"I do say that the enormous sum paid in the way of pensions is a double handship on the people of the South. It is a hardship because it is drawn not from the wealth or property of the country, but from its consumers. And it is a hardship because that part paid by them is transferred from the South to the homes of these soldiers, thereby depleting from year to year the money in circulation. From all these causes it results that there is a dearth of money south of the Ohio River,"-Speech of Patterson of Tennessee, in the House, Morett 2.
