DEATH ON THE RAIL.

Edward Wolfensberger Crushed to Death at the S. & C. Station. Ed. Wolfensberger, a popular young brakeman on the Somerset & Cambria railroad met with a horrible death at the station in this place about midnight of Tuesday, Tuesday morning. While making a coupling between one of the engines and a car of his train, local freight, it is supposed that he fell upon a loose rail. He fell between the rails and before he could recover himself the wheels on the next car of the rear track of the tender crushed his right leg from the knee to the hip and his left hip into a pulp. His left arm was cut off between the elbow and shoulder, and when his trainmen rushed to the scene in response to his agonizing shrieks for help a frightful sight met their view. The unfortunate young man was tenderly lifted into a blanket and carried into a hospital at Conowingo, Md., and others of his crew. Physicians were promptly in attendance upon the sufferer and a few minutes before ten o'clock an engine was attached to the caboose and started on its last journey to Rockwood.

Wolfensberger, a conscientious workman after he had been removed to his home at Rockwood. He asked those about him if they thought he had any chance of recovery and told how the accident happened. He said he was just as he was about to step forward to make the coupling he found that his gun shoe had become loose to the rail and he was unable to extricate his foot before the wheels came upon him.

He bade his wife and family good by before he was taken to the hospital. He was accompanied by the physicians, prior to dressing his wounds. The physicians were helpless. Death was inevitable and came to the sufferer at 15 minutes past 11 o'clock.

His death has cast a gloom over all the household of his wife and family. He was a well-known and popular young man in the employ of the R. O. R. R. Co. His untimely and unnatural death was a severe shock to his home and friends.

He was the second son of David Wolfensberger, the well-known proprietor of the Rockwood House, and leaves a wife and a young babe.

Death of Wm. B. Frase. William B. Frase, for many years a prominent business man of this place, and Vice President of the Somerset County National Bank, died shortly before ten o'clock Wednesday morning. He had been afflicted with a complication of troubles for a number of years, and two weeks ago he was seized with grippe, which developed pneumonia. His condition had been very critical for several days preceding his death, but towards his physician and family looked for a favorable termination of his illness. The direct cause of death was heart failure. He was in his 62nd year, and was a son of Michael Frase, of New Kentville. He leaves a wife and two children—Mrs. Marian Frase, of Stratton, Ill., and Watson, a resident of Wilkesburg. William B. Frase was a good citizen in every respect, and during his life he was a resident of this town. He had the esteem and confidence of all our people. Shortly after removing to Somerset he entered into partnership with the late Absolom Casbeer in the general merchandise business, which he conducted until his death. He was a member of the Somerset Baptist church, and was a member of the Somerset Lodge, No. 1, of the Order of the Good Templars. He was a member of the Somerset Lodge, No. 1, of the Order of the Good Templars. He was a member of the Somerset Lodge, No. 1, of the Order of the Good Templars.

Moonshiners Held for Court. The Fayette county "moonshiners," an account of whose arrest was recently published in the Herald, were given a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner McDonalds last week. Deputy Collector P. A. Johns, who was injured in the raid by his horse falling upon him, was able to present and give his testimony.

John Taylor, who is regarded as the leader of the moonshiners, is a middle aged man. He wore a pair of gum boots and a large, white slouch hat, pinned up at the sides. He was very nervous that morning while listening to the evidence of Johns and the other witnesses in the afternoon. And he was opening a large farm near where the still was located. The other prisoner was James McAuliffe, a West Virginian. He is a young man, perhaps 20 years of age. He claimed to be a visitor to the still, and when Commissioner McDonalds fixed his bail at $1,000 he wanted it lowered. "I am innocent, and can prove it," said he.

"Yes, he is an honest man," broke in Tinkey. "He oughtn't to be held at all." But the Commissioner held him in default of $1,000. Tinkey held in $2,000 bail, explaining that he was well off, and owned a farm. "That is too much," said Tinkey. "I can give $1,000 bail. The whole family is sick, and there is no one to do anything for them. Commissioner McDonalds finally fixed the bail at $1,000, and Tinkey got it. James H. Miller, a Fayette county farmer, went on his bond. Miller says he bailed Tinkey on account of his own family, and says that the two prisoners were being handcuffed together by Deputy Gardner, Matheyne committed crying. There is no evidence against him, excepting that he was found at the still.

The cases will likely come up at the March term of court at Scranton. The prisoners who can get bail will not be tried till the May term of court that meets in Pittsburgh.

Pennsylvania Pensioners.

Representative Atkinson, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill in Congress on Tuesday last to grant pensions to members of the Pennsylvania militia who were disabled during the last war while under the command of officers of the United States.

There were a number of regiments of Pennsylvania militia whose services were tendered to the Government at different grades of the war, and who were commanded by regular officers, and yet who were not mustered regularly into the service of the Government. They risked their lives in defense of the Union as those who had been mustered into regular service, and Mr. Atkinson thinks that they should be pensioned, at least when disabled while fighting for the militia.

The Ohio militia was tendered to the Government in the same way, but before they were discharged the details of that State took means to see that they were mustered regularly into the services of the Government, and they received pensions the same as other veterans, but the Pennsylvania militia, who were not present entitled to pensions when disabled. This injustice Mr. Atkinson seeks to remedy by this bill.

Mrs. A. E. Uhl. Non-Suit in a Railroad Damage Case. The suit of William Cypher against the Huntingdon and Broad Top Railroad Company which has been pending for the great length of time, was dismissed on Wednesday. Cypher was a carpenter, employed by the Company in their repair-shop at Saxton. On July 23, 1890, the plaintiff, while repairing a car on the repair track, had one leg cut off and the other rendered useless. He brought an action in trespass for $25,000 damages. The court directed a non-suit, after hearing the plaintiff's case, on the ground that his injury was sustained partly by his own negligence. Prior to the suit the Company had offered to compromise by employing the plaintiff at a salary of $30 per month during the continuance in office of General Manager Gage. An appeal will be taken.
