A symboled sacrifice And all our rancor dies No North, no South! O stern faced Chief, One weeping ours, one cowled Grief-Thy Country-bowed in prayer and tear For North and South-above thy bier! For North and South! O Soldier grim,

The broken ones to weep for him We broke them ! He whose terrors blazed In smoking harvests, cities razed; Whose Fate-like glance sent fear and chill Whose wordless lips spoke deathless will Till all was shattered, all was lost-All hands dropped down-all War's red co Laid there in ashes-Hope and Hate And Shame and Glory Death and Fate.

Fall back! Another touch is thine: He drank not of thy poisoned wine, Nor blindly met thy blind-thrown lance-Nor died for sightless time or chance-But waited, suffered, bowed and tried, Till all the dross was purified Till every well of hate was dried; And North and South, and wisters, cried, And then-at God's own calling-died. Two other Virginia presidents, Monroe and Tyler, lie within a few feet of each other in the cemetary of Hollywoyd, at Richmond. Monroe's death and those of John Adams and Jefferson fell upon the Fourth of July. He, too, in 1831, five years after his great predecssors and elders, marked the nation's birthday by his close. He died in New York a poor man, and his re-mains were entombed there until in 1858 the Legislature of Virginia removed them to Hollywood and pla-ced them in a substantial vault, marked by a gothic temple on a foundation of Virginia granite. Tyler's grave near by is scarcely marked at all; a little mound, with a magnolia tree at the head, is pointed out as the spot.

The three Tennesee presidents were buried at their homes; Jackson at the Hermitage, near Nashville, his wife beside him. A massive monument of Tennessee granite marks the place. Polk is buried in Fashville, at the old family homestead. He survived Jackson only four years, dying 1849. KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that SCROFULA can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Bolls, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

It is so effectual an alterative that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. POINT PLEASANT, O., July 25 .-The members of Zeno H. Scott Post No. 279, G. A. R., of Moscow, made arrangements some two months ago for draping the house in which Gen. Grant was born when the news of his death should reach them. Word was not received here until too late for the service of love to be performed on Thursday. Two wagons loaded with men who had fought under him went down to the cottage yesterday.

Flags draped in mourning were placed in the doors and windows and the post colors run up to halfmast over the west gable of the cottage. While the company assem-bled was of necessity small, jet it included representatives of the infantry, cavalry, artillery and navy. The house, whose original dimensions were 22x20 feet, is in a good state of preservation. The large chimney that stood at the east end had to be taken down to prevent its falling, but it will be rebuilt with the same bricks. The inside of the house is unchanged.

The dressed upper joist, with the upper floor dressed on the under side, is the only ceiling. The front room is 19 by 14, with two windows and two outside doors beside the door that enters the bedroom, which STRICTLY FIRST-CLASS WORK is 19 by 8 and contains two windows. The work of the Post being completed, Post Commander McMath detailed First Sergeant Parheim, of the First O. I.
