THE PRINCESS AND THE RABBIT. In olden time, in ages long since flown, There lived a rabbit, one whose great renown For wisdom, learning, and for many things he did, Made him much sought for by emperors and kings. Yet though his wisdom made him wondrous in his day, His face was ugly, and his crooked eyes, That matched with his soiled and blackened skin, Gave to his countenance a horrid grin. One day an emperor asked him to his court, Where "Ugly Face" was subject to the sport. None mirthed it more than did the emperor's daughter.

THE WIDOWS WELCOME. Mrs. Piery was not in a good humor that day, as she sat at the breakfast table pouring coffee for her husband, and dispensing bread and butter to the three plump little Pierys. She was a handsome, over-dressed woman with a good deal of false hair, frizzed and puffed and braided on the top of her head, and a complexion that bore remote witness to the constant use of cosmetics. And Mr. Piery, at his end of the table, was evidently ill at ease, as he broke his egg and nibbled diligently at his roll.

PHILADELPHIA. Philadelphia is a brick! Nay more, she is millions of brick. In fact, Philadelphia is all brick, all the way from the city to the country. She did not move a muscle, but stood there with the whites of her eyes rolled up till she could not see us; and so, childlike, felt that she was not seen. We dashed past, but looking back in a moment, I saw them both peering on in green basins. And yet there are some folks who say the negro is without enterprise!

Miscellaneous Items. They used to call General Sherman "Cump" when he was a boy. The Peruvians have had an earthquake. We can recommend to them the exact of Peruvian bark for the shakes. The youngest grandchild on record is a boy, named Truidal, Texas. His name is Reese Butler, and he is 30 years old. Mr. Woolver, the English artist, is so impressed with Mary Anderson's Parthena that he will reproduce it in marble. The "art" of the chiropodist first attracted attention in 1845, when a German practiced on the cornea of the Queen of England. The largest oyster shell in the world is in the church of St. Sulprice, in Paris. It weighs over 300 pounds and is used as a baptismal font. Secretary Folger has decided that flower seeds are not dutiable under the provisions of the tariff act, and that they are exempt from duty. Farmers in Aroostook County, Me., say that when they bring them $1 a bushel they pay them 50 per cent on the cost of production. A suddenly-crazed young man fancied himself a highway robber at San Rafael, Cal., and fired into his own family carriage, badly wounding his sister. Senator Don Cameron, of Pennsylvania, will visit Germany, Italy and Spain before returning to America, and therefore he will not be back before next spring. The gold medal awarded to Lieutenant Parsons by the Geographical Society of France has been received by the Secretary of State at Washington. A certain rich man says of his wealth: "This is what I have often sighed for, even cried for, sometimes lied for, and nearly died for. What should I let it slide for?" See that your husband is properly fed and the chances are that he will take pleasure in seeing that you are properly clothed. The experiment is worth trying anyway. When any of your husband's relatives come always give your attention to the hair. It will give you your apartment and sleep in the spare room yourself you might catch your death of cold. If people troubled with colds would take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral before going to church or places of entertainment, they would avoid coughing, greatly to the comfort of both speaker and hearer. Public speakers and singers find that the Pectoral wonderfully increases the power and flexibility of the voice. A dispatch from Winnipeg, Manitoba, says: "Within the past few days a migration has begun in favor of secession from the Dominion Confederation. It is the association of Manitoba and the Northwest that is being advocated, and the movement will be properly organized this week when meetings will be held and officers appointed. The Secretary of a London bank recently got away with £100,000 of the funds of the institution, and the directors, in a circular to the shareholders, say: "The board can only regret that just at the close of what would otherwise have been a prosperous year, this incident should so sadly prejudice the result." Eighty thousand children in the North and East form the "Dixey Bird Society." They are pledged to protect birds, never to destroy a nest, and to feed birds in winter. It would not be a bad organization for this country. In combined voice and plumage our American birds of very recent date are not to be seen in the world. It was a sorry piece of work to import such useless vagrants as English sparrows to take their places. The recent Florida enactment forbidding licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, except upon a petition of a majority of the voters of the election district, has been considered by the Senate Committee, and the constitutionality of the act affirmed. The people in any election district may hence declare absolute prohibition if they choose. It will not be ten years until the States of the South will lead all the States of the Union on the temperance question. Mr. P. S. Gilmore, the great jubilee man, played at the Louisville Exposition, and in a speech made by him, he said: "I have never met more liberal or more souled fellows in my life, and I am more satisfied than ever before that the Yankee Nation had brains to know what was good for them when they would not let you go the idea of letting such a person as myself without a recess, which is the scene of my life. The prize was worth dying for, and has been saved to the Nation for ever and ever, and thank the Lord for it." The back gate of the Jenkins family had a bolt, which the cook secured each night. One morning about 2 o'clock Mr. Jenkins returned home in an enfeebled condition. Refraining from trying to find the front door, on account of Mrs. J. and the baby, he tried the alley gate. It was locked. With great difficulty he climbed the wall, with its cap of broken bottles, and dropping into the yard, unlocked the gate. He then, to the surprise of a sleepless neighbor who had been watching the scene from a front back over the wall to the street, and entered by the gate in good order. A Glasgow professor has advanced the theory that there is a magnetic sense, distinct from the other senses, resident in every person and that through it we acquire of affinities and antagonisms that cannot be otherwise accounted for. We often conceive a dislike for a person entirely without a reason that we can assign to ourselves, when everything would seem to warrant a very different feeling; and this peculiar instinct the professor thinks to be the operation of a definite sense which is quite as distinct from the other senses of sight or hearing, is often more reliable than the deductions of reason. Perhaps this seventh sense might be cultivated to good service.
