

The Somerset Herald.

EDWARD SCULL, Editor and Proprietor.

WEDNESDAY, July 3, 1891.

They have excellent crops in Iowa this year, and the Democratic calamity does is played out.

You can hear the corn grow and the potatoes in the hill calling each other to lay over. Good Republican tariff weather, this.

It is worth observing that the party lustily shouting for free trade and free coinage is most obstinately opposed to a free ballot.

Is the McKinley tariff bill no oppressive to the poor, why are the millions of the country flocking to our shores? Are they hunting for protection or free trade?

Since the 1st day of March, 1889, until including the 30th day of June, 1891, the public debt has been decreased $25,257,000.00. A pretty good showing, we take it for this Administration.

OUR Democratic brethren are not much encouraged by the low price of the present harvest. They look on past experience that good crops and general prosperity make a short crop of Democratic votes.

SEASON PREFER wheat cheap but good money. Cheap things may be good for the moment, but what is that but cheaply paid. American labor is not cheap labor, but high priced, and therefore the best in the world.

THERE is only a little upward of $50,000,000 of cash in the United States Treasury, and yet hundreds of Democratic editors with not enough spare money to buy bait for a fishing spear are shouting "bankrupt Treasury" at the top of their voices.

THESE the Cleveland Administration "fine San brought for the army equipment blankets priced from $5 to $25 for them. This year he buys the weight and style, and the equal in all respects, all wool made at home, for just three dollars and thirty cents.

IN Boston instead of imprisoning the men who sell intoxicants, they have a law, which went into effect on the first of this month, to imprison all drunkards. The country will watch with curiosity the result of this new method of producing temperance reform.

WHILE the Democrats are howling about the billion dollar debt, they never mention the fact that in twenty-one months of the Harrison administration it has applied $246,000,000 to the redemption of bonds, and has thus effected a saving of $1,500,000,000 in interest.

THE statement of United States Treasurer Foster issued on the 1st inst. shows that for that day the net cash balance in the Treasury was $53,829,808.83, and yet the Democrats are "keep shouting" that the Treasury is bankrupt, hoping thereby to bring on a panic and ruin the business of the whole country, merely for partisan purposes.

OUR Democratic friends are in huge glee over the so-called revolt of the Philadelphia Independents against Quierin. Without entering into the merits or demerits of the "revolt," it strikes too loudly in the index. Hunting with a brass band is not the surest way of capturing the "varmint." There is an old adage that "forewarned is forearmed."

THE monthly Treasury statement clears away the mistletoe with which the country has been flooded with partisan papers for partisan reasons during the past two weeks. Two great facts stand out in bold relief as a complete answer to the assertions that the Treasury has no cash on hand and that the nation is virtually bankrupt. The surplus in the Treasury is $53,829,808.83. The Treasury has ample money for current needs, and ample money for future contingencies. There is no bankruptcy in these figures and conditions.

Mrs. MARY ELLEN LEASE, high priestess of the Farmers' Alliance in Kansas, declares that Kansas politicians have tried to poison her. She also charges that the murder of Col. Sam Wood, of Hughton, last week, was the work of a Republican ring. And yet Mary Ellen is not a bit crazier than her male colleagues who are demanding sub-treasurers for the storage of their products in their own homes, and making us pay for it.

One of the most enthusiastic Republican convention ever assembled in the State of Iowa convened on Wednesday last week. It is felt by both political parties that this campaign is to be a decisive one and its effect on national politics is fully appreciated by every politician of the Hawkeye State. The Republican party is thoroughly united, for the first time in many years.

The nomination of Hiram C. Wheeler for Governor was secured in advance, upon the platform issue was substantially a reiteration of the party principles of two years ago. The threatened break over the financial question never came, and it is likely the free-coinage matter will be almost lost in the other stirring issues that are to agitate Iowa politics for the next coming four months.

The platform as finally adopted in Iowa the McKinley tariff law in the warmest terms, and particularly commends the reciprocity provisions and its interpretation by every politician of the Hawkeye State. The platform plank of the McKinley tariff is reaffirmed, and the Democratic party and the Democratic local officials are arranged for conspiring with the law-breaking element for the violation and non-observance of the prohibitory law.

FOR Governor the name of Hiram C. Wheeler, of Osceola, Sac county, was proposed, and he was nominated on the first ballot, amid great enthusiasm.

HANNIBAL HAMLIN DEAD.

The Ex-Vice President Expires Suddenly in a Club-room.
BANGOR, Me., July 4.—Ex-Vice President Hannibal Hamlin died to-night at 8:15 o'clock. He was down to-night at 8:15 o'clock. He was down to-night at 8:15 o'clock. He was down to-night at 8:15 o'clock.

There is More Money.
A leading city of the third party agitation, echoed by the Democratic leaders, is that the country wants, needs, and must have "more money." The argument is that there is not enough circulating medium properly to transact the growing business of the growing nation. There may be some truth in that assertion.

Question—To be Put.
The Republicans in Ohio and in Iowa should never miss an opportunity of demanding from Democratic speakers an answer to these questions:

When the Republicans assembled four years later, in 1874, to again name a Presidential ticket, Mr. Hamlin was scarcely mentioned as Mr. Lincoln's associate on the ticket for a second term. The choice fell upon Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, who had been President upon Mr. Lincoln's assassination by Booth.

When the Republicans assembled four years later, in 1878, to again name a Presidential ticket, Mr. Hamlin was scarcely mentioned as Mr. Lincoln's associate on the ticket for a second term. The choice fell upon Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, who had been President upon Mr. Lincoln's assassination by Booth.

When the Republicans assembled four years later, in 1886, to again name a Presidential ticket, Mr. Hamlin was scarcely mentioned as Mr. Lincoln's associate on the ticket for a second term. The choice fell upon Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, who had been President upon Mr. Lincoln's assassination by Booth.

When the Republicans assembled four years later, in 1890, to again name a Presidential ticket, Mr. Hamlin was scarcely mentioned as Mr. Lincoln's associate on the ticket for a second term. The choice fell upon Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, who had been President upon Mr. Lincoln's assassination by Booth.

When the Republicans assembled four years later, in 1894, to again name a Presidential ticket, Mr. Hamlin was scarcely mentioned as Mr. Lincoln's associate on the ticket for a second term. When the Republicans assembled four years later, in 1902, to again name a Presidential ticket, Mr. Hamlin was scarcely mentioned as Mr. Lincoln's associate on the ticket for a second term. The choice fell upon Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, who had been President upon Mr. Lincoln's assassination by Booth.

When the Republicans assembled four years later, in 1906, to again name a Presidential ticket, Mr. Hamlin was scarcely mentioned as Mr. Lincoln's associate on the ticket for a second term. The choice fell upon Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, who had been President upon Mr. Lincoln's assassination by Booth.

When the Republicans assembled four years later, in 1910, to again name a Presidential ticket, Mr. Hamlin was scarcely mentioned as Mr. Lincoln's associate on the ticket for a second term. A MYSTERIOUS LAKE.
The Great Desert in Southern California is a mystery.

A special from Yuma says the Colorado desert basin at Salton, sixty miles west of Yuma, is rapidly filling up with fresh water from a subterranean passage believed to be connected with the Colorado River.

The fact that Bardley would come up for sentence to-day was not generally known, so the District Attorney sent information to the court, and asked that sentence be passed on the prisoner, there were not more than 30 people in the court room.

Mr. Alexander, counsel for Bardley, reviewed the statements made by his client, and appealed to the court for mercy on the ground of Bardley's plea of guilty and his services to the country.

Judge Wilson's severe words caused Bardley the most palpable distress. When the prisoner stood up to receive his sentence, he looked almost unrecognizable.
