The story which I mean to tell,

Is very strange indeed :

A native of this town ;

Like many 'nother down.

Had in a love-trap fallen ;

And he was always in despair,

Concerning a dear maiden.

Of this same stricken boy.

About some social Joy.

Of mutual joy below.

The lady had been a secool-mate.

As you shall shortly know ;

Where they would often, often prate,

It had its origin from a belle,

Of great renown and deed.
