We are having a regular orthodox winter, after all. The coldest weather known to this section for many years was on Sunday morning, when mile on mile, registered 18° below zero. Last Wednesday the mercury stood close to zero all day.

The Commissioners of Indiana county have laid the county tax at four mills on the dollar for the present year. In Washington county it is fixed at three mills. In Westmoreland county it is six mills, in Fayette five, Bedford six, Greene five, Allegheny four, and in Somerset eight.

Court convened at 10 o'clock Monday morning, with Judges Baer, Collins and Snyder on the bench. The attendance was unusually large for the opening day of Court. There is a large number of criminal cases down for trial, but most of them are of a very trivial nature. The violators of the liquor laws have the call.

A novel indictment is pending in court. A citizen of Paint township was returned by the constable of that township for shooting a wild goose out of season, and the case is down for trial at the present term of court. If the goose was shot while on the wing the Paint man should be awarded a chromo instead of being indicted for a misdemeanor.

Mr. Rogers, of the firm of Rogers & O'Brien, contractors at Sideling Hill tunnel yesterday purchased a fine driving horse from John A. Corle of the Washington house for which he paid the sum of $200. They intended it a new saddle and bridle and presented the animal to Rev. Father O'Connell, as a gift from the contractors and workingmen at the tunnel.—Bedford Gazette.

John Ross and Levi Shaffer, who were convicted at December session of selling liquor without license were respectively sentenced Monday, by Judge Baer, to pay a fine of $200 the costs of prosecution, and to be in the custody of the Sheriff until the sentence is complied with. They both went to jail. Similar sentence for like offences were imposed upon Michael M Garvey and Philip Wild, who were tried and convicted Monday afternoon.

The Harrisburg Independent says: A number of journals throughout the State are doing Senator Longenecker, of Bedford, a great injustice by publishing that he is the author of forestry bill, and he further asserting that it had been introduced by him in the Senate, which bill is now before the Committee Agriculture. It is due Senator Longenecker to state that the bill was prepared by Captain Bomberger, of Shippensburg, and read to place by Senator Warner, of Cumberland, by special request, and that he has no connection with the bill whatever.

BOOK KEEPING.—The Institute at Mt. Pleasant will hold their fourth annual Book Reception Friday evening, March 6, 1885. The library now numbers 1200 volumes, which have been contributed chiefly through these receptions. The Alumni have done the generous thing by fitting up the reading room in tasteful style. The musical entertainment March 6 will be an important feature. Books are already coming in. Several States have already contributed, besides contributions from all parts of Pennsylvania. Following the reception on the 6th will be the "Middler's Exhibition" March 10 which is usually an occasion of a good deal of interest.

We are very much to see some of the Democratic papers of this county favoring the re-appointment of George W. Daniels, of Somerset county, to the supervisorship of the old joke. Very little of the road is situated within the limits of Somerset county, and nearly all the money to keep up its repairs is taken in at the three gates in Fayette county. Mr. Daniels has served two years now, and Fayette county should have it the next term. As long as there are competent Democratic applicants in Fayette, it looks like a spiteful factional spirit that leads our local Democratic organs to favor a Somerset man.—Republican Standard.

PAINT TOWNSHIP INSTITUTE.

The Teachers' District Institute of Paint Township, Somerset County, convened at Custer Schoolhouse at 2 o'clock P. M., February 7, 1885 and was opened by singing the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee."

The following officers were then elected to serve during the sessions:

Vice President, J. D. Ripple; Secretary, S. Zimmerman; Assistant Secretary, S. P. Geisel.

Prof. J. F. Deitz was appointed to take charge of the music.

During the sessions of the Institute the following programme was successfully carried out:

Afternoon Session.—Report, "People in Respect to Schools," by Prof. J. F. Deitz, which was ably discussed.

Choice readings and recitations by a number of the pupils of the school, and others. Adjourned.

Evening Session.—Institute convened at 7 P. M., and was opened by singing a song entitled, "When the Green Leaves."

Prof. S. Zimmerman then entertained the Institute with a very interesting talk on the subject of Arithmetic.

Report, "School-houses and School Furniture," by L. S. Livingston, which was very suitable for the occasion, and of a humorous character, was vociferously applauded.

Mr. S. P. Geisel spoke on the subject of "School Management." His address was of much interest and benefit to the Institute.

Report, by J. D. Ripple; Subject, "The Necessity and Advantage of the General Diffusion of Knowledge." Mr. Ripple ranks high as a teacher in the schools of Somerset and his report was delivered in an entertaining manner.

Select recitations were delivered by S. P. Geisel, S. H. Canfield, Sidney Holsapple, David Custer, R. W. Trevorrow, and others.

Music and Queries at the call of the President; after which, time was extended for resolutions and general remarks, opened by L. S. Livingston, followed by J. D. Ripple, J. F. Deitz, J. D. Ripple, and others. These gentlemen presented very good suggestions relative to District Institutes.

AN AMERICAN.

When a new drama has proved successful, it is customary for the audience to call the author before the curtain. They have a curiosity to see what sort of a man it is that created the play that has amused and instructed them. There is something very much like this in regard to our great newspapers; their editorial utterances are all anonymous, but there is generally a tradition of some half-shadowy personage who has established the journal, given it its character, and constantly directs it; and the public like to have him come before the curtain now and then, to address them in person. This Murat Halstead, of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette has done in the March number of the North American Review, to which he contributes an article on "The Revival of Sectionalism." In the same number, Archdeacon Farrar presents his views on "Future Retribution," and Prof. N. K. Davis discusses "The Moral Aspects of Vivisection" in a way that brings together briefly everything that any person of note has said on the subject. Max Miller describes the astonishing ideas of the Buddhists on the subject of Charity, and George John Romanes opens up a great subject with an article on "Mind in Men and Animals." The other articles are one by President Gilman on Titles (chiefly scholastic), one by Judge John A. James on "Speculation in Politics," and one by John W. Johnson on "Railway Immigrants."

OUR HARRISBURG LETTER.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 21, 1885.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Owing to the municipal elections this week, the Legislature did not convene until Wednesday night, and at that session the Senate did comparatively nothing, while the time of the House was consumed by Crawford and Mackay, of Philadelphia, in their objections to the passage of a bill to prevent persons from acquiring a right by user in passing over college or academy grounds. These two brilliant representatives of the Democratic statesmen amused the House in a sort of minstrel troupe style. Crawford is the grammatical gymnast of the House, and always uses "are" for "is," and instead of "w" uses "v," as the first sentence of his speech shows—"There are a very good university in Philadelfy who haint wantin this ere law." Mackin was busy as ever objecting to everything any Republican suggested, and calling the yeas and nays on every trivial and insignificant motion, until the Speaker became blind and deaf to his calls.

On Thursday both branches worked industriously on bills on first and second reading, and on Thursday afternoon there was a joint meeting in the Senate chamber of the Senate and House Judiciary General committees to give a hearing to all parties interested in the anti-discrimination bill. The chamber was crowded to hear both sides, and a great many knotty points were unraveled for the committees by the friends and enemies of the bill. Mr. Norris of the Philadelphia Record and representative of the Maritime Exchange made the most forcible speech of all in his advocacy of the measure. The railroad men did not have much to say for themselves. Senator Emery tried to help champion the side of anti-discrimination, but made as big a blunder as he did in his opposition to Cameron. He is one of the most unreasonable men in the Senate, and does more blowing than all the other statesmen. He always brings in some reference to his wealth and the amount he has expended in this or that enterprise—a man without culture and intelligence—but whose success in oil speculation has gained him wealth and thereby power, but only in McKean county.

Friday morning very little was done, as most of the House and a good many Senators went with the Judiciary General committee to inspect the Reformatory Institution at Philadelphia. The action of the Governor in withholding nominees from the Senate is creating considerable comment and is now showing the aggressive side of his character, and his course threatens to lead to much ill-feeling. Recently he sent to the Senate the names of two of the Trustees of the Norristown hospital for re-appointment, and also the name of an ex-rebel soldier for Notary Public. As will be remembered the Senate rejected them all—one of the hospital Trustees by an almost unanimous vote. The ex-rebel had been appointed Notary Public before the legislature assembled, and been commissioned, subject to confirmation. The Governor now claims that all these rejected appointees can continue to act until he chooses to appoint their successors, and further claims that there are numerous precedents to be cited in support of his position. If this theory is correct then the Senate can not be said to have a voice in the appointment of certain officials. The Constitution gives the Governor power to appoint officers with the advice and consent of the Senate. It may be shrewd in the Governor to circumvent the Senate when that body refuses to be submissive, but in doing so he sets a wretched example in his capacity and truly shows how little the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth really is.

There will be a Republican caucus of the House on Wednesday evening, the 25th inst. the object of which is to receive the apportionment bill the committee, appointed by Chairman Colborn, have decided upon.

The telegraph lines are becoming agitated now, as the bill requiring them to place their wires underground has been reported favorably. Another bill has been introduced by Mr. Courtney, of Lancaster, prohibiting telegraph companies from discriminating in rates for sending messages; it is very much like the railroad discrimination bill in most every particular.

Friday there was considerable flutter at the Lochiel Hotel when the doors swung open and in bobbled the gallant General James A. Beaver. He had been to Philadelphia attending Supreme Court, and stopped off on his way home. On every side he was warmly greeted, and in a short time the office and lobby were crowded with friends eager to greet him who had been so treacherously slaughtered by would-be Republicans.

Quite a number of members are sick, and several will probably not recover. Most of them are suffering from pneumonia.

Every citizen in this commonwealth should read Senator Cameron's speech on Commerce. Since its arrival here his most bitter enemies have acknowledged him to be, what he is, a statesman of brains and ability. It is not always the most fluent and ready debaters who make the best representatives, for some of the windy members, like Robinson, of Delaware, who can talk on nothing for three hours, cost the State more than many imagine. By glancing over the Record, and measuring the speeches made on trivial questions, you will find they cost the State thousands. So one can see how expensive it would be to have a Senate and House full of windy, fluent and ever ready talkers.

The Governor is said to feel so very jubilant over the success of his first veto, that he intends trying it again on some measures before the Legislature.

SANCO.

JEFFERSON TOWNSHIP INSTITUTE.

Institute met at Bakersville February 14, and was called to order by the President, and opened with music led by G. M. Dickey.

After the reading and approval of the minutes of the previous meeting, G. M. Dickey discussed the subject "Closing the School," arguing that it does not hurt a child to be whipped the last day of school.

"Preparation of the Teacher," by S. A. Shaulis. He maintain d that the teachers are not prepared as they ought to be, but the wages paid for teaching are too low for thorough preparation.

After disposing of some interesting queries, Institute adjourned for dinner.

"Spelling Reform" was opened by H. H. Kimmell, followed by A. F. Berkey, whose theory is "set a good example," which is the first step in teaching morals.

The Valedictory was delivered by C. F. Jacob, followed with interesting remarks by Messrs. Fred Shaulis and A. F. Berkey.

H. H. KIMMELL, Secretary.

EDIE AND VICINITY.

Snow plenty.

Weather cold.

Coal business booming.

All is quiet at Sipesville since the election for township officers.

Our friend Link thinks the cellar is not the right place to keep the rooster.

Abe went to Jennertown on Saturday but have no report from that quarter yet.

John J. Baker is preparing to build a new barn next summer, which he is greatly in need of.

Mrs. Sipe, wife of Michael Sipe, Sr., died on Saturday, aged about 88 years.

"Somerset north" can boast of quite a number of old persons: Henry Shaulis, 91; Michael Sipe, 90; Abraham Beam, 88; and others just across the line in Jenner, David Bell, Isaac Ankeny, Jacob Cover and others.

Prof. Austin of Johnstown treated the people of Sipesville to a series of Phrenological lectures and examined their heads and pockets, without respect to persons—mechanics, merchants, doctors, farmers preachers and very likely some soft heads. The Professor tried his hand at Edie, but soon found out that was not the place for him and soon left.

Our corpulent neighbor David is making good use of the good sleighing, hauling fittings to and from Petersburg, and sleighing the fair women to Somerset.

Guess work is all right when it hits; but those people who are guessing who the Edie correspondent is had better try again.

OCCIDENTAL.

MARRIED.

WALLER — SECHLER. — On Sunday, February 15, 1885, at the home of the bride, by Rev. S. J. Taylor, Mr. John Waller and Miss A. J. Sechler, all of Turkeyfoot, this county.
