Mr. Howells has given the title of "The Coast of Bohemia" to his new novel of American girl life which is about to be published in The Ladies' Home Journal. The greatest style of the story that "it is about the prettiest thing I have ever done."

"Have who run?" was the frantic cry of Napoleon to his army at Waterloo. Save health and strength when you can, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, is advice that applies to all, both young and old. Don't wait until disease fastens on you; begin at once.

The series of reminiscent articles of "My Father as I Recall Him," by Mamie Dickens, the oldest and favorite daughter of Charles Dickens, will begin in the next issue of The Ladies' Home Journal by an entertaining narration of Dickens' personal habits, and an inner glimpse of his home life.

A telegram from Greensburg says: Frank Yeary, of Ligonier township, a cousin of the notorious Neely brothers, who were hanged for the murder of old man Umberger, was arrested at Latrobe, charged with stealing $6 from Will Kuhns, his cousin. Nicely confessed to the crime.

Wm. Musgrave, son of Henry Musgrave, of Stonycreek township, met with a serious accident last Wednesday afternoon. He and others were working at Samuel Forney's stone quarry when all at once a bank caved in and partially buried Mr. Musgrave and broke his left thigh. He is about twenty-five years old, unmarried and lives with his father.—Berlin Record.

At 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening E. B. Kemp, of Johnstown, and Miss Jennie Davis, of Stoystown, were united in marriage at the "Old Clark Homestead," in Stoystown, by Rev. R. B. Carroll, late pastor of the Stoystown Circuit of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few friends. The bride was the recipient of some handsome and costly presents.

The unusual spectacle of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, of the State sitting as a judge in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of a county in the State was witnessed by a large crowd in the criminal court room at Pittsburg, Monday morning, when Chief Justice Paxson charged the grand jury as to what constitutes treason against the State in the case against the members of the Homestead strikers advisory committee.

A apple more than a foot in circumference and more than a pound in weight is somewhat of a rarity but we saw such a one last Tuesday. It belonged to Mr. Jacob Bolley and grew upon an apple tree in his lot in Berlin. It was of the King of Thompkins county variety and measured 12½ inches in circumference and weighed 16½ ounces. The tree bore a great many more nearly as large.—Berlin Record.

The Postmaster General has decided to issue what will be known as the Columbian series of postage stamps. The stamps will be of the same width as the present series, but will be long, the increased size being thought necessary in order to properly display the illustrations. They are intended to commemorate the discovery of America by Columbus. It is expected that the entire series will be put on sale January 1, 1893, and next year will entirely supersede the present series.

In addition of his ability as a dead shot several members of Uhlings's banking fraternity have made up a $125 purse for Jim Speers, the hero of the shooting affray at Coffeyville, Kan., who brought down three Daltons. It is proposed to buy a gold medal with the money. Not will sympathizers stop here. A prominent bank officer has made inquiries as to the financial circumstances of the families of those citizens who fell under the bandits' guns and suggests a movement to relieve their embarrassments, due the the removal of their breadwinners.

Johnstown Daily Herald of Saturday: Details of an accident which happened about five miles from Sulphur Springs on Thursday afternoon reached this city this morning. The breaking of a saw in a mill was the cause. From what can be learned it appears that a man named Geoffrey was operating a portable saw mill on the lands of Harrison Patterson, and in order to get through at soon as possible the mill was being run to its utmost capacity. About 4 o'clock that afternoon the sawyer, whose name was Layers, neglected to properly inspect a log which was about to be sawed. A spike had been driven in the log years before, and, while the head of the spike was sticking out, it was not noticed by the sawyer. When the saw struck the spike the former broke into a great many pieces, while the log was thrown from its position and fell on Mr. Layers and a helper named Hoffner. When the men were removed from under the log it was found that each had a leg fractured.

There is a general complaint all over the county on account of a scarcity of water.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Coffroth, of Keyser, West Va., are guests at the home of Editor Coffroth of the Democrat.

Mr. A. P. Beachy, one of Elklick township's foremost citizens, was circulating among his Somerset friends to-day.

Arrangements have been made to celebrate Columbian Day, October 21st, in this place. The programme appears elsewhere in these columns.

The name of the post office at Griffin, on the S. & C. R. R., has been changed to Listie, in honor of the "Listie Mining Company" located at that place.

A large number of the members of the Somerset bar are in Pittsburgh this week attending the Supreme Court. Several important Somerset county cases will be argued.

Country roads were never in better condition than they have been during the past six weeks, and offer great inducements to all who have teams and time to make use of them.

Hon. B. F. Meyers and wife, of Harrisburg, were in Somerset for a few days last week. They make an annual pilgrimage to their old homes in this county and are always welcome visitors.

Twenty-four new houses have been erected in this place during the past year, twenty-one of them dwelling houses. Meyersdale claims to have erected forty and Hyndman ninety buildings during the same time.

Mr. John Benford, a prominent contractor from Johnstown, was in town to-day looking after some work for the Listie Mining Company. Mr. Benford still retains an active interest in Somerset county, notwithstanding he removed from here about forty years ago.

Directors of the Poor, Weller, Dickey and Miller, left for Erie, Monday morning, for the purpose of attending the Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania Poor Directors Association. They were accompanied by their clerk and attorney, L. C. Colborn, Esq., who is president of the Association.

Owing to an insufficient supply of water with which to replenish their boiler the electric light people were unable turn on the light Saturday night as was expected. A new well is being drilled at their power house this week and it is probable that the light will be turned on next Saturday evening.

Committees having programmes for local teachers institutes in charge can have them inserted in the HERALD by mailing them so that they will reach us not later than Wednesday of each week. They will only be printed on the outside pages of the paper. Reports of institutes will not be published unless of unusual interest. By bearing this in mind correspondents will do the HERALD a great favor.

The HERALD wishes to join Mr. Charles Weimer's many friends in extending congratulations on his marriage. Mr. Weimer and Miss Annie B. Young were married on last Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. Isaiah Pile, in this borough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Harkey, of the Lutheran church. Mr. Weimer is one of Somerset's most popular young men. He and his wife started to housekeeping at once in a home the groom recently had built.

Great interest is being taken by farmers all over the State in the plowing match that will take place at the State Fair in Lancaster this week. B. J. McGrann offers a prize of $500 to the man who best handles the plow, and so great has been the rush of entries that Secretary Wilhelm has over five hundred applications from farmers who think they can win the purse. Secretary Edge, of the State Board of Agriculture, and Col. James Young, of Middletown, will be the judges in the contest.

Sheriff Good killed two birds with one stone last Friday. He took "Bobbie" Harding and Ed. Penrod to the Reformatory at Huntingdon, and after handing them over to the authorities of that institution he visited Alexandria, Huntingdon county, and arrested Charles Roseborough, who is wanted by the authorities of this county to answer a charge preferred against him by Miss Emma Spangler, of Stoystown. Roseborough was brought to Somerset and is now in jail.

Chairman Biesecker, of the Republican County Committee, publishes elsewhere in these columns a list of Republican meetings to be held in the different election precincts of the county on the dates named. Other meetings will be advertised as soon as arrangements for holding them can be made. J. D. Hicks, Esq., Republican candidate for Congress, will be present and speak at all meetings held during the week begining Monday, 24th inst. Able speakers will address all meetings advertised.

There are no flies on our town council, but from their action in regard to ordering the borough lamp lighter to cease lighting the streets lamps because they have contracted to have the streets lighted up by electricity some day, one may infer that they wear blind bridles. True the present method of lighting the streets has never been very satisfactory, but the old lamps manage to distribute sufficient light to guide pedestrians to their homes and they should be continued until the electric lights are turned on.

The Salisbury Star is after the late grand jury for refusing to recommend a new bridge connecting that town with West Salisbury. If the Star is not a little more moderate and a little less personal in the language it uses the chances are that its editor will find himself before a grand jury to answer a criminal charge. No doubt the people of Salisbury and Elk Lick are badly in need of the bridge prayed for and should have it, but we doubt very much whether any of them will subscribe to brother Livengood's intemperate and undeserved allegations.

With the departure of Mr. Henry Schell and his daughter, Miss Mary, to the west the latter part of this week, Somerset loses one of her most honored and upright citizens. Mr. Schell has been a resident of this town since boyhood—he is now well advanced in years—and has been honored by his fellow citizens on many occasions, who recognized in him a man of strictest integrity and sterling worth. We trust that Mr. Schell's lines will fall in pleasant places and indulge the hope that when he is through with labor he will return to his native village and spend his declining years.

Dr. Stanley Fundenburg, died Saturday of typhoid fever, at the residence of his mother, in Pittsburgh. He was the eldest son of the late Dr. George B. Fundenburg, well-known throughout this county, and was married to Eliza, daughter of Joseph Shriver, president of the First National Bank, Cumberland, Md., who with three children survives him. Dr. Stanley Fundenburg had been unable to follow his profession during the past fifteen years owing to the result of an injury he received by the bursting of machinery, on his farm near Cumberland, which developed paresis. The deceased was well acquainted in Somerset.

Last Wednesday afternoon the barn on the farm of William Saylor, a short distance from Meyersdale, was totally destroyed by fire with all of its contents. The fire was started by sparks from a steam thresher while all of the workmen were at dinner and before they could return to the barn the fire had gained such headway that it was beyond their control. The contents of the barn consisted of about 1000 bushels of wheat and a large quantity of oats and hay.

The loss is estimated at between $3000 and $5000, on which there was an insurance of $1,500. It is rumored that the insurance policy was rendered void through Mr. Saylor's neglecting to notify the company of his intention to use a steam thresher.

The judges of election in several townships have arranged to hold sham elections on the afternoons of the days when Republican meetings will be held in their districts. This is a very proper step to take in order to educate the voters to properly cast their ballots in November. From present appearances every elector will have to be well versed in the law in order to make up his ticket in legal form, otherwise it will be thrown out.

The Oil City Derrick, of Friday says: The Republicans opened the campaign at Clintonville last evening. A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in Thorn's hall, over which P. J. McGill presided. Hon. N. B. Critchfield spoke for over an hour on the tariff issue. His arguments were clear and logical and the speaker was frequently applauded. Mr. Critchfield was followed by Hon. H. F. James, John L. Mattox and Chas. Shaner. The meeting was the largest and most enthusiastic held in Clinton township for several years, and thoroughly aroused the Republicans to active work. Hon. C. W. Stone and Senator Critchfield passed through this city to-day on their way to Emlenton, where they will speak this evening."

The Johnstown Tribune is so jealous of Cambria county's reputation as a dahlia growing centre that it will not permit Somerset county to take advantage of a typographical error, and charges that the champion dahlia grower of this county wishes to revise his figures after he has had opportunity to re measure his stalk, roots and all; and hourly alleges that he referred to the height of his garden and not to a dahlia stalk when he gave the item to the printer for publication. Our champion only chuckles at the Tribune's childish claims in regard to the towering height the dahlia's of Walter, Buckey and Pual are claimed to have looked down from, and now insists that his dahlia stalk is not only the largest one, with or without a record, but that it contained the most beautiful dahlia flowers. The dahlia as a rule doesn't attract much attention from floriculturists, but the dahlias that grew on this stalk (not tree) which attained the unprecendented height of eleven fet seven inches, were of such bewildering beauty that men "came miles to see them." We will concede that Cambria county can beat Somerset growing "dasies" but when it comes to dahlia's they "are not in it."

Mr. John J. Schell, of this borough, met with an accident last Thursday afternoon which has rendered him bedfast and has given rise to serious apprehensions on the part of his friends. Mr. Schell was engaged in hauling some merchandise from his son's, P. A. Schell's store, to the railroad station. He was leading his venerable horse by Kruger's meat market when the horse took fright at a tide—to which it is said he has always shown a natural aversion—hanging in front of the shop. The horse started to run and dragged Mr. Schell for considerable distance before he was able to break away from him, finally throwing him to the ground and dragging the wagon over him. "Uncle Jacob" regained his feet as soon as possible and started in pursuit of the runaway, who had been halted by persons on the street two or three squares distant. Climbing into the wagon he drove to the station and delivered his commission; then driving to the stable he put the horse away, went into his house and to bed and sent for a physician. It was found that his limbs were frightfully bruised and it is feared that he sustained internal injuries.

A new candidate for public favor, the Somerset Vedette, made its appearance Saturday morning. The Vedette is a six column, eight page paper, neatly printed and well made up. Its local column are filled with well written matter and it begins life with a fair share of advertising patronage. Of course, the Vedette has come "to fill a long felt want" in the Democratic ranks and under the able editorship of Messrs. Tredwell & Kimmell we have no doubt it will meet with the success it will merit. The HERALD welcomes the Vedette and its editors to local journalism.

An original story, "Noel Hugsel," written by Miss Mary Black Clayton, a granddaughter of the late Judge Black, is an attractive feature of the Vedette's first number. "Noel Hugsel" tells the story of an unfortunate young French gentleman who was living many years ago on a tree in the northeast corner of the Lutheran cemetery in this place, after having been convicted of murdering a man named Long. Several years after the execution another man condemned to die for murder in an adjoining county confessed that he had killed Long. Miss Clayton tells the story in charming style and adds to it a touch of pathos with which it was never before invested, at least by the older residents of the county who learned the story from their parents and have handed it down to their children.

After Coal Lands.

Wednesday there arrived in this city a party of gentlemen from Philadelphia who put up at the Merchants' Hotel for the night. This morning they left over the B. & O. road for Stoystown, Somerset county, where they were interested in the purchase of coal lands. The gentlemen composing the party were Edward Saunders, W. P. Cochran, J. W. MacFallar, Thomas Parke, and J. E. DeYoung.

This morning, in speaking of their intention in regard to the purchase of coal lands, Mr. Cochran stated that they were making the purchase in the interest of a large Philadelphia syndicate which had been formed for the purpose of shipping bituminous coal to Philadelphia. He said that the price of coal was so high in that city that there would be considerable money for the company, which would ship coal to Philadelphia direct from the mines and would thereby reap the profit which goes into the hands of the brokers who deal second and third in the coal.

It is understood that an agent of another Philadelphia concern was up at Hoovers-ville last week with the intention of securing an option on some land there, but whether or not he secured it has not been learned. Somerset county coal seems to be in demand more than any other, although there is little difference between the coal of that and this.

The party returned from Stoystown Friday morning, and in speaking of their trip, Mr. McFallar, a member of the party, stated that they had not secured the option of an acre of land. Pittsburgh parties have recently been getting in their work in that locality and have secured options on every piece of ground they could get.

"These options," said Mr. McFallar "run from three months to three years. They are secured at the rate of about $2 a year to the acre. Thus a man who had $200 acres of land to sell would be given $400 for a year's option on the land.

"There is no doubt that Somerset coal is as good as can be obtained anywhere in the State, but when those Somerset county people want twice as much money for the mineral right as they did two years ago, then we draw the line and will let Somerset and Pittsburgh have the coal."

"It may be that in the near future we will return and see whether the Somerset people will agree to come down on their price. Some lands were offered us, but they were in such a position that it would require a little fortune to build a railroad to them.—Johnstown Herald.

Colors of the National Flag.

A correspondent from Meyersdale writes: "Please answer through your columns the meaning of the three colors in the National flag, especially blue."

This question is somewhat difficult to answer from the fact that the origin of the flag is involved in obscurity. It was adopted while the colonies still acknowledged the legal rights of the mother country. The colors of the stripes may have been suggested by the red flag of the army and the white flag of the navy previously in use. On June 14, 1777, Congress resolved "that the flag of the 13 united states be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." The colors have always been supposed to signify: red, defiance; white, purity; blue, true.—[ED. HERALD.]

Killing a Teacher.

From the Pitt Chronicle Telegraph.

Teachers and other persons who have had experience with refractory boys will know how to sympathize with Miss Alice Granger, a Canadian school teacher, who committed suicide from mortification at her inability to maintain discipline. Miss Granger had charge of a school at Chatham, Ont., and had been successful as a teacher until this season, when half a dozen big boys made trouble by refusing to obey the rules and by encouraging disobedience among the younger scholars. Appeals to the school board for assistance were of no avail, for some of the members were parents of the bad boys, and foolishly allowed their sons to bid defiance to discipline. The teacher then resorted to physical force, and attempted to flog one of the disobedient pupils. The rest went to his assistance and shamefully maltreated their teacher, who at once went home and took a fatal dose of poison.

The disobedient scholars and their foolish fathers are morally responsible for the death of Miss Granger, and it is a pity they cannot be reached by the law. It is a sad mistake for directors to wink at insurrigibility or to fail to uphold teachers in their efforts to secure discipline among their scholars. There are but few schools, it is to be hoped, where such a tragedy as this is possible.
