THE LITTLE WOMAN.

Don't talk to me of Olympus' maids " Divinely tall and fair,"

Of Juno's stately air. Those mighty dames, with redoubted name May erst have held their sway.

'Tis the little woman-bless her heart-Who rules the world to.day.

With her wilful, winsome ways, Her artful, artless smiles-Her airy grace and her fairy face-Her wisdom, wit and wiles.

She mocks the pride and sways the strength She bends the will of man, As only such a despotic elf-A little woman -can.

Though her pathway may lead thro' darkest She always finds a light; Though her eyes be dazzled by fortune's rays She's sure to see aright ;

Though her wisdom be of no special school Her logic, "just because," The first has settled a kingdom's fate, The last has made its laws.

Tis the little woman that goes ahead When men would lag behind; The little woman who sees her chance, And always knows her mind-Who can slyly smile as she takes the oath

To honor, love, obey, And mentally add the saving clause In a little woman's way !

Would the rose-leaf yield such a sweet perfame If it covered yards of ground ?

Would the dew-drops seem so clear and pur If dew like rain should fall? Or the little woman be half so great If she were six feet tall?

Tis the hand as soft as the nestling bird That grips the grip of steel; The the voice as tow as the summer wind

May fight, and plan, and pray, The world will wag to the end of time In the little woman's way.
