A Polite Highwayman.

The modern highwayman doesn't understand his business," said an old traveler as he looked up from an account of a man being "held up." "He's brutal—unnecessarily so."

"Do you want him to take off his hat when he stops you?" he was asked. "Do you want him to beg your pardon?"

"No, no. You quite understand me. I am not an admirer of Paul Clifford. But your a man's nerves or mar his beauty. Why hit him on the head with a club or scare him to death by jumping out at him from an alley?

"I was held up once in a way that I like. No force, no serious shock to the nervous system and no affected delay. I've been in a good many different countries and heard or read of all the different methods, but for the quiet and quick transaction of business of that nature without any unnecessary trimmings, commend me to the man who got the watch.

"He was sauntering along the street behind me, quietly humming a tune. He wasn't keeping in the shadow of the buildings and he wasn't doing anything that was suspicious. He was just sauntering along with his arms folded on his breast. I was walking faster, so I had to overtake and pass him. I passed him on the left—that is, I started to pass him on that side. When I got even with him he said:

"'I say!'

"It was said quietly and didn't even startle me. None of this absurd courtesy of nothing sensational in it. Of course I looked toward him and I saw the tip of a revolver resting on the crook of his left elbow. His arms were still folded. I had an idea that his right hand was on the other end of the revolver.

"'Just take it easy,' he added.

"So I sauntered along with him, and at his suggestion transferred my watch and money to his pockets. Then he said:

"'Go on and don't look back.'

"And I went on and didn't look back. Ever since I have always considered him a man who could do a job with neatness and dispatch, and without unnecessary trouble and excitement. That wouldn't have been a man with heart disease.

I had catarrh of the head and throat for five years. I used Ely's Cream Balm and from the first application I was relieved. The sense of smell, which had been lost, was restored after using one bottle. I have found the Balm the only satisfactory remedy for Catarrh, and it has effected a cure in my case.—H. L. Dwyer, Waverly, N. Y.

Alaska a Good Bargain.

When Secretary Seward negotiated the treaty with Russia by which we acquired Alaska, there were many who believed the United States were throwing away $7,200,000 of good money for which no proper equivalent would ever be realized. Alaska was regarded as a region of glaciers and inaccessible mountain ranges, with some fish not worth catching, and a little timber that would not pay the cost of marketing. That its possession carried with it some strategic value was deemed probable, but there were few who believed that the bargain was a good one from a pecuniary point of view. A recent census bulletin, however, dispels this illusion completely. The shipment of fur seal skins since 1867, the year in which Alaska was acquired, has reached $33,000,000 and other furs, $16,000,000; total fur output of $49,000,000. The salmon and cod fisheries have netted $4,000,000; making the total product of the territory in the 23 years $53,000,000; not bad return on the original investment. Whatever may befall the seal fisheries the income from the salmon and cod fisheries is certain to be more in the future than in the past. The rivers fairly swarm with salmon, and now that the Columbia river and its attributaries are becoming depleted the canneries are moving to Alaska. The cod fisheries of the Pacific coast are only in their infancy and they are known to be very valuable. About $700,000 annually is taken from the gold mines, an output that is certain to increase with the decline of the gold deposits in California. There is a vast extent of gold producing territory in Alaska awaiting development. If Secretary Seward were alive now he would not be called upon to apologize for the purchase of Alaska.—Philadelphia Times.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh, and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in Grand Opera, with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Company.

Force of Habit.

Mr. Bootmaker—How do you like living on the top floor? Isn't it tiresome?

Good Looks.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of the vital organs. If the Liver be inactive, you have a Bilious look, if your stomach be disordered you have a Dyspeptic look, and if your Kidneys be affected you have a pinched look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alterative and Tonic, and acts directly on these vital organs. Cures Pimples, Boils, Blotches, and gives a good and healthy complexion.

A Neat Turn.

At five o'clock yesterday afternoon a vag stopped a citizen in front of the City Hall and asked him for a dime to get a bite to eat.

"Look here, my man," sharply replied the other, "on Wednesday you hit me for a dime, on Thursday I gave you another, and now you have the cheek to demand a third."

"Is that so?"

"Of course it's so, and I think it's piling it on most too thick."

"Then you are the man I struck Wednesday over on the corner?"

"I am."

"And now I've tackled you for the third time?"

"That's it."

"Well, old man, I beg your pardon. That's too much gall even for me, and my excuse is that you have improved so much in your looks that I didn't recognize you."

He was handed a quarter.

The longest suit of hair in the world is perhaps that which grows on the head of Miss Asenath Philpott, of Gainesville, Tex., hers trailing four feet on the ground when she stands, measuring in all 10 feet inches.

He Was Near Sighted.

Many are the social drawbacks attendant on near-sightedness. There is probably no person thus afflicted who has not at some time cut his best friends and killed possibly acquaintanceship by failing to recognize some one to whom he has been recently introduced.

A very nervous and sensitive gentleman, who can literally see little more than "an inch before his nose," says he has far less to regret from his failure to salute acquaintances than from his attempts at atonement after inevitable mistakes. The history of one morning's blunders may suffice to show the disabilities under which he struggles.

On the way down town he met his sister, who at once stopped him exclaiming, "Why, Henry Gilbert, how could you fail to recognize Mrs. Miles? You have just passed her, and I suppose she didn't bow because there wasn't even a gleam of recognition on your face."

"Oh, dear! have I actually made such a blunder?" said poor Henry, "and I am particularly anxious to be on good terms with her husband. But they're new comers in town, how could I be expected to know her, when I've only seen her twice?"

"On the other hand, she can't be expected to make allowance for you, not knowing you are near sighted," said his sister, severely. "Now, Henry, do keep a lookout for people, and try not to make any more mistakes for twenty-four hours."

Henry went on his way with a heavy heart, but when he entered a horse car that noon, it was with a thrill of elation that he saw Mrs Miles established in one corner. To gain a seat beside her, and begin ingratiating overtures, was the work of an instant.

"Good morning," said the repentant one, taking off his hat with more than ordinary deference. "What a lovely day! I'm sure you've been shopping."

The lady only looked at him, but her silence hardly surprised her companion, so absorbed was he in his zealous effort.

"Ladies are such privileged beings," he went on." "Think how charming it is to go about buying silks and ribbons, instead of sitting all day in a stuffy office like us humdrum men."

The lady moved as far from him as convenience would admit, but still she did not speak.

"I saw your husband this morning," volunteered Mr. Gilbert.

"I have no husband," she announced, coldly.

He looked her full in the face.

"Bless me!" gasped he, "I believe you are not Mrs. Miles, after all!"

"I certainly am not."

Mr. Gilbert apologized and left the car at the next corner. There, face to face, he met a lady who looked so familiar that, in pure despair, he took off his hat to her, only to be requitted by a surprised and distant bow.

"That was a mistake, too," groaned he, "evidently I didn't know her, and she thinks I meant to be impertinent."

He rushed on to seek the shelter of his own walls, and as he entered the gate, a lady passed by on the other side of the street.

"I declare, Henry, it's to bad!" called his sister, before he reached the piazza where she was sitting, "you have actually cut Mrs. Miles again! There she goes down the street, and you had all the chance in the world to bow, or even run over to her and apologize."

"Susan," said Mr. Gilbert, transfixing her with a desperate glance, "never dare to mention Mr. Miles' name to me again!"—Youth's Companion.

Catarrh Can't be Cured

with Local Applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

Cads.

Some women were talking the other day about cads, and they said that while the snob may be found among women, the cad is essentially masculine. He is prevalent at times. He comes up like the weeds and the spring freckles, and with a little care he can be extinguished almost as easily.

He spends his time in thinking what rude things he can say or do. Of course, he does not think they are rude; he thinks they are clever.

He has an idea that people who keep quiet don't know anything. In this he is frequently mistaken.

He does not believe that any woman can see him and not love him; this is often an error on his part. He is satisfied that after seeing him Providence concluded to make the world, and yet Providence is not given to making mistakes.

He occupies three seats in a street car, audibly damns the conductor, smirks at any woman who may be decently dressed, and believes that he is accepted as a man of the world. He is, but not of the world that he would wish to belong to.

He tells women it was a pity he didn't know them younger, so that he might have trained them; if he had, they would have occupied cells in the House of Detention.

He has induced some girl to marry him and he announces boldly that it is a good thing on both sides. Some people doubt this.

He has the latest thing in carriages, in trousers and in waistcoats, but somehow, while he gets his hats from a London hatter, and Poole makes his coats, brains don't seem to accumulate under "the only hat a gentleman could possibly wear."

He has one fully developed idea, and that is that he is a gentleman. He never was more mistaken in his life.

He never got close enough to a gentleman to catch good manners, nor to a man to be well kicked.

He is a blot on the face of the universe. Let's sponge him out.—Bab, in Philadelphia Times.

Washing Out the Stomach.

During the past year several physicians in New York have tried, with gratifying success, a novel treatment for dyspepsia and cancer of the stomach by washing out that organ. The process is very simple and not dangerous. A long flexible pipe is passed down the throat until one is in the stomach. The upper end has a funnel attached, into which hot water is poured until the stomach is filled. The weight of the water in the pipe and funnel gives a hydraulic pressure sufficient to distend the stomach. The pipe has an aperture big enough to hold a lead pencil. After the stomach has been filled, the funnel end of the pipe is turned down until it is lower than the bottom of the stomach, and the stomach is emptied through a siphon. The process may be repeated several times. The result is that the undigested food and mucus are washed out, and the hot water closes the blood vessels and reduces inflammation. The relief is immediate. The dyspeptic may have his stomach washed out before a meal, so that he can take a fresh start. After the lapse of a sufficient time for ordinary digestion, the stomach may be washed out again. This process has been in use at the New York Hospital, we are informed, for some time.—Scientific American.

Famly Duty.

The home circle is sacred and life has few charms indeed if family ties are burst asunder. The promotion of happiness and the prevention of sickness are of prime importance in every household. It is in the spring that old and young alike are most susceptible to the hundreds of diseases that fill the atmosphere we breathe and lurk in the water we drink. The timely use of a reliable stimulant is the only way to gurd against sickness in the home. Max Klein's "Silver Age" and "Duquesne" brands of pure rye whisky are recommended by physicians as the best invigerator in the world. Both are sold under a sworn guarantee of purity. "Silver Age" at $1.50 per full quart bottle, and "Duquesne" at $1.25. These whiskies are used exclusively in the leading hospitals, which is sufficient evidence that they are the best obtainable.

Guckenheimer, Finch, Gibson and Overholt are sold by Mr. Klein at $. per quart, or six quarts for $5. His stock of wines, brandies, etc., is the largest in Pennsylvania. Goods promptly shipped to all parts of the United States. Send for catalogue and price list, mentioning this paper,

He Stood the Test Bravely.

A Woodward avenue dentist received a call the other morning from a couple whom he soon had reason to believe were lovers. The girl had an aching tooth, and as they entered the office, the young man said:

"Now, darling, the worst is over. Just take a seat, and it will be out in a minute."

"Oh! I daren't," she gasped.

"But it really don't hurt you any, you know."

"But I'm afraid it will."

"It can't. I'd have one pulled in a minute if it ached."

"I don't believe it."

"Oh, yes, I would.

"Has she got a bad tooth? asked the dentist.

"Yes, sir; it has ached for a week and I've just succeeded in getting her down here. Come, darling, have it out.

"Oh! I can't."

"But you must.

"I can't stand the hurt."

"Hurt! Now, then, I'll have one pulled just to show you that it doesn't hurt."

He took a seat, leaned back and opened his month, and the dentist seemed to be selecting a tooth to seize with his forceps, when the girl protested:

"Hold on! The test is sufficient. He has proved his devotion. Get out Harry and I'll have it pulled."

She took the chair, had the tooth drawn without a groan, and as she went out she was saying to the young man:

"Now I can believe you when you declare that you would die for me."

And yet every tooth in his head was false.—Detroit Free Press.

The Way to Sell a Horse.

Postmaster Saxton of Chicago tells a story of a well known horse fancier and a granger who had a couple of fine horses to sell. This rustic, who lives in an adjoining county in Indiana, came to town with a letter of introduction to this connoisseur, who has an irresistible liking for fine horse flesh and the money to gratify it. The writer of the letter of introduction specially urged the city friend to take a more than passing interest in the man from the country.

The farmer drove his horses to the gentleman's residence and gave him the letter.

"Are your horses blooded?"

"Yes they come of fair stock."

"Can they make good time?"

"Yes, pretty fair time."

"What do you ask for them?"

"Oh, I think that $300 or $400 will about suit me, because I am deucedly hard up just now."

"My friend," said the city man. "I've just bought a pair of horses or I would take those off your hands, but let me say to you that you don't know how to sell your team. You ought to ask at least $1500 as a beginner, blow about their wonderful speed and brag about their bearing and pedigree. I know a man who wants to buy a team, but you must not approach him as you did me. He will never take your horses. If you are stiff in your price and do some bragging I think I can find you a customer. Drive past my office on La Salle street at 10 o'clock in the morning two or three times and come in when I shake my handkerchief.

In the morning the granger did as he was directed, the handkerchief was shaken and he was beckoned to come in. In the office was the man he had met the night before and his friend.

"That's a fine team you are driving; is it for sale?"

"Well, I dunno?"

"Have they a pedigree?"

"You bet they have. It's as long as the pedigree of Queen Victoria."

"Do they hold their heads high?"

"Why, half the time they are half way in the clouds."

"Can they make good time?"

"Greased lightning ain't a circumstance."

"What do you ask for them?"

"Fifteen hundred dollars and not a continental cent less."

"Well," said the man to whom the letter of introduction was presented the night before. "I'm looking for just such a team. The price suits me. Come to my office across the way, and I'll give you a check and take the horses." The farmer was almost paralysed, because he thought that $600 or $700 would be the outside figure. And he went home to Lake county satisfied that "those fellows up in Chicago are smarter'n chain lightning."

WHITE

SEWING MACHINES.

It was Crowned so when it took the First Premium at the Cincinnati Centennial in 1888, at the Great Contest, but more so when it took the

GOLD MEDAL

At the Universal Exhibition at Paris, France, in 1889, for being the Best Family Sewing Machine

In the world. It is applauded as such by the 800,000

Sold since its introduction in 1877. Its superiority is acknowledged, though with many regrets, by thousands who had bought other new

SEWING MACHINES

Before they had seen the merits of the

WHITE

Ladies will find it greatly to their advantage to examine the merits of "THE WHITE" before buying a Sewing Machine.

"THE BEST IS ALWAYS CHEAPEST"

in the end. An inferior Sewing Machine is a poor investment at any price.

A Matter of Impotance to You!

If suffering from long-standing Chronic Diseases, Diseases of the Blood, Skin and Nervous System, as those suffering from

EYE, EAR NOSE AND THROAT TROUBLES

J. J. McCLELLAN, M. D., Specialist on Chronic Diseases.

MORITZ SALM, M. D., Specialist on Diseases of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.

They will visit this country every four weeks, thus saving their patients the trouble and expense of visiting the city, as they are the only physicians and surgeons in this country who carry their own Manaskins, Models, Diagrams, etc., to illustrate and make plain to all afflicted the cause and nature of their diseases.

DR. MORITZ SALM, the great German oculist, will be here and perform all operations on the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat without pain and in less time than any other living oculist. This will give his patients and others who are in need of medical treatment an opportunity to consult this distinguished physician, whose duties at the Institute will permit only monthly visits to your community.

Major J. M. Davidson, ex-President of the Lawrence County Wool Growers Association, and a citizen well known in the county, freely gives the following testimonial of the ability of Drs. McClellan & Salm. The Major says:

I was suffering greatly from Polypus and Inward Piles. I had tried local treatment and much medicine with no avail. I read the advertisement of Drs. McClellan & Salm and I concluded to give them a trial. At their last visit to the city they declared me cured, and they discharged me. I feel now like a new man. They did everything they agreed and treated me courteously. They did me a world of good and relieved me of all suffering.

I have been suffering from Insomnia (sleeplessness) and general nervous prostration depending from the former disease for more than three years. I became so weak that I could not be on my feet for more than a hour at a time; appetite was miserable. I went to the Mt. Sinai Hospital, in New York city, but without the least benefit. I put myself under the care of Drs. McClellan & Salm, who visit home doctors, began to grow worse and worse. Mrs. J. P. EMERY, Wampum, Pa.

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH.

I have been under treatment of Drs. McClellan & Salm for two months for Catarrh and Deafness and consider myself greatly improved so far. MRS. J. GUERAN, Rock Point, Lawrence Co., Pa.

YOUNG LADY'S EYE STRAIGHTENED.

On May 18th Drs. McClellan and Salm performed a cross-eye operation on my eyes without pain or loss of blood, and to-day my eyes are as straight as any one's, and I can see a
