A Dangerous Habit.

"I can tell you," said a prominent physician to a representative of The Gall, "what is a fruitful source of disease."

"And what is it?" "In riding in the street cars you have no doubt seen passengers, particularly women, take a piece of coin from a pockethook and place it between the lips while waiting for the conductor to come along. It is a habit formed by many and a most dangerous one."

"Why?" "Did you ever for a moment think," continued the physician, "where a piece of coin may have been before it came into your possession, to what use it may have been put, or where its place of lodgment was? I have known many instances in which coins have been used to close the eyes of leprous Chinamen.
