No more mild weather thirties, if you please. Nature would behave it if he should be told, by way of a cap to the climax, that a big earthquake had operated on the top of the North Pole. It is enough that the oldest inhabitant confesses himself refunded.

Mrs. M. R. Schrock proposes making its normal business changes on or about March 10th, and before doing so our entire stock of Millinery Goods, Notions, Yarns, Ribbons and Jewelry must be closed out, regardless of cost. Here are rare chances for bargains for those who will call early. The goods will go with

"Ha! James, cold day"

"Yes."

"Had a big fall of it, haven't we?"

"Yes, pretty big."

"Got a shovel there, I see. Are you going to shovel off your walk?"

"No. I'm going to shovel off the snow," Englisher passes along in deep meditation.

$10 monthly and debility which result from Loss illness may be speedily overcome by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This is a safe, unobjectionable tonic, assists digestion, regulates the liver and kidneys, and enhances the blood of all germs of disease.

The Passenger to his travelling companion—Do you know, Mr. Simpson, that I feel very nervous?

Mr. Simpson—What makes you feel that way? Do you anticipate danger?

The Passenger falsely—No, I don't anticipate any danger, but we are approaching a tunnel.

"Bonifius," said the mother of that emanating young lady, "do you think that Mr. Fairbanks has made up his mind to propose to you?"

"I'm afraid not, mother," replied Euphemia sadly. "He was bragging about his appetite only yesterday."

Corn! Corn!

Do you want ten bushels, or more, of good mixed shelt corn? If so, 47 cents per bushel will buy it. Do you want ten bushels, or more, of good yellow ear corn? If so, 47 cents per bushel will buy it. These figures good until February 1st, of this year.

Respectfully,

COOK & BEELER.

Important to Soldiers and Their Heirs.

Soldiers and their heirs who have unsettled claims, or who wish to apply for pension, increase or bounty, should call upon Mr. J. H. Cassatt, representing the well known firm of Seale & Co., Attorneys, of Washington, D. C., who will be at the Somerset House, Somerset, Penna., Monday Tuesday and Wednesday, February 4th, 5th and 6th, for the purpose of giving free advice to all claimants. Claimants should bring their discharge and all papers relative to their cases.

Any house will give $100 to enlist soldiers and heirs and our genius will benefit thousands who do not know their rights. Mr. Cassatt will give you full particulars. If you cannot call, write to Seale & Co. and state your case.

"Our Picnic Party"

At the Opera House.

On Friday evening, February 1st.

Don't fail to see it—first class in all respects.

The first of the series of vocal music, by Prof. Case, was given Monday evening in the Court House. There was a large attendance.

Mr. Irwin Pritts will leave town this week to enter upon the duties of a clerk in Senator Davis' store at Deer Park, Garrett county, Md.

Mrs. Hoffman, mother of John J., now a resident of Philadelphia, died Thursday last. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Saturday.

The appearance of spring like weather has again been relieved by a slight fall of the beautiful. Not enough, however, to bring out many of the spanking trotters and fine critters.

The sudden and severe change of weather has been attended with the usual number of bad colds in our town. Among others confined to their rooms for the several days past is George R. Scull, Esq.

Somerset has a veritable Nimrod in the person of young Mr. Frank Saylor, who last week shot a large sized wild cat, about three miles east of town—makin it the second one for him during the month.

Mr. Will Baddley and one of his Johnstown friends spent Sunday in town. Judging from Will's frequent visits it is surmised that something else besides our mountain scenery has attractions for him in or about Somerset.

Mr. Augustus Koehler, hotel keeper at Davidsville, was so unfortunate as to slip on the top step of the porch, under one day last week, and the fall from top to bottom broke two of his ribs, and injured him, it is feared seriously, otherwise.

Don't forget that our wide-awake friend, Mr. P. L. Gaebere, has provided another first-class entertainment at the Opera House, for next Friday evening. The Penn Troupe, that will occupy the boards that evening, is spoken of by the press as one of the best on the road; and the play is represented as brimful of interest, mirthful enjoyment. We hope to see a full house.

The horse was a delusive one and our worst fears have been realized, as he has invaded our town to the annoyance of all. We allude to the straw vote fiend, with his pencil and paper. It is well for him that we are not in the midst of a political campaign, or he would be in imminent danger of bodily trouble. At such times the mania is, "shoot him on the spot"—or, at least, spot him on the snoot.

W. W. Picking and R. S. Scull started on a Northwestern exploring expedition early last week, with several probable destinations in view. The former, wearying in the arduous task undertaken, returned last Sunday morning, reporting progress, while the former hied himself to the far-famed Duluth, which some years since was supposed to be aspiring to the distinction of the Metropolis of the West.

We regret to learn that our venerable and esteemed fellow citizen, Samuel Gaither, Esq., is now confined to his bed with no prospect of recovery. Honored and beloved by all who know him, his dangerous illness is deeply lamented and his death would cause a void in this community that could not be easily filled. Full of years, his long and exceptionally exemplary life, in private and at the bar, has won for him not only the respect but the love of all acquaintances.

The weather—well, what about it? Was there ever such a winter known before? is the question one meets with all the time. We answer, yes. Though not as old as Methuselah, nor even venerable enough to take rank among our oldest inhabitants, we recollect winters, during which sleighing and ice were at a premium. One need not go back more than ten or fifteen years to call up some very open winters—winters that resembled the changeable weather of March, in which no ice was harvested, and sleighing parties were at a discount.

The South Penn Road took on a little more encouraging appearance in the eyes of Pittsburgh people last week. But facts up here do not seem to justify the notion of an early resumption of work, as Mr. W. R. Sanger, at the request of Mr. Thomas Collins, shipped the large air compressor weighing forty tons, and used in constructing tunnels, on last Saturday, to Bellefonte. He will also ship all the construction cars, sixty in number, and sixty carts in a few days. The large compressor, with only nine men was loaded in six and a quarter hours, though some said it would require two or three days to do it.

The old, but long-neglected, question of oil and gas wells in Somerset county is to the front once more, and with the prospect of more satisfactory experiments than in the past. We understand that several of our enterprising citizens have undertaken to raise ten thousand dollars to sink three or four wells in different points in the county. The success that has attended like experiments in Westmoreland, Washington and Fayette counties have inspired confidence in the belief that similar experiments may develop like paying wells in this county. The venture is one that is well worth the attention of our monied men.

That was rather a farcical performance of a certain young man sticking up what purported to be a "White Cap" warning on the Post-Office door last Saturday evening. Although the hand was stamped upon the notice, some very sensitively nervous people were considerably worked up over the idea of such a lawless organization in our community. John, as it was, it showed how the outrages committed by such reckless organizations in other places had led some people to tremble at the thought of them ever making an appearance here. We flatter ourselves that our citizens are too law-abiding and have too much common sense to resort to any means of chastisement so disreputable as those practiced by such a gallows class as the "White Caps."

The advent of fine ugly, dirty, greasy evenings into our town last Friday, was quite an event in the estimation of the juvenile portion of our population. For the time being they were the observed of all their class of observers, with a fairly good representation of our older citizens. Ten of the evenings belonged to the brain creation, and the other two smelled strongly of coffee, grits, bad whiskey and mercurial, which indicated their nationality to be Irish. How the four-legged creatures could endure the ordeal of hugging and kissing the odorous two-legged ones was the unsolved problem of the hour. We suspect it was on the principle involved in the saying, that they were

"of such kidneys made,
As to be hated, needed only to be seen;
But seen too oft, familiar with their face,
The hours first entered, then pitied, and then embraced."

A straw vote was taken by the Centreville sleighing party a short time before supper was announced, with the following result:

For Prohibition.	Against Prohibition.	For Scipet.
14	6

The twenty-six votes were cast by an equal number of ladies and gentlemen; and as five sure cast for supper, it is surmised that they were engineered by the lady who is the original of the incident published by an Eastern paper. Having married a somewhat peevish, fault-finding man, who was always growling at something, but who became the meekest and most docile of all henpecks, some ladies, wishing to know how she had changed him, in order to try the experiment upon their hard to please lords, asked for the secret. She answered, "I will tell you, if you will keep it to yourselves." The promise being given, she said "the means were simple enough, namely, feed the brute."

A Model Store-room.

If any one doubts that Somerset is fast assuming city airs and proportions, all such doubts will be removed by paying a visit to the magnificent store-room occupied for our enterprising merchant, Mr. James B. Holderbaum. The ground, and building erected thereon by Messrs. Cook & Beeler cost over $9,000, and is situated on the East side of North Main Cross Street, near the corner of it and Union street. It is 75½ by 115 feet, with a fourteen-foot ceiling, finished with North Carolina pine and trimmed with black walnut. The front of the building is entered through double doors, sufficiently large to admit of buggies, sleighs, etc. Plate glass windows, 6x12 feet, adorn each side of the door entrance. The room is lighted in the day time by not only these large front windows but, also, by three smaller ones, and two oval ones on the North side, and by two sky-lights; and at night by eight three hundred candle-power Rochester lamps. It has a fine, airy basement room of 20½x80 feet.

The whole of the interior of the building is fitted up with beautiful ash counters, and shelving of modern style, with all the conveniences of a complete business establishment, such as water, place for fuel, etc., and is heated by large stoves. It is filled with all articles—from the smallest to the largest, found in a first-class hardware store. The space of seventy feet of the front of the room on the North side, is for what is called shelf hardware; twenty-four feet next, is for paints; twelve feet, is occupied by cases for glass, and the glass cutting-board; eighteen feet for spokes and felloes; nine feet and the East end are occupied by a rack for steel bars, with the iron cutter and 1 stake.

On the South side a space of fifty-five feet is for heavy hardware and machine repairs. Next stands the beautiful counting-room, 9x16 feet, with its seven large plate-glass windows, which are adorned above, below, and on the sides by 178 square panes of blue, green, ruby and yellow glass. Its floor is covered with fancy matting, and besides two convenient desks, the office contains an iron safe. The seventeen feet next are for saddlery and carriage hardware, followed by the harness and whip department, occupying a space of twenty-eight feet; then comes twenty feet of sliding-door cases for carpenter's tools.

The centre part of the rear of the room is filled with buggies, sleighs, machines, etc. The great extent of the building may be inferred from the fact that it contains 5,000 square feet of flooring in the room and basement.

Well may Somerset be proud of such a mammoth concern. It would be a credit to any city. It is now filled by one of the largest and most carefully selected stocks of hardware to be found in Western Pennsylvania.

The fall of some of the beautiful last Sunday week, gave an opportunity for a few sleighing parties to visit some of our neighboring towns. Besides a small one to Stoystown, and another to Berlin, some of our citizens, who are no longer classed as young bloods, got up one having for its destination the handsome little village of New Centreville. Thirteen couple—think of the unlucky number of thirteen!—left town in sleighs, and a big four-horse sled, about 5 o'clock on Wednesday evening, arriving at the Flick hotel in time to do ample justice to one of "mine host" Flick's best spreads. After a season of musical and terpsichorean enjoyments, and the indulgence in some other innocent amusements, the party started on the homeward stretch, arriving in town safe and sound, despite the unlucky number, about 4 o'clock next morning. The party is said to have been a highly enjoyable one in every respect.

A cleaner, more independent, or spicier paper than the Pittsburgh Dispatch is not found in the newspaper realm in the State of Pennsylvania. It is not only a readable paper, but it is always chock full of the latest and most important news that goes through mails or over wires. Its wide-awake character is duly appreciated by the reading public, as may be readily inferred by its unprecedentedly large circulation. Go where you will in Western Pennsylvania, or Eastern Ohio, or in border counties of West Virginia and Maryland, you are sure to find copies of it.

It is not only noted for strong editorials on all the great questions of the day, and for its general news department, but its local items are full of meat and grit—exposing frauds and commending what is right.

As a home paper, we think a paper for good home reading, it has no superior and few equals. With the addition of some new specialties for 1890, it promises not only to keep up its former high record for all that is excellent in the newspaper world, but even to eclipse its high reputation of the past. Long may it flourish.

Our approaching spring election is beginning to bring out candidates for the several borough offices. Several are already contending for nominations. From the number now out and those talked of there ought to be no trouble in selecting the right kind of men to run our public offices successfully. With good live men in official positions we see no reason why we should not become a model town in every respect. And while on the subject let those who so justly claim that our thoroughfares, our streets and alleys, need more attention hereafter than they have received in the past, see to it that men are chosen who will give time and personal supervision to them. The condition of some of them, alleys especially, during last fall and this winter owing to waste pipes being put down and rubbish of all kinds thrown into them has been a disgrace to our boasted civilization. Nothing enhances the value of property in towns, as well as in cities, more than good streets and alleys; nor does anything contribute more to the attractions of a place, or add greater probabilities to the good health of its people than do nice, clean thoroughfares. In all goodness let us have a new and marked departure in this particular. Why not?

Elder Conner, of the Disciple church, seems to be full of good works—always devising something new and attractive for his congregation. On Sunday last he inaugurated an organization composed of the young people of his congregation, looking to the formation of something in the shape of the Young Men's Christian Association, or a society to promote the work peculiar to that institution. In addition to this, he has just had completed one of the largest and finest oil paintings we have seen for many years. The canvass is 6x10 feet, and the painting is intended to outline the great work of the Savior in counteracting the effect of sin from Adam down to the latest period. A river, starting in Atlantic times, represents evil—with the star of promise in the background—Bethlehem on its Eastern bank, the agony in the garden back of it, and the illuminated cross forming the keystone of the arch spanning the regions of destruction, and then the pathway leading to the Holy City, with the seven steps leading the cardinal graces of Christianity. The painting is a vivid parallelism on the words of Christ—"I am the way, the truth and life"; and will be used in illustrating a series of contemplated sermons. The painting was designed by Mr. Conner, and executed by our former townsman, Mr. Roger Davis.

Road and Bridge Views.

Petition of citizens of Somerset Township for viewers to view and mark parts of a public road leading from Snyders Station, to the Somerset and Bedford pike at Wills church. John L. Witt, surveyor; Chauncey Keefer, Franklin Custer Viewers.

Petitions for viewers to view the masonry and superstructure of a bridge over Stony-creek at Forestwell. Viewers J. B. Pearrol, John Ankeny, Samuel Foust.

It is on record that a dutchman once committed suicide because his kraut wouldn't schnell.

The South Penn Will be Built.

The South Penn comes to the surface once more as an active factor in railroad circles. David Herbet Hostetter, the eldest son and heir of the late Dr. David Hostetter, returned from New York this week with news that the South Penn would be built. He said: "The South Penn matter is at last settled. M. W. Watson, R. F. Jones, Sellers M. Kee and all the other Pittsburgers, except H. C. Frick and R. M. Ferguson, have signed the reorganization agreement. There are also a few New York stockholders who have not signed, but they will do so. Frick and Ferguson have agreed to sign early next week, when the Vanderbilts do. There will be a meeting soon, when all details will be settled and a program agreed upon. The building of the road is no longer in doubt. That matter has been settled. When the work of construction will be resumed is the question which has not yet been decided. We hope to get to work as soon as possible so that we will have the advantage of the summer months. That means that construction will be commenced within the next few months. The arrangement of details requires time. The plans for entering this city may be changed also. The agreement that the line was to connect with the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Youghiogheny is no longer in existence. Whether a similar agreement will be entered into is a question for future consideration. All these details will have to be arranged later on. It may be said the South Penn may enter the city by some other route than the one first contemplated. The case now pending in the United States Court will in no way interfere with the progress of construction."

The Pittsburgh stockholders corroborated these statements. H. C. Frick said it was true that neither he nor Mr. Ferguson had signed the papers, but suggested that it was time enough to do so after the Vanderbilts had affixed their signatures. He added, however, that the Pittsburgh interests were harmonious and viewed the project with favor. B. F. Jones said it would not be positively known what will be done until the trustees, Andrew Carnegie, D. H. Hostetter, George F. Baer and himself, had met, and he was unable to say when they would meet. "I would suppose," said he, "that the Vanderbilts would want the road built. Their recent purchase of the Hostetter interests in the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie gives them the large majority of the stock in that road. They also are the largest stockholders in the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Youghiogheny, and the South Penn would give them a direct line to the East. It is possible that they intend to connect with the Beech Creek road and thus gain a route from Pittsburgh to the East, but I am inclined to think that they are much more in favor of the South Penn route. They have already put about $2,000,000 in that and I don't think that they care to lose it."

It is quite probable the Vanderbilts will sign these documents and push the completion of the South Penn. It is now the plan of the latter to secure an eastern outlet for the Lake Erie. There are two ways this may be accomplished: finish the South Penn to Harrisburg or build a connection between the Lake Erie to the Clearfield region to the Beech Creek road which furnishes transportation to Reading and from there to New York and Philadelphia. Either way is good. Finishing the South Penn to Harrisburg means that freight and traffic from the Lake Erie can be carried from Pittsburgh on the South Penn to Harrisburg, and from Harrisburg to the coast on the Philadelphia & Reading, in which road the Vanderbilts are interested. The connection from the Lake Erie to the Beech Creek branch in the Clearfield region is 160 miles long, and to finish the South Penn will cost about the same. As the Vanderbilts are greatly interested in securing a direct eastern outlet for the Lake Erie, which they practically own, it is easily seen how anxious they will be to finish the South Penn. If this is done, it is not improbable that the western terminus of the road will be right here in Connellsville. The original route through Westmoreland county may be abandoned in favor of the Indian Creek route, and connection with the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Youghiogheny railroad made at this point.

The reorganization plan in brief is this: The capital stock of the South Penn is $20,000,000. Of this the Vanderbilts, who are the heaviest stockholders, hold $5,000,000. Dr. Hostetter had $2,000,000 worth of stock. Of the amount subscribed for 38 percent. has already been paid in and spent on the work as far as it has been carried. The company is not any in debt, but neither has it any funds on hands. After the work was suspended some half dozen schemes for the reorganization of the company were offered. The Vanderbilts had about $2,000,000 cash in it and Dr. Hostetter nearly half that amount. Neither wished to see the scheme abandoned, but it was found impossible to get the stockholders to agree to any plan. The one which obtained the most favor and is now on a fair way to be accomplished, known as the Carnegie agreement, provides that each of the stockholders pay 25 per cent. more of their stock in cash, and that they all according to the ratio of their stock take $10,000,000 of the bonds of the road. This amount is expected to build the road without any water in either stock or bonds. Common stock will be issued for the original subscriptions, and preferred stock for the new 25 per cent. subscription.

The charter expires soon, but the stockholders seem to have confidence in getting an extension in case it is needed. A bill presumably for that purpose has already been introduced in the Legislature. The work already done on the road, however, creates an extension of the charter under the law. For every 50 miles of the road completed there is a time extension of 6 months for the completion of the rest. The road is 218 miles long.

The Stoyestown Institute.

The following is the program for the Local Institute to be held at Stoystown, Feb. 10th and 11th by the teachers of Stoyestown, Quemahoning and Shade School Districts.

Institute to convene Friday evening at 7:30 p. m. and will continue four sessions.

COMMITTEE.

Prohibition in Blair County.

A call for a county convention of friends of prohibition to meet at Hollidaysburg on Feb. 7, being circulated in Altoona, churches, and all other organizations will be invited to send delegates. The county will be districted for thorough work.

When oatmeal explodes at one stage and poisons people at another, there seems to be no course open but a return to the old-fashioned buckwheat cakes. They may be fatal but it takes a long time for them to perform their deadly work, and in the meantime, look at the enjoyment you still have.

Stonycreek Items.

Having seen nothing from this Township, in the columns of the HERALD for sometime I thought a few items might be of interest to its readers.

Our farmers have been busily engaged in hauling limestone and coal for the past few days.

There were about twenty sleds loaded with coal at Mathias Walters coal bank last Wednesday.

Mr. Link Weigle, from South Fork paid a brief visit to his old comrades last week.

There was quite a number of rabbits killed here this winter, and the farmers would be much obliged to the hunters, if they would come back and pick the stone piles together again.

Mr. Cherry Bayman, is busily engaged in hauling lumber for his new barn that he intends to build in the spring. It is to be a large one, John Walker has the contract to build it. JIM.

COM.

The best anodyne and expectorant for the cure of colds and coughs and all throat, lung, and bronchial troubles, is undoubtedly, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ask your druggist for it, and, at the same time, for Ayer's Almanac, which is free to all.

Many of the rules governing behavior at the dinner table apply to the ball supper, particularly the rule which forbids well-bred persons to pocket the knives, forks and spoons provided by the host or his caterer.

"Our Picnic."

A musical absurdity, brim full of fun, in which a company of real artists appear to advantage, introducing songs, medleys, dances and specialties will be given at the Somerset Opera House on Friday evening, Feb. 1, 1890. The company is under the management of Mr. Frank W. Nason, a well-known Bostonian, who has had many years experience and knows what he has a good thing, with Mr. Fred D. Ellis as business manager. The piece "Our Picnic," is absolutely a novelty in the comedy world, and introduces such sterling artists as Mr. Richard Coleman, the famous jig and wing dancer and singing comedian; Mr. Dudley H. Prescott, the world's wonder, mimic, imitator and humorist; Mr. Frank G. Mack, America's greatest clog dancer and a superior vocalist; Mr. Frank R. Jackson, whose quaint sayings have made him popular from the Atlantic to the Pacific; Senator Frank Woodson, negro comedian and delineator of ethiopian wit; Miss Annie Phillips, the charming comedienne, and Miss Minnie Connor, the personator, supported by a nonpareil company of specialty artists. The orchestra is under the direction of Prof. John Schmidt, which is sufficient guarantee of good music. The press is loud in its praise of the company, wherever they have appeared.

Husband Items.

Everybody has been taking good advantage of the recent snow and our farmers have been busily engaged in hauling hay, lime, coal, etc.

The South Penn Railroad question is again being discussed by our people here, and the prospects for its early completion now seems to be an assured fact, if the rumors are not like heretofore. We hope not, however.

A spelling school was held at the Shanks school house last week of which Miss Lizzie J. Weller is the teacher. The exercises were disposed of in the very best manner.

The sciopticon and phonographic entertainment given at this place by Prof. W. D. Frisbee, on the evening of the 25th inst., was highly appreciated by all who had the pleasure of being present.

OCCASIONAL.

Quite a Novel Car.

A car to be known as the "Instruction Car" is being built at the Pennsylvania Rail-road shops at Altoona for Mr. George Westinghouse. It will possess some interesting features for railroad men. The car is almost completed and is expected to be in Pittsburgh Saturday. It will have inside a model of a train of thirty cars fitted with every appliance Mr. Westinghouse has invented and the very latest improvements made. The intention is to take the car to different points in the country where Westinghouse appliances are used and instruct railway employes how to handle them.

A Chance to Save Money.

Some fine wraps still going at cost. The low prices for dress goods, curtains and underwear will be continued until the 20th of February.

MRS. A. E. UHL.

MARRIED.

AUSTEN—GARDNER—Jan. 16, 1890, at Mr. Franklin Vey's, by Rev. W. D. Lefever, Mr. John Austen, to Miss Sidney E. Gardner, both of near Stoystown, Pa.

HEMMINGER—STUFFT—On Jan. 19, 1890, at the Lutheran Parsonage in Stoystown, by Rev. E. S. Johnson, Mr. H. M. Hemminger to Miss Bertha S. Stufft, both of Mt. Morials, Somerset County, Pa.

STARK—BENDER—On Jan. 21, 1890, at the residence of the bride's father, in Stoystown, by Rev. E. S. Johnson, Mr. John Stark, of Middletown, Pa., to Miss Della M. Bender, daughter of Cornelius Bender, of Stoystown, Pa.

DIED.

LINT—Jan. 23, 1890, Annie Ling, aged 1 year, 1 month and two days.

HAINES—At his residence in McKees Rocks, Allegheny, Co., Pa., Jan. 22, 1890, Samuel W. Haines, after a lingering and painful illness of about four months.

Deceased was born in Somerset county, Pa., March 28th, 1831. His father's family moved from Gebhartsburgh, to Somerset on the autumn of 1836. In 1853 they moved to Connellsville where Samuel entered the machine shops to learn his trade. Here he made such rapid advancement that at the age of twenty two he held the important position of foreman in the shops and soon after became engineer on the P. & L. E. R. R. From this position he was promoted to Master of machinery on the same road, which place he filled for eleven years when his physical condition forced him to leave his work in others hands.

Many of the men and women of Somerset will remember Sammy as he was when a boy and although he was but a mere child when he left Lee plave yet there was a spirit of manliness and honor in all he did that called forth admiration and respect wherever he went. His busy railroad life left no time to devote to religion, yet who knows how often amid danger and death his heart was touched and kept tender by his Maker; for when sickness prostrated him he speedily turned to God and expressed full faith in Jesus as his Savior. He united with the M. E. Church a few weeks before his death. His pious mother who had so often prayed that this only son left her might be spared from sudden, violent, and unprepared for death, had the satisfaction of hearing from his own lips the assurance that all was well with his soul. He leaves a wife, four sons, a mother, five sisters, and many warm friends to mourn his loss.

Fast as the rolling seasons bring
The hour of fate to those we love,
Each pearl that leaves the broken string,
Is set in Friendship's crown above.
As narrower grows the earthly chain,
The circle widens in the sky:
These are our treasures that remain,
But those are stars that beam on high.
