VOL. XLI. NO. 29.

SOMERSET, PA., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1893.

I know an old world country Where travelers never stray. Whose wood paths wind sequestered For miles and miles away; Whose fields of flowering grasses To shadowed dingles slant, Where elves are wont to whisper And nightingales to chant.

In calm contentment thrive, Gray haunts of it-il and sickle, Of devecte and of hive, Invention never invades them With descenting hand; No steem plow ever plunger Amid that placed land !

Mrs. A. A. Williams The village hinds wear smooks; Bleek Dobbin shakes her ribbons, For the Good of Others Dick Shepherd plies his crook, And dalay aprinkled barrows The Belfries overlook. Rev. Mr. Williams Heartily En-There, in that old world country dorses Hood's Sarsaparilla.
