Arbor Day in Pennsylvania.

The proclamation by Governor Beaver requesting the observance of Arbor day is intended as something more than a formality. The observance of such a day is the result of necessity, and the result has demonstrated that great benefit has been derived therefrom. Neberska set the example sixteen years ago. Over 12,000,000 shoots were plinted on what was known as the "Great American Desert," and the day was made a legal holiday, while premiums were offered for setting out orchard, forest and ornamontal trees, the result being that 700,000,000 small trees are now thriving where before trees were not grown. The observance of Arbor day has been followed by twenty States since Nebraska orginated it and the value of the work done cannot be fer, and tree planting most be performed according to natural advantages.
