London Queres : Dr. Johnson was not a letter writer in the true sease of the word. His balanced style lacked dexi-bility : his strong nature shandon ; but his epistles breathe the ainserity of his plety, the loftiness of his spirit, the dependence of his heart upon human affection. He could write with picturesque, some what ponderous vivacity, as seen by the group of letters addressed to Mrs. Thrale during his journey through the Hebridos, which the lady thought were more deligetful than his books. How pathetic and solemu is the glimpse we have of the sick man in the following written to his friend, Mrs. Boothby; "Itis again midnight, and I am again alone.
