, and an alliance between the Democratic party and the free-trade and non-Sunday elements to control future legislation.

That the issue of the campaign is prejudicial to the interests of the Republican party, it is useless to deny, but that it proves that the Democratic party is in a majority in Ohio, it would be sheer folly to assert. It is exactly such a Democratic victory as we had in Pennsylvania last year, and it, like the election of Pattison, has no bearing upon the Presidential election of next year, except in so far as it weakens the party by divisions on minor subjects, and leaves heart burnings and disappointments hard to eradicate.

The politician who places Ohio in the Democratic column, because of the result of last week's election, will have ample reason to change his opinion before the close of next year. Like the victory in this State, it will react upon the voters. If the voters of Pennsylvania had the opportunity to reconsider their work of last year, it is very certain that Pattison would be relegated to private life, and so, after the people of Ohio have tasted the fruits of one session of unrestricted Democratic legislation, they will curse the hour party with a determination to go to the polls and do his full duty.

THE MORALE OF THE ELECTION. THE RETURN of the elections in Iowa and Ohio are very slow in coming in, but according to estimates based upon results already known, it is clear that the Republicans have carried one State, and the Democrats the other.

It is alleged that the wool growers of Ohio voted the Democratic ticket because they were offended at the slight reduction of duty on wool made by the last Congress, whereupon the Philadelphia Record, a free trade journal, bluntly remarks, "They can surely have no expectation that a Democratic majority in Congress will ever raise the duty. We have often heard of the man who bit off his nose to spite his face."

It is reported that Mr. Blaine has been offered $100,000 for his new book, "From Lincoln to Garfield," but has finally agreed to take $75,000 cash and fifteen cents royalty on each copy sold. The work is to be issued in two volumes, and will doubtless be a most valuable contribution to historical literature.

The returns from Ohio come in remarkably slow, both parties having apparently lost interest in them, so soon as the general result was ascertained. It is settled, however, that Hoadly, Democratic candidate for Governor, will have a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000; and the Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot, and the prohibitory amendment is defeated by from 20,000 to 50,000 majority.

LANSCASTER, Pa., Oct. 10.—This city was thrown into an intense state of excitement between seven and eight o'clock this evening by the rumor that fifteen prisoners had overpowered the authorities at the county jail and made their escape.

THE MORALE OF THE ELECTION. THE RETURN of the elections in Iowa and Ohio are very slow in coming in, but according to estimates based upon results already known, it is clear that the Republicans have carried one State, and the Democrats the other.

It is alleged that the wool growers of Ohio voted the Democratic ticket because they were offended at the slight reduction of duty on wool made by the last Congress, whereupon the Philadelphia Record, a free trade journal, bluntly remarks, "They can surely have no expectation that a Democratic majority in Congress will ever raise the duty. We have often heard of the man who bit off his nose to spite his face."

It is reported that Mr. Blaine has been offered $100,000 for his new book, "From Lincoln to Garfield," but has finally agreed to take $75,000 cash and fifteen cents royalty on each copy sold. The work is to be issued in two volumes, and will doubtless be a most valuable contribution to historical literature.

The returns from Ohio come in remarkably slow, both parties having apparently lost interest in them, so soon as the general result was ascertained. It is settled, however, that Hoadly, Democratic candidate for Governor, will have a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000; and the Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot, and the prohibitory amendment is defeated by from 20,000 to 50,000 majority.

The temperance people insisted on making total prohibition the test, and thus by driving away a large and respectable vote, not yet prepared to go to extreme lengths on the temperance question, and as it is alleged, by trading votes for the Democratic candidate, in return for votes for the Amendment, have thrown the State into the hands of the Democrats.

That the issue of the campaign is prejudicial to the interests of the Republican party, it is useless to deny, but that it proves that the Democratic party is in a majority in Ohio, it would be sheer folly to assert. It is exactly such a Democratic victory as we had in Pennsylvania last year, and it, like the election of Pattison, has no bearing upon the Presidential election of next year, except in so far as it weakens the party by divisions on minor subjects, and leaves heart burnings and disappointments hard to eradicate.

The politician who places Ohio in the Democratic column, because of the result of last week's election, will have ample reason to change his opinion before the close of next year. Like the victory in this State, it will react upon the voters. If the voters of Pennsylvania had the opportunity to reconsider their work of last year, it is very certain that Pattison would be relegated to private life, and so, after the people of Ohio have tasted the fruits of one session of unrestricted Democratic legislation, they will curse the hour party with a determination to go to the polls and do his full duty.

Terrible Railroad Accident.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 10.—This city was thrown into an intense state of excitement between seven and eight o'clock this evening by the rumor that fifteen prisoners had overpowered the authorities at the county jail and made their escape.

THE MORALE OF THE ELECTION. THE RETURN of the elections in Iowa and Ohio are very slow in coming in, but according to estimates based upon results already known, it is clear that the Republicans have carried one State, and the Democrats the other.

It is alleged that the wool growers of Ohio voted the Democratic ticket because they were offended at the slight reduction of duty on wool made by the last Congress, whereupon the Philadelphia Record, a free trade journal, bluntly remarks, "They can surely have no expectation that a Democratic majority in Congress will ever raise the duty. We have often heard of the man who bit off his nose to spite his face."

It is reported that Mr. Blaine has been offered $100,000 for his new book, "From Lincoln to Garfield," but has finally agreed to take $75,000 cash and fifteen cents royalty on each copy sold. The work is to be issued in two volumes, and will doubtless be a most valuable contribution to historical literature.

The returns from Ohio come in remarkably slow, both parties having apparently lost interest in them, so soon as the general result was ascertained. It is settled, however, that Hoadly, Democratic candidate for Governor, will have a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000; and the Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot, and the prohibitory amendment is defeated by from 20,000 to 50,000 majority.

The temperance people insisted on making total prohibition the test, and thus by driving away a large and respectable vote, not yet prepared to go to extreme lengths on the temperance question, and as it is alleged, by trading votes for the Democratic candidate, in return for votes for the Amendment, have thrown the State into the hands of the Democrats.

That the issue of the campaign is prejudicial to the interests of the Republican party, it is useless to deny, but that it proves that the Democratic party is in a majority in Ohio, it would be sheer folly to assert. It is exactly such a Democratic victory as we had in Pennsylvania last year, and it, like the election of Pattison, has no bearing upon the Presidential election of next year, except in so far as it weakens the party by divisions on minor subjects, and leaves heart burnings and disappointments hard to eradicate.

The politician who places Ohio in the Democratic column, because of the result of last week's election, will have ample reason to change his opinion before the close of next year. Like the victory in this State, it will react upon the voters. If the voters of Pennsylvania had the opportunity to reconsider their work of last year, it is very certain that Pattison would be relegated to private life, and so, after the people of Ohio have tasted the fruits of one session of unrestricted Democratic legislation, they will curse the hour party with a determination to go to the polls and do his full duty.

A Mad Woman.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 10.—This city was thrown into an intense state of excitement between seven and eight o'clock this evening by the rumor that fifteen prisoners had overpowered the authorities at the county jail and made their escape.

THE MORALE OF THE ELECTION. THE RETURN of the elections in Iowa and Ohio are very slow in coming in, but according to estimates based upon results already known, it is clear that the Republicans have carried one State, and the Democrats the other.

It is alleged that the wool growers of Ohio voted the Democratic ticket because they were offended at the slight reduction of duty on wool made by the last Congress, whereupon the Philadelphia Record, a free trade journal, bluntly remarks, "They can surely have no expectation that a Democratic majority in Congress will ever raise the duty. We have often heard of the man who bit off his nose to spite his face."

It is reported that Mr. Blaine has been offered $100,000 for his new book, "From Lincoln to Garfield," but has finally agreed to take $75,000 cash and fifteen cents royalty on each copy sold. The work is to be issued in two volumes, and will doubtless be a most valuable contribution to historical literature.

The returns from Ohio come in remarkably slow, both parties having apparently lost interest in them, so soon as the general result was ascertained. It is settled, however, that Hoadly, Democratic candidate for Governor, will have a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000; and the Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot, and the prohibitory amendment is defeated by from 20,000 to 50,000 majority.

The temperance people insisted on making total prohibition the test, and thus by driving away a large and respectable vote, not yet prepared to go to extreme lengths on the temperance question, and as it is alleged, by trading votes for the Democratic candidate, in return for votes for the Amendment, have thrown the State into the hands of the Democrats.

That the issue of the campaign is prejudicial to the interests of the Republican party, it is useless to deny, but that it proves that the Democratic party is in a majority in Ohio, it would be sheer folly to assert. It is exactly such a Democratic victory as we had in Pennsylvania last year, and it, like the election of Pattison, has no bearing upon the Presidential election of next year, except in so far as it weakens the party by divisions on minor subjects, and leaves heart burnings and disappointments hard to eradicate.

The politician who places Ohio in the Democratic column, because of the result of last week's election, will have ample reason to change his opinion before the close of next year. Like the victory in this State, it will react upon the voters. If the voters of Pennsylvania had the opportunity to reconsider their work of last year, it is very certain that Pattison would be relegated to private life, and so, after the people of Ohio have tasted the fruits of one session of unrestricted Democratic legislation, they will curse the hour party with a determination to go to the polls and do his full duty.

Death of Surgeon General Crane.

WASHINGTON, October 10.—Brigadier General Charles H. Crane, Surgeon General of the United States Army, died at his residence in this city at 6 o'clock this afternoon.

THE MORALE OF THE ELECTION. THE RETURN of the elections in Iowa and Ohio are very slow in coming in, but according to estimates based upon results already known, it is clear that the Republicans have carried one State, and the Democrats the other.

It is alleged that the wool growers of Ohio voted the Democratic ticket because they were offended at the slight reduction of duty on wool made by the last Congress, whereupon the Philadelphia Record, a free trade journal, bluntly remarks, "They can surely have no expectation that a Democratic majority in Congress will ever raise the duty. We have often heard of the man who bit off his nose to spite his face."

It is reported that Mr. Blaine has been offered $100,000 for his new book, "From Lincoln to Garfield," but has finally agreed to take $75,000 cash and fifteen cents royalty on each copy sold. The work is to be issued in two volumes, and will doubtless be a most valuable contribution to historical literature.

The returns from Ohio come in remarkably slow, both parties having apparently lost interest in them, so soon as the general result was ascertained. It is settled, however, that Hoadly, Democratic candidate for Governor, will have a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000; and the Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot, and the prohibitory amendment is defeated by from 20,000 to 50,000 majority.

The temperance people insisted on making total prohibition the test, and thus by driving away a large and respectable vote, not yet prepared to go to extreme lengths on the temperance question, and as it is alleged, by trading votes for the Democratic candidate, in return for votes for the Amendment, have thrown the State into the hands of the Democrats.

That the issue of the campaign is prejudicial to the interests of the Republican party, it is useless to deny, but that it proves that the Democratic party is in a majority in Ohio, it would be sheer folly to assert. It is exactly such a Democratic victory as we had in Pennsylvania last year, and it, like the election of Pattison, has no bearing upon the Presidential election of next year, except in so far as it weakens the party by divisions on minor subjects, and leaves heart burnings and disappointments hard to eradicate.

The politician who places Ohio in the Democratic column, because of the result of last week's election, will have ample reason to change his opinion before the close of next year. Like the victory in this State, it will react upon the voters. If the voters of Pennsylvania had the opportunity to reconsider their work of last year, it is very certain that Pattison would be relegated to private life, and so, after the people of Ohio have tasted the fruits of one session of unrestricted Democratic legislation, they will curse the hour party with a determination to go to the polls and do his full duty.

Prisoners Make Their Escape.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 10.—This city was thrown into an intense state of excitement between seven and eight o'clock this evening by the rumor that fifteen prisoners had overpowered the authorities at the county jail and made their escape.

THE MORALE OF THE ELECTION. THE RETURN of the elections in Iowa and Ohio are very slow in coming in, but according to estimates based upon results already known, it is clear that the Republicans have carried one State, and the Democrats the other.

It is alleged that the wool growers of Ohio voted the Democratic ticket because they were offended at the slight reduction of duty on wool made by the last Congress, whereupon the Philadelphia Record, a free trade journal, bluntly remarks, "They can surely have no expectation that a Democratic majority in Congress will ever raise the duty. We have often heard of the man who bit off his nose to spite his face."

It is reported that Mr. Blaine has been offered $100,000 for his new book, "From Lincoln to Garfield," but has finally agreed to take $75,000 cash and fifteen cents royalty on each copy sold. The work is to be issued in two volumes, and will doubtless be a most valuable contribution to historical literature.

The returns from Ohio come in remarkably slow, both parties having apparently lost interest in them, so soon as the general result was ascertained. It is settled, however, that Hoadly, Democratic candidate for Governor, will have a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000; and the Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot, and the prohibitory amendment is defeated by from 20,000 to 50,000 majority.

The temperance people insisted on making total prohibition the test, and thus by driving away a large and respectable vote, not yet prepared to go to extreme lengths on the temperance question, and as it is alleged, by trading votes for the Democratic candidate, in return for votes for the Amendment, have thrown the State into the hands of the Democrats.

That the issue of the campaign is prejudicial to the interests of the Republican party, it is useless to deny, but that it proves that the Democratic party is in a majority in Ohio, it would be sheer folly to assert. It is exactly such a Democratic victory as we had in Pennsylvania last year, and it, like the election of Pattison, has no bearing upon the Presidential election of next year, except in so far as it weakens the party by divisions on minor subjects, and leaves heart burnings and disappointments hard to eradicate.

The politician who places Ohio in the Democratic column, because of the result of last week's election, will have ample reason to change his opinion before the close of next year. Like the victory in this State, it will react upon the voters. If the voters of Pennsylvania had the opportunity to reconsider their work of last year, it is very certain that Pattison would be relegated to private life, and so, after the people of Ohio have tasted the fruits of one session of unrestricted Democratic legislation, they will curse the hour party with a determination to go to the polls and do his full duty.

Terrible Railroad Accident.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 10.—This city was thrown into an intense state of excitement between seven and eight o'clock this evening by the rumor that fifteen prisoners had overpowered the authorities at the county jail and made their escape.

THE MORALE OF THE ELECTION. THE RETURN of the elections in Iowa and Ohio are very slow in coming in, but according to estimates based upon results already known, it is clear that the Republicans have carried one State, and the Democrats the other.

It is alleged that the wool growers of Ohio voted the Democratic ticket because they were offended at the slight reduction of duty on wool made by the last Congress, whereupon the Philadelphia Record, a free trade journal, bluntly remarks, "They can surely have no expectation that a Democratic majority in Congress will ever raise the duty. We have often heard of the man who bit off his nose to spite his face."

It is reported that Mr. Blaine has been offered $100,000 for his new book, "From Lincoln to Garfield," but has finally agreed to take $75,000 cash and fifteen cents royalty on each copy sold. The work is to be issued in two volumes, and will doubtless be a most valuable contribution to historical literature.

The returns from Ohio come in remarkably slow, both parties having apparently lost interest in them, so soon as the general result was ascertained. It is settled, however, that Hoadly, Democratic candidate for Governor, will have a majority of from 6,000 to 10,000; and the Legislature is Democratic on joint ballot, and the prohibitory amendment is defeated by from 20,000 to 50,000 majority.

The temperance people insisted on making total prohibition the test, and thus by driving away a large and respectable vote, not yet prepared to go to extreme lengths on the temperance question, and as it is alleged, by trading votes for the Democratic candidate, in return for votes for the Amendment, have thrown the State into the hands of the Democrats.

That the issue of the campaign is prejudicial to the interests of the Republican party, it is useless to deny, but that it proves that the Democratic party is in a majority in Ohio, it would be sheer folly to assert. It is exactly such a Democratic victory as we had in Pennsylvania last year, and it, like the election of Pattison, has no bearing upon the Presidential election of next year, except in so far as it weakens the party by divisions on minor subjects, and leaves heart burnings and disappointments hard to eradicate.

The politician who places Ohio in the Democratic column, because of the result of last week's election, will have ample reason to change his opinion before the close of next year. Like the victory in this State, it will react upon the voters. If the voters of Pennsylvania had the opportunity to reconsider their work of last year, it is very certain that Pattison would be relegated to private life, and so, after the people of Ohio have tasted the fruits of one session of unrestricted Democratic legislation, they will curse the hour party with a determination to go to the polls and do his full duty.

Advertisement for ASPARAGUS, BANNER BAKING POWDER, and SOMERSET CIGAR FACTORY. Includes text: "ASPARAGUS has been pronounced by leading Physicians the best Tonic in the World." and "BANNER BAKING POWDER Always the Best." and "SOMERSET CIGAR FACTORY J. K. COFFROTH, Proprietor." and "FINEST CIGARS, HAVANA TOBACCO." and "OUR HAND MADE STOGIES." and "CIGARS, PIPES, STEMS, SMOKING ACCESSORIES." and "SOMERSET, Pa."