Death of Senator Hearst.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—Senator George Hearst, of California, who had been ill for some months, died shortly after 9 o'clock to night, in his 71st year. Hirdenth costs the Democrats in the Senate a loss of a vote, as the Governor and the Legislature of California are both Republican.

The Senator was a native of Mescouri, and received only such a limited education as the common schools afforded in that day. He worked on his father's farm until 1850, when he caught the gold fever and went to California. The increase of his wealth was steady and rapid, and for some years past his income has been something like $1000 per day. He had for some years been a no-ted patron of the turf, owning some of the most celebrated flyers of the Pacific coast. Senator Hearst leaves a widow and but one child. William R.
