WHEN?

If I were told that I must die to-marrow, That the next sun Which sinks should bear me For anyone.

All the fight fought, all the short journey

What should I do? I do not think that I should shrink or falter, But just go on,

Aught that is gone But rise and move and love and smile and pray For one more day

Say in that ear How should I fear?

Do Thou Thy will." I might not sleep for awe; but peaceful, tender My soul would lie All the tright long; and when the morning think that I could smile, could calmiy say, "It is His day." But, if instead a loand from the blue yonder Held out a scroll
