MICROSE KILLER is the only ke

"It happened like this: Many years ago when I commenced the practice of medicine in a small Missouri town, the James boys paid us a visit. They raided the bank and got away with six thousand dollars, but firing was pretty general on both sides. I had a revolver, and during the general excitement shot one of the robbers. He was dead when we picked him up. A finer specimen of physical manhood I have never even. The natives in the little Missouri village made no objection when I claimed the youth's skeleton as my prize. "Last week, one rainy night about 11 o'clock, a genuine, old-fashioned frontfersman came to my office. He asked my name, and then inquired if I had a skeleton in my closet. His face was bearded and sunburnt, but there was something about him that reminded me much of the young man I bad killed many years before. I was alone in the office, and I didn't like the color of the visitor's eye. However, I answered his question in the affirmative. "Let me see the skeleton," said my queer visitor. "It would scarcely do to refuse. I walked to the rear of the office, where there was a small table out of sight S my visitor. I drew out from my desk a revolver, the same one that had ended the career of the youthful bandit years before, fielding it in my hand, I stepped to the closet, threw open the door, and remarked with as much coolness as l could command: 'There is the skeleton ! "

" 'Put up your revolver,' remarked the stranger, 'I won't hurt you. If I had wanted to shoot you I would have killed you when I came into the office. I have just been down to Oklahoma, and am on my way back to Tennessee. I heard the story of your killing one of the gang, and as near as I can make out it was my boy that was killed. He ran away from home when only twelve years old, and I never heard of him after that. I don't hold any gradge against you. You did what was right, I suppose. But I thought I would take this chance to see what is left of the poor boy."

"I then showed the stranger the skeleron, which was handsomely mounted, and described the raid as briefly and gently as possibly.

"The old pioneer's remark as he gazed upon all that was left of his boy was, 'Well, he was a big fellow, wasn't he ?" " Hold it to the Light,

The man who tells you confidentially just what will cure your cold is prescribing Kemp's Balsam this year. There is but one failure, and that is not to be true to the best one knows. To us and to our race there is but one failure, and that is sin. Sin is a missing of the mark, a violation of the law, a swerving of the line. But he who walks in the narrow path, he who obeys the eternal law, he who nims his arrow at the gold, cannot fail.

Young men, you can do this. You may be poor; you may lead lives of struggle; your occupation may run counyouth; you may live in the midst of a complex and exacting civilization; you may see no relief, no outlook to a tedious and duil routine. Well, bear it all and bate no jot of heart or hope, for in spite of all you need never fail. For all of us an inexorable limitation, an inexorable weariness, lies at the bases of life. Yet you may succeed better than many a mighty king; and you need never fail, because you need never become the fettered thralls of sin. Be good and do good, and you wil! have won something better than a fortune or a coronet. To do this may not save you from abuse, or opposition, or earthly loss; but if this and a thousand other calamities come upon you, you will be on the promontory at whose base the tide waves break in vain. Look, I say, at the cross of Christ and study all that it means, and you will understand the meaning of your life. Look at a cathedral from without, and the windows are dull and discolored and meaningless; but step inside the hallowed edifice, and they glow with gules and amethyst, and tinge the sunlight with the grandeur and pathos of sacred histories.

Se it is with buman life. It ofter looks to us dingy and inexplicable; but step within the sanctuary of faith, and God's eternal sunlight -- making the whole edifice radiant with eternal beauty and with significance-streams in with many-colored glories of divine mercy and human heroism of toil. To-morrow, or next day, or a few morrows hence, death will crumble away the earthly temple; but death will take us by the hand into another temple, which needs no sunset colorings, because it shines with the white radiance of eternity, and therein our God himself is ASLEEP ON THE TRACK. appetite, growing weakness and lassitude, which have unconsciously errept upon you. Wake up, or the train will be upon you! Consumption, which thus insidiously fastens its bold upon its victims while they are unconscious of its approach, must be taken in time, if it is to be overcome. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands of cases of this most fatal of maladies. If taken in time, and given a fair trail, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case of Consumption, or money paid for it will be presumply refunded.

such nice berries?" "Over there, sir, in the briers!" "Won't your mother be glad to see you come home with a basketful of such nice examined the case and decided thus :

"Yes, sir" said Sammy; "she always seems glad when I hold up the berries, and I don't tell her anything about the briers in my feet."

The man, rode on. Sammy's remarks had given him a lesson, and he resolved that henceforth he would try to hold up the berries and say nething about the

Where The Old Ships Go.

A man stepped into one of the shipping offices on front street the other day to have a look at the Marine Register, An old sea captain who had been reading it remarked, as the visitor laid the sheet aside after an apparently fruitless inspection, "Don't find what you were looking for, eh?"

"No," was the answer. "I was looking for the B-, but she isn't listed in this number. "Old ship?"

"Yes; I sailed in her twenty years "Oh, well, then, she belongs to the iermans by this time." "How's that ?"

"Well, the Germans don't build ships -leastwise wooden ones-so much a ther people do. They buy second-hand hips, and they do most of their buying in America. The German merchants operate on smaller capital than ours, and they can't or won't put as much money into timber as they do here. They have a sharp eye for bargains, too, let me tell you, and when they find a tub that's somewhat slow or leaky, but presentable and cheap, they buy her, copper-bottom her, and start her on her travels again. There's lots of American built ships flying the Dutchman's flag at our wharves.

Some Norwegians buy 'em, too, but it's estly Germans that get 'em. This throws a light on old ships, but the pins, pianos and sewing machines are still to be accounted for .- New York

A Case of Telepathy. A story with a little romance in it i that of S. R. W., of Bridgeport, Connecticut who was returning from England on an ocean steamer. One night he dream ed that his wife, who was then in Bridge port, opened the door of his stateroom looked hesitatingly in, and then came forward and kissed him. When he awoke in the morning the man who occupied the upper berth in his stateroom looked down and said : "You're a pretty fellow to let a woman come in here in the night and kiss you." Pressed for an explanation he described the scene which he had experienced. Arrived at home, he was asked by his wife: "Did you receive a visit from me on such a night? I made you one. I was worried because of the reported FISHER & CO., storms that night. I dreamed I went out on the ocean and came upon a great black steamship. I went up the side and along the corridor and opened your door I saw a strange man looking at me from an upper berth. I was afraid at first, but finally I stepped in and kissed you."-St. Louis Globe-Democrat. During the honeymoon they had been sitting and sighing and talking poetry in the balcony for three hours, all of which Lead Pipes, And all that time he had both of her hands tightly clasped in his. Finally she broke forth "Algernon, dearest, I want to ask you is not excelled by any House of the kind in something."

"Ask me a hundred-a thousand-a million things!" he exclaimed in reply "Well, Algernon, I've got an awful cold in my head," she continued, "and DON'T FORGET TO CALL AT if I draw one of my hands away to use my pocket handkerchief, would you think it unkind of me?"

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and battled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distress ng and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to GROCERIES, BOOTS ANE SHOES, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

Looking out over the many homes of this country, we see thousands of women wearing away their lives in household drudgery that might be materially lessened by the use of a few cakes of SAPOLIO. If an hour is saved each time a cake is used, if one less wrinkle gathers upon the face because the toil is lightened, she must be a foolish woman who would hesitate to make the experiment, and he a churlish husband who would grudge the few cents which it costs.
