Strango Affection of a Snake.

The Rev. Gorman Nail, now a resident of Pavid county, North Carolina, and me twenty years ago missiomary in Africa, telis a strange story of a serpent. Shortly before leaving Africa he went into his house one morning, and, stepping into the kitchen, be was horrified at finding his little child fondling on the floor with a young serpent. The two were caressing each other like lovers. There seemed to be no harm in it, and kept the serpent in his family and it soon became domesticated. It grew rapidly, and to-day it is thirty feet in length, and has the power to crush an ox, or perhaps, an elephant.

Since it was taken into the family it has never shown a savage disposition in any way. In 1870 the Rev. Dr. Nail returned to this country with his family, and brought the large serpent with him. The boa has been fed on milk, gruel and rabbits, but it does not have the ravenous appetite that appearances would suggest. As it grew older it became more domesticated, and to-day it is the slave and pet visit. When she returned to the house ugly head on her back. The above horses will change week about during the season. One of the Importer Horses and one of the others will be found at all those at the farm. Parties wishing to breed rannot go amiss in breeding to either of these Horses, as they have all proved first-chass stock getters. W. Heffley sold a threa-year old for $300; another, have all proved first-chass stock getters. W. Heffley sold a threa-year old for $300; another, have week, same age, for $300; refined $115 for Percheron colt, couning a yearling, weighing $50 peands, tyrus Shaffer sold a vearling old from september for $155. P. Demitando sold a three-year-old gelding for $255. $225 was refused for a two-year-old past filly. Weanlings from $30 to $113.

These prices go to show that breeding to the best pays in the long run. In offering the above horses am free to say they are second to none, as the prices above go to show. Parties losing colts from above horses, a reduction of one-half will be made. Lesting mare and colt through feating no change will be made. As I contemplate building a barn next season and having no stabing, will kean none of the heree year the first parties.

will keep none of the horses on the farm. Parties wishing to breed will do well to using them this season. Parties wishing to breed on shares can make ratisfactory arrangements. Parties from a distance will be kept over night free of charge. My grand Trotting Stallion, ALHAMBRA, will be found at the farm. P. HEFFLEY.
