He has performed his duties conscientiously, and the interests of this district have received his constant personal attention; the soldiers and widows of the county remember with gratitude, his efforts in obtaining pensions long denied them by the previous hostile Democratic administration. When we reflect upon his character as a sitizen, as a Republican, as a Governmen officer and as a Congressman and contrast i

In my former communication I neglected to state that early in Mr. Koontz's political eareer-during the stiring days of the wargress from this district, the representatives composing that body prefered the company of a Democrat, General A. H. Coffroth, to that of his, and refused to accord him his justly won seat until a short time before the adjournment of the session. Whether this was because of the instability of his political character or because he had so ignominiously abandoned his brave comrades after having publicly proclaimed his desire to lead them to the performance of heroic deeds in defense of their country, I know not, but subsequent events have shown that these statesmen had correctly estimated the political character, at least, of this budding

Von Moltke. During the past twenty years, if my readers will pardon me for repeating. General Koonta's silvery voice has more frequently been heard in behalf of Democratic candidates than in presenting the claims of the nominees of the party to which he claims allegiance, and which in times past has honored him. He enters no denial to having openly opposed Mr. Cessna in 1881 in the interests of Judge Baer, nor of having'labored with might and main for Mr. Tate, and against Mr. Scull, in 1880; nor does he deny having worked in behalf of the Democratic nominee in this district, and stumping for a Republican candidate for Congress in Maryland during the same campaign ; neither does he protest against the accusation of having urged the election of a Democrat to Congress from this district in 1888. These are only a few of the many instances that might be sighted of disloyalty to the party on the part of General Koontz. He south of Somerset, a lot of good plain and enters no denial to the charges because, even though possessing the capability of assuming dual characters, he cannot blot out a record which he has established for himself. And now let me inquire, why, this valiant son of Mars did not offer for the Congressonal nomination himself. His thirst for public prominence and honor is known to be insatiable: I repeat why did not Jykell-
