JENNER X ROADS, June 23, 1884. A lady of rather prepossessing appearance, giving Braddock as her residence, arrived at Ligonier Thursday from Somerset county where she had gone in pursuit of a roving band of gypsies which pursed through that lown several days ago, She says they entered her house at Braddock, drugged her, and then rabbed her of $1.15 and many valuable trinkets. She caught up with them at Jenner, ten miles distant, and swore out warrant for their arrest before 'Squire Rauch, where they were given a hearing. At the hearing they claimed that she gave them the money for telling her the past, present and future, or in other words, her fortune. A compromise was effected by the gypsies refunding the money and valuables Her name could not be learned .- Advance
