one which constitutional legislation on fashion.
In fact, therefore, the repeal of the act upon which the existing government depends; the assumption by the National Legislature of the entire political control of the Territory, and the establishment of a commission, with such powers as shall be delegated to it by law.

It will be remembered that in 1853, when free delivery was first established by law, the uniform single rate of postage upon local letters was one cent, and so it remained until 1872, when, in those cities where the carrier service was established, it was increased in order to defray the expense of such service, it seems to me that the rate is now, and that, too, even at the risk of diminishing, for a time, at least, the receipts from postage upon local letters. I can see no reason why that particular class of mail matter should be held accountable for the entire cost of delivery, but the collection and delivery of all other classes, and I am confident, after full consideration of the subject, that the reduction of rate would be followed by such a growing accession of business as to occur in but slight and temporary loss to the revenues of the Post-Office Department.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH.
The Postmaster-General devotes much of his report to the consideration of its various aspects of the relation of the Government to the telegraph. Such reflection as I have been able to give to this subject since my last annual message has not led me to change the view which I expressed in my dissenting from the recommendation of the then Postmaster-General, that the Government assume control of the telegraph which it has always exercised over the mail. Admitted that its authority in the premises is as ample as has ever been claimed for it, and that, in my judgment, be a wise use of that authority to purchase or assume control of the existing telegraph lines or construct others with a view of entering into general competition with private enterprises.

The objections which may be urged against the purchase of these lines, and, indeed, against either system which would require an enormous increase of the Civil Service list, do not, however, apply to some of the plans which have lately provoked public comment and discussion. It has been claimed, for example, that the Government should authorize the postmaster general to contract with some private persons or corporation for the transmission of messages at specified rates and under Government supervision. Various such schemes of the same general nature, but widely differing in their special characteristics, have been suggested in the public prints, and the arguments by which they have been supported and opposed have doubtless attracted your attention. It is likely that the whole subject will be considered by you at the present session.

In the nature of things it involves so many questions of detail that your deliberations would probably be aided slightly if, at all, by any particular suggestions which I might now submit. I avow my belief, however, that the government should be authorized by law to exercise a measure of supervision of inter-state telegraph communication, and I express the hope that for attaining that end some measure may be devised which will receive your approbation.

FEES OF JURORS AND WITNESSES.
The Attorney General criticizes in his report the provisions of existing law fixing the fees of jurors and witnesses in the Federal Courts, and proposes a measure which is contained in the act of February 23, 1882, though some of them were introduced into that act from statutes which had been passed many years previous. It is manifested that such compensation as might when these laws were enacted have been just and reasonable, would, in many instances, be justly regarded at the present day as inadequate. I concur with the Attorney General in the belief that the statutes should be revised; so, too, should the laws which regulate the compensation of District Attorneys and Marshals. They should be paid wholly by salaries, instead of in part by fees, as is now the case. The change would prove to be a measure of economy, and would discourage the institution of needless and oppressive legal proceedings which are to be feared, have in some instances, been introduced for the mere sake of personal gain.

THE INDIAN QUESTION.
Much interesting and varied information is contained in the report of the Secretary of the Interior. I hastily call your attention to his presentation of certain proposals which, in many instances, are recommended for the Pre-emption and Timber Culture acts, and for more stringent legislation to prevent frauds under the pension laws. The statutes which provide for the detection and punishment of frauds relating to pensions would doubtless be made more effective by certain amendments and additions, which are pointed out in the Secretary's report.

PREVALENCE OF ILLITERACY.
I have previously referred to the alarming state of illiteracy in certain portions of the country, and again submit for the consideration of Congress whether some Federal aid should be extended to public primary education wherever adequate provision therefor has not already been made.

THE NORMAN PROBLEM.
The Utah Commission has submitted to the Secretary of the Interior its second annual report. As a result of its labors in supervising the recent election in that Territory, pursuant to Act of March 22, 1882, it appears that the persons who are disqualified number about 12,000, and who were excluded from the polls.

This fact, however, affords little cause for congratulation, and I fear that it is far from indicating any real and substantial progress toward the extermination of polygamy. All the members of the Territory are Mormons. There is grave reason to believe that they are in sympathy with the practices that this Government is seeking to suppress, and that its effort in that regard will be more likely to incur their opposition than to receive their encouragement and support. In this view should possibly be erroneous, the law under which the Commissioners have been acting should be made more effective by the incorporation of some such stringent measures as your recommendations, such as were included in bill No. 2230, on the calendar of the senate at its last session. I am convinced, however, that polygamy has become so strongly introduced in the Territory of Utah that it is prodigious to attack it with any but the strongest weapons.

careful attention, especially for those portions which relate to assessments, arrears of taxes, and water supply. WORK OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.
The Commissioners, who were appointed under the act of January 16, 1883, entitled "An Act to Regulate and Improve the Civil Service of the United States," entered promptly upon the discharge of these duties. A series of reports, framed in accordance with the spirit of the statute, was approved and promulgated by the President, in some particulars wherein they seemed defective those reports were subsequently amended.

It will be perceived that they disclose any political or other considerations tests for admission to those offices of the public service to which the statutes relate. The act is limited in its original application to the classified clerkships in the Executive departments at Washington (numbering about 5,000), and to similar positions in customs districts and postoffices, where as many as fifty persons are employed.

A classification of these positions, analogous to those existing in the Washington office, was made before the law went into effect. Eleven customs districts and twenty-three postoffices were brought under the immediate operation of the statute. The annual report of the Civil Service Commission, which will be submitted to Congress, will doubtless afford the means of a more definite judgment than I am now prepared to express as to the merits of the new system. I am persuaded its effects have thus far proved beneficial. Its practical methods appear to be adequate for the ends proposed and there has been no serious difficulty in carrying them into effect. Since the 16th of July last no person, so far as I am aware, has been appointed to the public service in the classified positions thereof at any of the departments or at any of the postoffices and customs districts above named, except those certified by the Commission to be competent on the basis of the examinations held in conformity to the rules.

THE PRESIDENTIAL DISABILITY QUESTION.
At the time when the present Executive entered upon his office, his death, removal, resignation, or inability to discharge his duties, would have left the Government without a President. It is possible, therefore, that a similar contingency may again arise, unless the wisdom of Congress shall provide against its recurrence. The Senate, at its last session, after full consideration, passed an act relating to this subject, which will, if approved by the House, be subject to the approval of both Houses of Congress. The clause of the Constitution upon which must depend any law regulating the Presidential succession presents also, for solution, other questions of paramount importance. These questions relate to the proper interpretation of the phrase "Inability to discharge the powers and duties of said office."

Our organic law provides that when the President shall suffer from such inability the Presidential office shall devolve upon the Vice President, who must himself, under like circumstances, give place to such officer as Congress may by law appoint to act as President. I need not here set forth the numerous and interesting inquiries which are suggested by these words of the Constitution. They were fully stated in my first communication to Congress, and have since been the subject of frequent deliberations in that body.

It is greatly to be hoped that these momentous questions will find speedy solution, lest emergencies may arise when longer delay will be inadvisable, and any determination, although it may furnish cause for anxiety and alarm.

THE VETO POWER.
For the reasons fully stated in my last annual message, I repeat my recommendation that Congress propose an amendment to that provision of the Constitution which prescribed the formalities for the enactment of laws whereby, in respect to bills for the appropriation of public money, the Executive may be enabled, while giving his approval to particular bills, to interpose his veto of such others as do not commend themselves to his judgment.

The Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution confers the rights of citizenship upon all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof. It was the special purpose of this amendment to insure to members of the colored race the full enjoyment of civil and political rights. Certain statutory provisions, intended to secure the enforcement of these rights, have been recently declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. Any legislation whereby Congress may lawfully supplement the guarantees which the Constitution affords for the equal enjoyment of all the citizens of the United States, of every right, privilege, and immunity of citizenship, will receive my unhesitating approval.

Want of Faith.
If C. N. Boyd, the Druggist, does not succeed it is not for the lack of faith. He has such faith in Dr. Boy's Cough and Lung Syrup as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and Lung Affections, that he will give a bottle free to each and every one who is in need of a medicine of this kind.
