

The Somerset Herald.

EDWARD SCULL, Editor and Proprietor.

WEDNESDAY, November 2, 1887.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

STATE.
FOR JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT,
HENRY W. WILLIAMS, of Taunton county.

FOR STATE TREASURER,
WILLIAM B. HART, of Duxbury county.

COUNTY.
FOR SHERIFF,
RUSH S. MULLINS, of Middleboro' Twp.

FOR PROTHONOTARY,
DANIEL J. HOUSER, of Somerset Twp.

FOR REGISTER AND RECORDER,
JACOB D. SWANK, of Taunton Twp.

FOR TREASURER,
GEO. J. BLACK, of Meyersdale Bor.

FOR COMMISSIONERS,
DAVID E. WAGNER, of State Twp.
GEORGE M. NEFF, of Somerset Bor.

FOR FOUR HOUSE DIRECTOR,
JACOB M. PIKE, of Somerset Twp.

FOR AUDITORS.
SAMUEL L. SHORER, of Somerset Twp.

FOR CONSORNER,
FRANK WOLFE, of Meyersdale Bor.

To get out the full vote on Tuesday next, is the supreme duty of every Republican.

Prohibitionists who are giving aid and comfort to the Democracy are simply cutting their own throats.

The Republican who can go to the polls, and don't, has no right to growl if the result doesn't suit him.

Tuesday next—November 5th, is election day. Do not forget it. Go to the polls and vote the whole Republican ticket.

The Democrats have a new ally in the self-styled "Personal Liberty" party, whose doctrine, "personal liberty," means permission to abolish Sunday.

After the election is over, and the Democrats are routed as usual, you will feel good that you took part in the fight, and are entitled to share in the honors of the victory.

Now is the time for the members of the County Committee and all active Republicans generally, to see that the party vote will all be on hand on election day. A full vote assures a certain victory.

The only hope the Democratic party has of carrying the state, lies in their effort to divide the Republican vote, and the aid of those who demand the repeal of the high license and Sunday laws.

The Democrats are making no noise, but they are quietly active, and will have their full vote. Meet them at the polls and we will rout them as usual. Remember that Tuesday next is election day.

The Republicans of this county have but a single duty to perform to insure the election of their candidates by a sweeping majority, and that duty is for every last one of them, to go to the polls and vote.

Republicans! Roll up your sleeves and do some work between this and election day—Tuesday next. Somerset county can and will vote a thousand Republican majority if you determine that it shall be so.

It is men are to be known by the company they keep, the better portion of the Democratic party can hardly be proud of their new allies who are demanding the repeal of the Sunday laws, because they are a restraint on "personal liberty."

The Brewers Association of Philadelphia has issued a circular calling upon the trade to close their doors on election day and to work at the polls; to do their duty as citizens and induce their friends "to vote for the interest and good of the people."

Every Republican should realize the fact that, every vote not polled on Tuesday next counts in favor of the enemy. The full vote in the country districts is necessary to counteract the demerit that will be perpetrated by the anti-Sunday and anti-temperance leagues of the cities.

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY—MR. WHITNEY—is ill at his home in New York. He is said to be suffering from overwork, and although his friends are not alarmed, his physicians say that his recovery depends solely upon his remaining quiet and free from annoyance by public affairs.

The short bar element came out on top in the Baltimore city election last week. It was that, although thousands of Democratic reformers voted with the Republicans, the Democratic majority was nearly doubled, and yet they swear there never was an honest election held.

Every Republican should fully realize the importance of the election to be held on the 8th of November. We must depend on our own strength, not on the weakness of the enemy. Those who win must take it. Only the active and brave deserve victory. We ask you to make it assured by doing your duty.

For the first time the people of Pennsylvania are asked by a definite, compact political organization to abolish their Sunday institutions, their religious traditions, and their safeguards of social order. Their answer should be no indignant, so emphatic and so convincing that they will never have to repeat it.

The Southern Democrats gave Cleveland a rousing reception when journeying through their territory, but they double discounted its enthusiasm when they got a chance to show it up for old David Davis' old "secesh" speech, re-compiled, the "lost cause" glorified, and every evidence given that the spirit of rebellion is only scotched, not killed.

On Tuesday next the voters will elect a State Treasurer, and a Judge of the Supreme Court whose term of office will last twenty-one years. These offices are of the most important character and every Republican should vote at the coming election. Talk to your neighbors, explain the importance of this election and urge them to come out and vote.

After a checked existence of nearly forty-four years the African Hotel, on Chestnut street above Fifth avenue, Philadelphia, was closed last week, the guests and permanent boarders in the hotel, it was Congressman Randall's residence for voting purposes, and as there is no other convenient place of residence in the district the ex-Speaker, as well as the other necessary guests will probably look for their votes at the coming election.

WEEPING FOR THE LOST CAUSE.

An Unrepentant Traitor Voices His Grief.

MASS., Oct. 27.—There were remarkable scenes and utterances at the review of the Confederate veterans by Jefferson Davis yesterday, of which particular notice must be given on that day owing to the failure of the graphic communication.

The city was hung over with a gloom of gloom and everybody wore badges inscribed with the Confederate flag and Jefferson Davis. The latter received the veterans from the porch of Captain Johnson's house, which stands in a square grounds, through which the procession passed. But the gate was no sooner opened than the crowd rushed in and swarmed around Mr. Davis, grasping and kissing his hands and weeping over him. They openly leaped upon him and pulled and cried like madmen.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

At last the tattered flag of the Third Georgia Regiment was handed over the heads of the crowd to Mr. Davis and heaning feebly on the arms of his attendants, he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips. Then he stepped forward and pressed it to his lips.

A Government Telegraph.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The Government telegraph system, strongly favored by the Government, is to be put on a permanent basis. The project of permanent telegraph lines, which will be put on a permanent basis, is to be put on a permanent basis.

A GREAT DISASTER.

In Which Thirty Persons Have Probably Perished.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—The terrible disaster which struck Lake Michigan yesterday, and the entire crew of 35 persons, are supposed to have been lost. It involves a greater loss of life than any of the previous disasters on the lake this season, not excepting the popular Champlain, which burned early in the spring of 1886, drowning 24 persons. A most singular coincidence is that the vessel was the vessel which took the place of the Champlain in the Northern Michigan Line, and had only been on the line since August 1. She was one of the finest first-class passenger boats on the lake, and had a crew of 35 persons, including a Captain, a Chief Steward, and three other officers. The vessel was last seen on the morning of the 26th, when she was reported to have been seen by a fisherman near the shore of the lake.