"PHOR DOG CAR."

When the celebrated philanthropist, Florence Nightingale, was a little girl Heing in Derbyshire, England, everybody was struck with her thoughtfulness for people and animals. She even made triends with the sky sprimets. When persons were ill she would help nurse them, saving nice things from her own meals for them.

There lived near the village an old shepherd named Roger, who had a favorite sheep dog called Cap. This dog was the old man's only companion, and helped in looking after the flock by day, and kept him company at night. Cap was a very sensible dog, and kept the sheep in such order that he saved his master a deal of trouble.

One day Florence was riding out with a friend, and saw the shepherd giving the To THE EDITOR OF THE SUS-Sir : Some sheep their night feed ; but Cap was not there, fand the sheep knew it, for they were scampering about in all directions. and the pages of neither Webster nor Florence and her friend stopped to ask Roger why he was so and, and what had become of his dog.

"Oh," he replied, "Cap will never be mon word blanket. When Edward III. of any more use to me; I'll have to hang him, poor fellow, as soon as I go home to-night."

"Hang him " said Florence, "Oh Roger, how wicked you are! What has old Cap done ?"

"He has done nothing," replied Roger, but he will never be of any more use to me, and I cannot afford to keep him -One of the mischievous schoolboys threa a stone at him vesterday and broke one of his legs." And the old shepherd wiped gway the tears that filled his eves. "Place Cap." he said, "he was as knowing as a human being."

"But are you sure his leg is broken ?" saked Florence.

"Oh yes, miss, it is broken sure enough: he has not put his foot on the ground since.

" Oh, if you could cure him how giad Roger would be !" exclaimed Florence. When they got in the cottage the poor dog lay there on the bare, brick floor, his hair disheveled and his eyes sparkling with anger at the intruders. But when the young girl called him "poor Cap" he grew pacified, and began to wag his short tail: then he crent from under the table and lay down at her feet. She took hold of his paws, patted his head, and talked to him while the gentleman examined his injured leg.
