Farmers' Institute.

Following is the report of the proceedings of the Farmers' Institute, held at the Somerset County Agricultural Society, at Somerset, Pa., on Saturday, February 17, 1889.

The program as reported by the Committee, and published in the county paper, was found to be too large, and on motion it was agreed that the following items of said program be carried over to the meeting to be held on the 17th of March, at which time they will be taken up in their regular order.

1. The best disposition of the farmer can make of his barn-yard manure.

2. The best methods of reclaiming worn out and exhausted soils.

3. Hygiene as related to our rural homes.

4. The regular order of business provided for by the laws of the State.
