

THE SACRED COLLEGE.

A Simple Explanation of Its Composition and the Custom Regulating the Cardinals.

Much that has been written for the information of the public with regard to the composition of the Sacred College of Cardinals is either vague or misleading...

The second or larger class is that of Cardinal-priests or those holding in fact or as honorary the vicariate of certain churches or parishes in Rome...

When the blacksmith gives the anvil quick, light blows, it is a signal to the helper to use the sledge or to strike quicker...

When the blacksmith desires the sledge blows to cease, he lets the hand hammer head fall upon the anvil and continue its rebound upon the same until it ceases...

The present composition of the College is that of Sixtus V., A. D. 1586, under letter or bull "Pastquam vetus," by which the total number is not to exceed seventy...

For a long time the title of Cardinal Bishop was unknown, the Roman Pontiff alone presiding as such. The Cardinal Deacons, originally seven in number, in imitation of the ancient apostolic usage...

All grades of Cardinals now take precedence of other prelates (this was not originally the usage—the custom having been generally introduced throughout the entire known world, while other prelates, as Archbishops, Bishops or Mitred Abbots, are limited as to that dignity respectively to their own provinces, dioceses, or houses...

Another mystery remains unexplained to all but Roman Churchmen, the apparent presence of two Archbishops in the same province, yet without conflict of authority. Here a happy explanation of a convenient ecclesiastical fiction will enable us to appreciate the remarkable fitness of the machinery of that organization for avoiding all dilemmas.

MONTREAL, October 23.—There is no apparent diminution in the ravages of the small-pox. Of 253 persons who died from the disease here during the week ending on Friday last, 227 were French-Canadians, nine were under six months, twenty-five from six months to one year, 127 from one to five years, and sixty-two from five to ten years.

When a mob of pickpockets start out to "work" a crowd on a train, they break into two. The operator on leather "fame" intended victim. This, in plain English, means that he ascends the exact location of the victim's money. He gets to the side of the man whose pocket is to be picked and with rapid movement dexterously passes his fingers lightly over every pocket...

The steamer cutter, being short of coal, left one man and an interpreter on the lookout with orders to stand down any shores arriving, but not to get into danger while she ran down to the depot island to fill up with coals. Scarcely had she got out of sight when in came a dhow. The captain and crew eagerly scanned the surrounding boats and in a few moments the dhow was seen to be a fishing boat, and the fishing none, dropped their anchor. Perceiving that she was a doubtful and suspicious vessel, the interpreter obtained an old canoe, placed the blue-jacket in the bottom of it with strict injunctions not to show himself, and proceeded to get out of the boat within a few hundred yards of the dhow...

When the blacksmith gives the anvil quick, light blows, it is a signal to the helper to use the sledge or to strike quicker. The force of the blows given by the blacksmith's hammer indicates the force of blow it is required to give the sledge.

The blacksmith's helper is supposed to strike the work in the middle of the width of the anvil, and when this requires to be varied the blacksmith indicates where the sledge blows are to fall by touching the required spot with his hand hammer.

When the blacksmith desires the sledge blows to cease, he lets the hand hammer head fall upon the anvil and continue its rebound upon the same until it ceases.

Two men sat supping in a Broadway restaurant, by profession killers of human beings. They were Rear Admiral S. B. Luce, of the United States navy, and Gen. Philip R. de Trobriand, of the Army. And yet they were eating and drinking, and laughing, and serving themselves. Why should they have inflicted capital punishment on him? I will tell you. After they were through with eating and drinking the General asked for the check, and the waiter brought it. The amount was $3.50. A $5 note was handed to him, and presently he returned with a check on a plate. A dollar note, a dime and five cents lay atop of the slip of paper, and this was concealed a half dollar.

"Stop!" thundered the admiral to the waiter. "Set down that plate." "Yes sir," responded the Frenchman, obeying with greater reluctance. "No," he general, look at this and learn a lesson," the admiral continued. "The change out of the $5 ought to have amounted to $1.65. You only got a $1, and gave fifteen cents to this rascal. You never thought of the missing half-dollar. Where do you suppose it is? I will show you," said he, drawing the check of the plate, disclosing the coin snugly lying underneath. "Oh grinning thief! here would have had it in his pocket by this time if I left to complete the operation."

General McClellan dead. The title prelate is explained in the following definition taken from the most recent work on the subject: "A general name for an ecclesiastical dignitary, whether among the secular or regular clergy, who has a jurisdiction inherent in his office and not merely delegated to him as the delegate of a superior."

Senator Cameron at home. HARRISBURG, Nov. 2.—Senator Cameron is again at home, almost entirely restored to health. He speaks enthusiastically of his sojourn at Los Angeles, where the mild climate was just suited to his condition. During his stay there he rode 3,000 miles on horseback, to the great physical advantage. This is illustrated by the fact that he is 15 pounds heavier than he was when he left Harrisburg.
