In front of the house was a veranda, in the corner of which stood a sentry, whose business it was to keep the time for the village, by the aid of a primitive sand-

Two bottles were firmly lashed together month to mouth, and fixed in a wooden frame, made to stand upright in reversible positions. A quanty of black sand ran from one bottle into the other in just half an hour, and when the upper bottle was empty the frame was reversed.

Twelve; short sticks, marked with notches from one to twelve, were hung upon a string. A look was placed between the stick bearing the number of notebes corresponding to the hour last struck and the one to be struck next. The sentry announced the time by striking the hours on a large gong.-Montrell,

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and haffled the medical profession more than meal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The sucsees of this preparation has been mos gratifying and surprising.

A Withered Romance.

The young man had seized her hand, dropped on one knee and had got as far ns-"Encouraged by your smiles, dearest girl, and by the kindness with which you have received my attentions, I am emboldened to"-when he suddenly stopped, his jaw fell and he stared in blank dismay at some object back of the young

"Yes, go on, Mr. Ferguson," echoed her father, who had just made his appearance at the door in the background. He held it invitingly open, and Mr. Ferguson went on-until he reached the sidewalk.

What Does It Mean?

" "100 Down One Dollars" means simply that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most economical medicine to buy, because it gives more for the money than any other preparation: Each bottle contains 100 doses and will average to last a month, while other preparations taken according to directions, are gone in a week. Therefore, be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier.

Truth in Death.

Burrows was without doubt the most potorious liar Nevada will ever shelter. His fame, says the See, as a Har spread for a hundred miles shound, and men used to stop at our camp to get a look at him. He wasn't a wicked man and he has no malice about him, but he was a natural born liar. He lied about his father, his mother, his wife, brothers, sisters, and everybody else, and for every hour in the day he had a new falsehood.

One day a lot of earth and rock cayed in on him and inflicted fatal injuries, and a number of us knocked off work to be with him in his last moments. Lying there with only an hour of life left to him, he told us that he had been a pirate on the Pacific and where he had buried a large amount of plunder. We all knew that he was from Ohio and had never seen an ocean.

Don't Stand on "Your Rights." An old and successful merchant relates Also, Agent for the WHITE SHONZE!

the following anecdotes: When I was quite a old clerk-that is, old for the years I had been clerking, though only 20 years of age-I was told by the head clerk one morning that the senior member of the firm had directed me to be sent to his residence as soon as Boots and Shoes I speared.

> "The porter is to go with you," said the head clerk. Something in his face made me think that he knew what I was wanted for, so I asked:

"What's up?" "He wants you and Bill to take up and shake his carpets," was the answer, given with a peculiar smile.

For a second I thought of my rights. had hired out to be entry clerk and book keeper, and here I was expected to go down to the residence of the proprietor and beat carpets! I was troubled with as much pride as the average young man of 20 possesses, and that is no small amount. I don't remember of anything more distasteful ever offering itself to me, but I said :

"All right; I'm ready when Bill is." We went at our task. I didn't pout or sulk, or assume an aggrieved air, but went on my knees pulling up the carpet as cheerfully as I could. We had a day of it; the carpets to take up, be beaten, and then put back. The proprietor was chatty, his wife was sociable, and I made the most of my opportunity. It never harmed me. I had evidence afterward that my work that day was a stepping stone in my career, and I almost call it one of the turning points in my life.

Wasn't Posted on Pictures.

A New York artist who was down on the Jersey shore sketching and painting sold a farmer a crayon drawing in which the central figure was old Father Time with his deadly soythe. The buyer, according to the Sun, took it away well leased with his purchase, but returned the next day with a grin on his face and the picture under his arm and said: "I've got a son Bill to home." "Yes." "He hain't but fifteen years old."

"He's got tow hair and a cataract eye, but he's smarter'n chain lightning." "Indeed, but I am glad to hear it."

"I hadn't this pictur' home five minits when Bill set up a-roarin' and laughing and p'inted out-what d'ye think? You've gone and drawed old Father Time a-mowin' left handed. I might never have noticed it, but you can't fool Bill for cider."

"My dear man," answered the artist, did you ever see Father Time?" "Of course not."

"Did your son Bill ever see him?" "Sartinly not. He ain't to be sawed." "Well, then, how do either of you know whether he is right or left hand.

"By gum!" gasped the farmer, as he stood with open mouth, "you've got the voke on us. That's it; how do we know? I've had three different hired men who were left handed, and I've known other folks to be. I jest jumped at it without stoppin' to think. When Bill began to haw-haw and pint to the scythe, I jest sot in and agreed with him. Say, mister.'

"I've got a son Bill." "Well ?"

"He's smarter'n chain lightning at sizng up a tin peddler, but the biggest fool n the State on picturs."
