

Now is the time to turn over a new leaf—Chestnut.

When Congress convenes, it will have just two months in which to finish up its business, and no time for fooling.

President Cleveland has had a recurrence of his rheumatic attack, and it is reported that he is again confined to his room.

The old migration fever has apparently seized upon the colored people in South Carolina and hundreds of them are leaving for the Western States.

The Legislature of Illinois assembles in January next. It is Republican and will elect a Republican successor to General Logan. Already a number of candidates are spoken of.

They say that the czar is "formidably" Protestant, both by precept and example, and that the peace of Europe is liable to interruption any day, by reason of a drunken freak.

Governor Sherman was in the bath tub when Morrison's free trade bill was called up, and so lost his vote, and now the great unwashed is swearing about his unmentionable cleanliness.

There is fresh talk about Secretary Manning's intended resignation on account of his established health, and the gossip here is that Congressman Scott of Erie will be his successor.

The Democrats want to hurry up a bill making the tariff a free trade, evidently fearing that with their reduced majority in the next House they will not be able to accomplish such in the direction of free trade.

Deaths have been busy with our distinguished men, Grant, Hancock, Tilden, Hendricks, McClellan, Arthur and Logan have followed each other in rapid succession.

The Pittsburgh Chronicle asserts editorially, that "a month ago the money necessary for the building and complete equipping of the South Penn road was pledged, and can be had as fast as needed to carry on the work."

James G. Brady has been prostrated and suffering from the same disease that so suddenly terminated the life of General Logan. At last accounts he was better and no fears are entertained as to his final and speedy recovery.

When asked his opinion about legislation relating to the liquor traffic, Francis Murphy said, "If legislation would make people, Moses would have been the Christ. Murphy is a practical philosopher as well as a Christian."

Congress has adjourned until the 4th day of January, and the members are at home enjoying the holidays with their families. Few of them will be troubled with a surplus in their personal treasuries when they return to duty.

It is true, as asserted, that the President threw the weight of his influence to Mr. Morrison's free trade scheme. It is not to be wondered at that he found, when he found his stocking full of hanks on Christmas morning.

Where there is much smoke there must be some fire. The warlike smoke which comes from the European pipe has an ominous sound. Each day seems simply to increase the gravity of the situation in Eastern Europe.

On Friday last the Express Companies of Pittsburgh are reported to have handled over one hundred car loads of packages, principally Christmas gifts. This was in addition to an enormous business in this line, during the entire preceding week.

The Democratic politicians who a few brief years since were prophesying industrial bankruptcy, are now howling over prospective surplus in the Treasury. Who ever heard of any sensible business man being afraid of having too much money?

Our own Legislature, as well as those of twenty-five or thirty other States will be in session next week. The number of new laws that will be enacted will go far to prove the truth of the old adage, that New York is governed the best, is governed the best.

President Cleveland is credited with saying that he can be re-elected without the vote of New York. Ex-Governor Hawley says that the vote of New York will be the vote of New York. But just when the people of other States got to loving Cleveland so, does not appear.

The internal revenue tax on tobacco can be removed without injury to any industry in the United States. It has been removed with great benefit to the tobacco industry in every tobacco producing State in the country. The removal of this tax would take over $30,000,000 of the alleged surplus, and, at the same time, encourage a great industry.

The new arrangement of that debt burdened corporation, the Reading Railroad, resolved to reduce its expenses by the reduction of the number, and the pay of its employees, and now there is imminent danger of a huge strike along the whole line. Truly the officials are not the devil but the enormous debt and the deep sea of disheartened working men.

They are talking largely at Washington about the President's declining extension of Congress unless some measures are taken at this time of answering it to the anticipated surplus in the Treasury. Let this attempt to bulldoze men into assenting to tariff reduction this winter rather than return to the Capital during the hot weather for a protracted extension?

There is common sense as well as justice and equity in that clause of Senator Blair's pension bill, which provides that evidence of a man being trusted into the United States service shall be held conclusive proof of his sound bodily condition at the time of answering it to the government's officials who examined him, certified that he was sound enough to serve when his help was badly needed. Uncle Sam has no business to "go back" on his own surgeon's certificate, and ask the applicant for a pension to prove that he was in good health at the time he entered the service.

The earnest man will not take advantage of its own wrong, if it surrenders itself to falsity. If he was pronounced healthy at the time, and was trusted into the service, that should settle the point among all honest men.

GEN. JOHN A. LOGAN DEAD.

The Career of the Soldier and Statesman Closes Suddenly.

TWO WEEKS OF GREAT AGONY.

Men of All Parties Unite in Testifying to Gen. Logan's Greatness.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Senator Logan died a few minutes before three o'clock this afternoon, just as the first flakes of a driving snow were falling, and in a quiet room, the monument which the windows of his room looked upon. The windows of the dying man's mind were closed to all towering conceptions of material and civil glory; even to the towering, shining, and brilliant monument which the windows of his room looked upon.

He had passed a long and arduous life, and his death was a great loss to the country. He was a man of great ability and high character, and his death was a great loss to the country.

DYSPEPSIA

Causes its victims to be miserable, hopeless, confined, and in mind, very irritable, languid, and slow. It is a disease which defies all other remedies. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy to throw off the causes and tone up the digestive organs. They perform their duties willingly. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven just the required remedy in hundreds of cases.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for dyspepsia, from which I have suffered two years. I tried every other remedy, but none proved satisfactory as Hood's Sarsaparilla."—Thomas G. Smith, Bush Electric Light Co., New York City.
