The Somerset Herald.  The Somerset Herald.

ESTABLISHED 1897

| . XXXV1. NO. 13 |  | SOMERSET, PA., | 7. |  | 7. WHOLE NO. |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  | when love awakes.  You say the doar old love is dead bave does not die, dear heart of tuine We riay not kiss the nweet lipe, red, No love light in the eyes rayy shine, Butlove, otice born, doereed by fates, | guessed that I had run away from home and advised me to return, saying that it Wus no country for loys 1 eonld soircely conceive, as be gave me this advice without doabt killed a dozen men-perbape more. But it was a fict. Hawkins left the boat at Sioux City | This was aevented to with a yell and Hawkius started to get up. I saw that I had been incinded with the others and that I must crowd in my deferses I actold my story. When I had linished a short, thick-wet man shoved his big | ROBERT T. LINCOLN.  The Ex-War Secretary Talks Freely About His Position in 1888 -Wouldn't be Vice President. | They thon ailmit that these practically flufranchiserd citinens are represented in Congress by men elected solely by white votes, and that it is unfair to the borden back apon the Republican party, on the plea that it enacted the ligialation giving | The Future of Farming Nathing Bumore sure than the futurn If tinning in this ompury- -ifitis to in . tandet topy at all- -an le mate rem oerstive only by a complece chango of antem Sthe change will new we inoug |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  | Tolsion, 0 , Auzast 30 --The Bhate, of this city, in its isue to morrow will give the report of a lengthy interview had by |  |  |
|  | And is this hate, my own fear heart,  That eumes and getntly strokes my hait  fate cloes not bid the xwift tears start  At luasty words, nor does it care  And ireathe good eleer. Lave is not dead |  | hands a littlo drepert into bis pocketer and sid: |  |  | Bystem- Therchanige is ill never be brough |
|  |  | Hawkins left the boat at Sioux City and I went on to Yankton. The nex five or six weeks I spent in the vicinity | -Gentemen, I wimt to remark Free |  |  |  |
|  |  | of that place working on various firms. I did not get very bigh wages, but I man- |  | one of its represent atives with ex-kecre- tary of War Robert T. Lincoln. The in- | 7 There is much race prejualiox stil! |  |
|  |  | uged to make my living. After some time  I hired out to a man who was driving | This was greeted by a loud laugh and everybody agreed to it. | terview was songht in continuation of the canvas made by the, Blate a few week- |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  | Lare mejorit of those whio responded |  |  |
|  |  | his trip. I had invested in a pony. Wearrived at the aucncy after several days, and finding that my serviees would no |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  | thiefen youk know that Prun not a hose | proaching xix feet in heipht, of splendidpbyedique, and weighing protably 200 |  | these are the scources which oper usa perpethal drain on the farmer |
|  |  | my pony. I was opposite Niobram, Xeb. |  |  | $\begin{aligned} & \text { Ity, and there is nothing inore repugnant } \\ & \text { than this to the Soatiern whites of } \\ & \text { course there wotald nothing of the sort } \end{aligned}$ |  |
|  |  |  |  |  | follow: but this conftusion of ileas is not strango, as we lad the sume thing bere | ame. tath as lafiom eilt, the charge |
|  |  | lad bivk some four or five nition from |  |  | in the North sluring the war, stmong the anti-war Lemwerracy," |  |
|  |  | hanes enie of the onse which were |  |  |  | wisther ust me hast ini |
|  |  | $\begin{aligned} & \text { men considerable trouble. They hailed } \\ & \text { me and after, as I thonght, asking an un- } \end{aligned}$ | my chances were scowing depentew, and | ant tumer axit which he wone, it was hard |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  | to deternine fromis his Iernoina! uppear- ance what his acerpation might bes. He cortainiy deses not wear the | jaistion. Mr. Lincaln went on  "I do that think there an any likelihoon |  |
|  |  |  | They were especially anxions to sec me hang after one of the cominnittere clowely scrutinized the and identified me as tho |  | of my moviviag the nominatinn, Ihe do so withoat exacting exrtains pleigart anil thuor plediges I ikould nus give. |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  | powe hove whut wan telo that wore taand ral give yon sis to go with ustilis af. |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  | ging.  He looks young but he's a hard one, |  |  |  |
|  |  | fernoon and to-morrer and help uout."  "All right," I stid. "Where are you | that I should hang with the others. Allsemed to be in favor of carrying out thesentence irnmediately. Here Hawkins sentence itumediately. Here Hawkinsrose and said: | To the investion as to what he thought of the great preference expressod for him-self as a Vice Presidential candilate on | sonat pledges were not sinade, vither by | trops as can be fed os his land, and thas |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  | ectiliar sote by the reperter that the geople would donbthes | better than losing oa wheat, besides him tor mpport a Iy, kesp oat of delif, and, abores all |
| hoe Store | Yankool, in the extreme southeastern part, was the capital, and that there was a litile eettlement in that region, a litthe | soing to croes  Down at Choutean creek."  "I should think there were a far bet- $\square$ | rose and said :  Would n't be s fair shake fer the other boyx-wait till mornin' till they come in to help. Besides, thes may | he rutied:  I simpir could not ackept the nomi not io the Vice Pratancy. To tole |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  | Prosectial noumination, and that, for the first then since toen, the Republican party would make nomination sithout |  |
|  |  |  | bring in somie twone of the gang, ann we can string 'ern all up together.  This was agreod to as readily as every | any office at all woaid be a znest sacrifice of my business interents bere in Caicago: and the Vice Prosidency is nut un |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |

FURNISHING GOODS,

Somerset, Pa

