CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

What this pet phrase, this slogan of political campaigns means, is a puzzling onundrum that baffles the ingenuity of a Philadelphia lawyer to guess. That some kind of reform at the time it originated was demanded by the general public, goes without the saying; but that it was ever so interpreted as to prevent the dispenser of political patronage from rewarding persons for "honorable political service," is an assumption without the least evidence to prove it. That any sensible man has ever so construed it as to litical opponent in office, and thus prevent those in sympathy with its political principles from being called to its aid, involves an absurdity in conflict with all

It is well known that as late as last fall (during the late campaign) Mr. Cleveland, without any charge for unfaithfulness or inefficiency, removed mail agents all along the lines of both the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads, and filled their places by intense Demoeratic partisans, whose only qualifications consisted in their thorough Demoeratic character. Why men thus appointed, should be sheltered by the Civil Service Reform act, would require better arguments to prove than any that have becke, who on February 6 became deranged vet appeared in either Democratic or over vicits and threats by alleged White
