THE GOOD OLD WAY.

ohn Mann had a wife who was kind and true A wife who loved him well ; ne cared for the house and their only child; But if I the truth must tell, She fretted and pined because John was poor, And his business we s slow to pay : t he only said, when she talked of change,

"We'll stick to the good old way !" She saw her neighbors were growing rich And dwelling in houses grand , find she was living in poverty. With wealth upon every hand ; And she urged her husband to speculate To risk his estaings at play .

But he only said. "My dearest wife.

We'll stick to the good old way." For he knew that the money that's quickly go he the money that's quickly last; and the money that store is the money At honest endeavor's cost. So he ploded along in his honest style, and be bettered himself each day,

And he only said to his fretful wife, "We'll stick to the good old way." An I at last there came a terrible crash, When borgary, want and shame Jame down on the homes of their wealthy friend While John's remained the same; or he had no debts and he gave no trust, "My motto lathis," he'd say,

It's a charm against panies of every kind, Tis stick to the good old way I' and his wife looked around on the little house That was every nail their own, And she asked forgiveness of hone t John For the peevish mistrust she had shown; But he only said, as her tearful face Upon his shoulder lay, The good old way is the best, wife;
