"Why I Am a Republican."

From the Nw York Press.

I am a Republican, first of all, because I believe in the political principles of the Republish party. Foremost among these is rotection to American industry. Just now this is the leading national issue. It is forced to the front by a savage and persistent attack that is made against the protective system partly in the interests of foreign manufacturers, partly under the influence of a coterie of free trade theorizers who know a good deal about books, but nothing at all we must have. I am opposed to the about business, and partly in accordance whole tariff system from beginning to with the general Democratic idea of opposing end. Meanwhile the Republican party, from the as national as its flag. It should be as day of its birth until now, has been the party of freedom, progress, union, honesty, honor; the party to which whatever is best in the young manhood of each generation gravitates. The Republican party freed the slave and saved the nation. It preserved the country's credit. It made a depreciated currency good as gold. It settled the Alamoney, and will veto any Democratic bama claims by an arbitration that combined "peace with honor," It joined the Atlantic to the Pacific by lines of transcontinental railway. It gave to our government a formost place among the nations of the earth. Its men have been commensurate with its measures. Good Terms-He Says Pattison Will Be a Senatorial Candidate Against Him. JACKSONVILLE, FLA., Sept. 26.-United States Senator M. S. Quay passed through here yesterday on his way North from St.

Lucie. A local newspaper man had the temerity to ask him: "Do you think any effort will be made to placate you before the November election ? "I don't know why there should be," replied the Senator. "I don't know that placating. My relations with President Harrison have been cordial, as far as it was mary for them to be. When I've wanted anything of him, I've always gone straight to him for it, and I've generally gotten it. The newspapers have had a good deal to say about our strained relations, and | DWELLING HOUSE,
