unknown among them. No less superior is their endurance. When it comes to traveling for a whole day, they will go faster and further than any thoroughbred. It is needless to say also that few thoroughbreds equal them in beauty, breeding for excessive speed having had a tendency to substitute the angular lines that are associated with a ling. thoroughbred, in place of those beautifal curved lines in which the courser of the desert is moulded. Moreover although the Arab be small, his weightcarrying power is by no means small. In fact, in the moving parts, the Arab is not small but large. He is almost always big, little "un;" and his gaits are so tel, and the former remarked after some clastic and springy as to make him pecufarily fit for the saddle.

Such is the Arab horse, and yet although we import horses by the hundred from England and France, we bring almost none from Arabia. There is, however, just one pure-bred Arab colt in this country, the property of Mr. Randolph Huntington, of Rochester, N. Y., who and smoke a cigar that I was saving for enthusiastic defender of Arabian and larly that way I'd be drunk and broke Clay horses. How Some Accidents Occur. The frequency with which some unloaded guns are discharged with fatal results is suggestive of the suspicion that some of the alleged deplorable accidents are the result of deep design. These peculiar accidents reminds one of a conversation that occurred between two negroes. "What has yer dropped in dat paper?"

"Dat's a pistil; one of dis heah pistils what's easy on de trigger, what cocks hitself and shoots hitself off." "Whaffor does yer want a pistil? Can't

Effects of Coffee

Coffee owes its stimulating and refreshing qualities to coffetne. It also contains gum and sugar, fat, selds, casein and wood and fibre. Like tea, fit powerfully increases the respiration, but, unlike it, does not affect its depth. By its use the rate of the pulse is increased and the action of the skin diminished. It lessens the amount of blood sent to the organs of the body, distends the veins and contracts the capillaries, thus preventing the waste of tissue. It is a mental stimulus of a high order, and one that is liable to great abuse. Carried to excess, it produces abnormal (wakefulness, indigestion, acidity, heartburn, irritability of temper, trembling irregular pulse, a kind of intoxication ending in delirium, and great injury to the spinal functions. Unfortunately, there are many coffee tipplers who depend upon it as a drunkard upon his dram. On the other hand, coffee is of sovereign efficacy in tiding over the nervous system in emergencies.

Coffee is also, in its place, an excellent medicine. In typhoid fever its action is frequently prompt and decisive. It is indicated in the early stages before local complications arise. Coffee dispels stupor and lethargy, is an antidote for many kinds of poison, and is valuable is spasmodic asthma

Asiatic cholera. It is also excellent as a preventive against infectious or epidemic diseases. In districts rife with malaria and fever the drinking of hot coffee before passing into the open air has enable persons living in such places to escape contagion.
