A Newspaper Correspondent Witnesses a Faneral Train Received by the Spirits of the Dead in a Suburban Cemetery. He Was Wide Awake.

I was proceeding leisurely on foot to Broadgreen, when on passing the church at Knotty Ash my attention was suddenly arrested by the strange and uncanny appearance of its graveyard. The time was shortly after midnight. The whole burying ground seemed alive and distening with a thousand small bluish lights, which appeared to creep in and out of the different graves, as if the departed spirits were taking a midnight ramble. I stood petrified, not knowing what to make of it, at the same time experiencing a feeling of horror which anddenly took complete possession of me.

Just at this moment the moon, which had hitherto been more or less obscured by a moving panorama of passing clouds, came, as it would seem, to my assistsuce, giving me for a very short time the benefit of her companionship. And now appeared the most startling phenomenon of all-a phenomenon which sused my hair to stand on end with fright, a cold numbness of horror paralyzing me in every limb, for, advancing up the road directly opposite to me, came a funeral train, the coffin borne along with a measured tread, covered with an immense black pall which fluttered up in the midnight wind.

At first I thought I must surely be dreaming, and thereupon pinched myself in the arm to ascertain if this were really the case. But, no: I certainly was not, for I distinctly felt the nip, and was thereupon satisfied as to my wakeful-"What could it all mean?" I asked myself, as the cortege gradually approached me and I began to distinguish the general outlines of the bearers. These appeared to be elderly men and to have lived in a bygone age.

All were dressed in the costume of the latter part of the Eighteenth century. They were tie wigs, and some had awords, as well as walking sticks mounted with deathheads. I observed only one really young man among the crowd of followers, walking just behind the A GHOSTLY CORTEGE.*

His youth in comparison with the others, perhaps, made me take especial notice of him. He was dressed in what appeared to be black velvet, the white- uniforms as the firemen, but there was a news of his ruffles standing out in marked row over that and now they are distincontrast to the somber nature of his gen- | guished by red stripes. eral attire. He carried a sword, had diamond buckles on his shoes, and wore his powdered hair in a cue. The face were also the faces of all the others accompanying him. Instead of the procession advancing to the gate at which a few vards' distance.

As the coffin was borne through this gate all the blue spirit lights seemed to tege for the purpose of escorting the awful lights added considerably to the the way of water. ghastliness of the scene as they floated over the coffin and heads of the mournline, finally disapp back of the edifice.

Where this most extraordinary funeral went to er what became of it I cannot to the question. tell: but this much I distinctly aver. that coffin, mourners and lights-even the pale, flickering moonlight-all disappeared as mysteriously as they came, leaving me standing in the darkness transfixed with astonishment and fright. Upon gathering together my somewhat scattered senses I took to my heels and never stopped running till I found my-self in my own house. In fact, I scarcely remember how 1 got home.

AFTERTHOUGHTS. After recovering a little from the shock I immediately aroused a female relative who had retired for the night and related to her the above particulars. She assured me that I must have been mind, and at the same time knowing my called supernatural phenomena, she came possibly have seen what has been de- and is on the watch for fraud. scribed above.

The next day I made inquiries in the tained from a very old woman that she remembered a story in her youth having reference to the mysterious and sudden she thought, at midnight, in old Knotty my especial benefit, or was it a portent intended to foreshadow the coming of the dread visitor to myself?

Now, as I have before stated, I am no believer in ghosts, but certainly this remarkable experience of mine has entirely upset all my previously conceived notions of the subject, leaving me in a quandary of doubt. On the evening upon which I saw the mysterious funeral at Knotty Ash I was exceedingly wide awake, had met several cyclists on the Prescott road with whom I conversed. Strange that a few hundred yards farther down the road I should encounter so ghastly an experience—an experience I shall never forget to my dying day,-Liverpool Post.

A New Use for Diamonds. A use for diamonds, as an assistant to marksmen, has been discovered. Rome No Larger Than Brooklyn. The exaggerations of Vossius, Lipsius and Chateaubriant, who give to imperial Rome 14,600,000, 5,000,000 and 3,000,000 of France and Germany forms the great of inhabitants are too absurd to deserve notice. Hume, who, in his masterly essay on the "Populousness of Ancient Nations," has discussed the question of the population of Rome with his usual great ambitions and Italy has strong dearning and good sense, arrives at the ion that Rome, when at her zenith, might have been as populous as London in 1760; in other words, that she might have had from 700,000 to 800,000 inhabitants. Gibbon estimated the population at 1,200,000, but it would appear that the more moderate estimate of Hume is the more accurate. The population of Rome at its largest, therefore, did not exceed that of Brooklyn in 1801. Brooklyn Eagle.

The Flight of the Stork. The stork is a remarkably picturesque bird; its snowy body contrasting with the bright red beak and legs and black handed, she would not be able to overquill feathers of the wings, make it a striking object. The flight is magnificent, bolder and more buoyant than that of war. It is therefore still, as twenty of a heron. Like most large birds, its years ago, France and Germany who a great height. MEN WHO MAY BE SEEN IN THE RUINS OF A CONFLAGRATION.

Strange Things Happen That Ordinary People Would Never Dream About. The Work That Firemen, Policemen, Patrolmen and Adjusters De.

After the fire is over, what then? The average citizen sees only a heap of smoking ruins and thinks that nothing resains to be done but to clear them away. and build anew. But to the initiated the details of the work are manifold. There are four bodies of men actively oncerned with the ruins.

First, the firemen. They distrust the red dragon. He may be lurking under any of the heaps of bricks, ready for a fresh outbreak. So they do what they call overhauling. They turn over all the stroking pales and drench the embers and wet down the neighboring walls and remain on guard until everything is cold, Sometimes they have to wait nearly a week, and their work after the are is very laborious, as in the Park place fire, where so many lives were lost. Three days after the fire was over there were still fifty firemen at work on the ruins getting out the bodies and watching the place to make sure that no flames would start up again. Many of these fifty men worked for forty-eight hours incessantly, with only three hours intervals for meals. At the great fire that destroyed the Havemeyer sugar refinery it was more than a week before the ruins were cold enough to be safe.

Second, the police. They protect the firemen from the crowds of citizens who ome to look on and the property resmed from the rabble who come to loot. They draw what is called a fire line about the burning building and keep it up after it is burned till the work of the iremen is done. Third, the fire patrol. This is a professional band of property rescuers, maintained by the insurance companies. It was organized forty years ago, and was then composed entirely of members of the volunteer fire department. In 1863 it was incorporated under a charter which commissioned it to save lives and property at fires. In the first place it really was a patrol, walking about the streets from 7:30 o'clock each evening till 540 o'clock next morning looking for fires. Now it is called to fires in the same way as the regular fire department. Its men used to wear the same

The patrolmen usually work under the firemen. The fire patrol follow the firemen and fix things up, saving all they can for the insurance companies and stopping all unnecessary damage. When the firemen and police have gone away the fire patrol stays with the agents of the owners, guarding the goods till the insurance is settled or the rescued property is removed to a place of safety.

After all is said and done at the fire proper, come the insurance adjusters oking about the ruins. This is a small, high priced body of shrewd and experienced men, whose business is to find out on behalf of the insurance companies how much the loss was. An insurance adjuster will always tell you that his is suffering from mental hallucination, but a judicial function, just as a district atseeing the great perturbation of my torney always contends that he is acting judicially, though the prisoner may not natural skepticism with regard to all so think so. Chellan & Saint. The Major says:

I was soficing greatly from Polypus and invased tills. I had tried local treatment of the McCollan & Saint and I could have been a trial. At their less visit to the city they declared me cured, and they die had now like a new man. They did everything they agreed and treated me cured may die had now like a new man. They did everything they agreed and treated me cured may do now like a new man. They did everything they agreed and treated me cured may do not be former discard for more than there years. I because on what that I could not be more than there years. I because to weak than I could not be more than though the laws with readile. I went to the Mt. Sinal Respital city, but without the least benefit. I put myself under the war of the McCollan & action to the Mt. Sinal Respital city, but without the least benefit. I put myself under the mass of the molecular a law of the court had and hearty calling health.

MADE THE LAME WALK WITHOUT CRITCHES.

For eight manths pass I haven't been able to walk without a pair of crutehes. Further home doctors, began to grow worse and cores.

I have been under treatment of Drs. Methelian & Subm for two months for Catarrh and Dunis and consider myself greatly improved so for. Mrs. J. Coccessary, face Point, Lagrence Ce, in Young Labor's SEE STRAIGHTENED.

On May Inib Drs. McClellan and suim performed a cross-eye operation on my eyes act, pain or loss of blood, and to-day Dy eyes are as staight as any mose, and texa are a great det.

CATARRE.

I have been auffering with Catarrh for some years. Tried several doctors, but no good sent mutil I consmitted Drs. McClellan & Salm, whose whose treatment I have been the last four man and I have so greatly improved that I know little control when the course of treatment with tends and I have so greatly improved that I know little control when the course of treatment with tends.

EIGHT FOLIP! REMOVED FROM THE NOSE.

Drs. McClellan & Salm have removed cight Folips out of true mostrils to day without alread as pain or loss of blood, and in by far less time and in a more entities only meaning than I best done has before at Pittsburg. I can draw more breath with comman and nearner than I best done has before at Pittsburg. I can draw more breath with comman and nearner than I best done has before at Pittsburg.
