

Why I am a Republican.

I am opposed to the Democratic party, and I will tell you why. Every State that seceded from the United States was a Democratic State.

Every enemy this great Republic has had for twenty years has been a Democrat. Every man that shot Union soldiers was a Democrat.

Every man that wanted the privilege of whipping another man to make his work for nothing and paid him with lashes on his naked back was a Democrat.

Every man that impaired the credit of the United States, every man that swore we would never redeem the greenbacks, every man that wanted the rights of American citizens at home, and if necessary we will march an army into any State to protect the rights of the humblest American citizen in that State.

I am a Republican. I am a Republican because the Republican party says this country is a nation and not a confederacy. I want to know if you are content that you took your money from your friends and made you fight for it—I want to know if it is not bound to fight for you.

Free labor, love, affection—they have invented everything of use in this world. I am a Republican. We have got the first free country that ever existed.

Now, my friends, I want you to vote the Republican ticket. I want you to swear that you will not vote any enemy of human progress. Go and talk to every Democrat that you can see.

Where did Shakespeare get his genius where did Mozart get his music? Who hand wrote the lyrics of the Scottish plover and stayed the life of the German priest?

When I was with Sherman down south, I said the private haltingly, as if he were hard work to talk, "we had good applications in the mountain regions from Union men, that had kept themselves out of the enemy's hands, to join our army and nearly all of the able-bodied ones got in."

Lincoln, the Immortal.

From Henry Waterman's Louisville Courier-Extra. From Oscar to Bismarck and Gladstone the world has had its soldiers and its statesmen.

Queen Victoria's Cows.

Not a gentleman farmer in England is fonder of taking prizes at county fairs than is Queen Victoria. Of late years this has been Her Majesty's chief source of pleasure, and she treasures the medals won by her better and chosen and the premiums carried off by her cattle above the prizes of her Eastern subjects or her German relations.

When she is at Balmoral not a day passes that she does not personally inspect the home farm, as it is called, and now and then advise as to the larder and cheese making, in which she is especially interested. Her dairies are almost Dutch in their exquisite cleanliness, the best stalls being tiled in blue and white china, and the milking done by maids, after the cool old English custom.

It is said that the produce of these model farms is sent to London, and that Her Majesty's Majesty turns many an honest penny in this way. Well, if she does, what matter? It adds to the interest of farming, no doubt, to make it profitable, and also to be congratulated upon her success. At Windsor a herd of American buffaloes is kept, and recently an attempt was made to cross them with some Scotch cattle. Here also is the famous poultry house filled with cocks and hens that have taken prizes all over the United Kingdom.

How to Manage a Wife. A New York husband confesses that, with respect to his wife, he has resolved: "To avoid, carefully avoid, all angry disputes and arguments. To stop all threats and penalties and all attempts that will force her to carry out my wishes. To try and please her in every possible way. To never refuse her any request I can possibly grant. To leave the house and children entirely to her management. To give her the money promised her regularly and punctually when I owe it. To avoid borrowing of her. To speak to her when I am spoken to. To remain silent when she is out of temper or complaining. To avoid asking any favors or assistance of her; to grant her as many as she asks for, if possible. To tell her no tales and to impart no confidences except where it is unavoidable. To feed her a great deal of taffy—she is very fond of it. To send her and the children away to the country for three months in the year for her health—and a rest."

Get There at Last. Mrs. Init—My husband has always been ambitious to reach a condition of life when he would not have to work. Mrs. Jones—And has he reached it? Mrs. I.—He has. He has just been appointed to an office under Tammany.

Fin, Feather and Fur. It is generally agreed among naturalists that the tortoise is the longest lived of all animals. There is a chicken living at Seymour, Ind., which is said to have four wings and four legs. The mole can swim excellently and it often sinks wells for the purpose of obtaining water to drink. The Guadalupe bee lay their honey in bladders of wax, about as large as pigeon's eggs, and not in combs. While fishing for tarpon near Florida recently, a man landed a saw fish 11 feet 10 inches in length, which weighed 22 pounds. Deer are so numerous in parts of Michigan that the total destruction of the wheat crop is threatened. It is a violation of the law to shoot them.

Didn't Want to be Tempted. The old soldiers' club was called to order by the veteran and he named Private Griggins to tell the opening story. "When I was with Sherman down south," said the private haltingly, as if he were hard work to talk, "we had good applications in the mountain regions from Union men, that had kept themselves out of the enemy's hands, to join our army and nearly all of the able-bodied ones got in."

True Love.

A young man at the risk of his life saved a beautiful girl from drowning. Her grateful father seized the rescuer of his daughter by the hand and in a voice trembling with emotion said: "Noble youth, to you I am indebted for every thing that my little life owes me. Which reward will you take—$20,000 or the hand of my daughter?" "I'll take the daughter," replied the hero, "rejoicing thereby to get both the girl and the money."

"You have well chosen," replied the grateful father, "I could not have given you the $20,000 just yet, anyhow, as I have not had up that amount, being only an editor, but my daughter is yours for life. Take her and be happy. God bless you, my children."

How to Bring Up a Son. Make him the brightest and most attractive place on earth. Make him responsible for the performances of a limited number of daily duties. Talk frankly with him on matters in which he is interested. Distinctly the creature of some special providence, baffling the wit of man to fathom, defeating the machinations of the world, the flesh and the devil until their work was done, and passing from the scene as mysteriously as they had come upon it; Luther, or St. Shakespear, Burns, even Bonaparte, the avenger of his father's name, and not to go back into the dark ages for examples of the hand of God stretched out to raise up, to protect, and to cast down.

Stub Ends of Thought. We must not only look ahead but we must go ahead. The man who loves only the faintest is usually stuck on himself. We forget all about the beauty and fragrance of the rose when we find a bee in it. Death and time ends where eternity begins. Happiness is only a possibility. A smile is the same in all languages. Some men act without thinking; more think without acting. Satan keeps his office open day and night. It is difficult sometimes to determine between a broken heart and a torpid liver. Judge to woman arrested for shoplifting "when did you begin this sort of thing?" Woman (weeping)—I began by picking my husband's pockets at night while he was asleep. The descent was easy.
